Nervous Women

Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Uterine Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous? How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly;" or, "Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice; nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, headache, loss of appetite. I could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night.

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me.

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

Tear Down AntiHearst Flag.

New York, Nov. 2.—A crowd numbering a thousand or more persons attacked and tore down an anti-Hearst banner in Union Square today. The banner was similar to the one put up in Park Row yesterday, and which was taken down last night by orders of Mayor McClellan, after a demonstration had been made by a large number in the city hall. Today a crowd gathered shortly after 12 o'clock and soon began an attack to tear down a red flag supported by a hand-labelled "Hearst." They succeeded in doing this, and then the police removed another flag, that of stars and stripes supported by a hand marked "McClelland." Underneath the two flags were the words "Under which flag."

Old Swedish Flag Hoisted.

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 2.—The old union flag was struck throughout Sweden this morning and the news that the ensign be complimented by salutes, the ringing of church bells and parades of troops. In Stockholm the whole garrison paraded and most of the population thronged the streets. At 9 o'clock the flag flown by Sweden before the union with Norway, from church vessels. King Oscar witnessed the parade from the palace and tens of thousands of citizens gathered in the vicinity and demonstratively greeted him.

THE TEXAN RANGERS.

First Fight With Indians in Which Revolvers Were Used.

John Coffee Hays was reared on a farm in Wilson county, Tenn., being born there in 1817. At the age of eighteen he migrated to Texas, where, during the struggle of that Mexican province for independence, he served with distinction in the military campaign conducted by General Sam Houston, being noted for his bravery and strategy. After the termination of that conflict Hays was placed in command of the small regular force that was shortly afterward organized and became known to fame as the Texan rangers. Many were the desperate fights in which he was engaged with the fierce Comanches and border Indians, and innumerable were the perils which he encountered. He was the first to supply an armed force with Colt's revolvers for use in battle.

The Indian mode of warfare in those early days was to draw their enemy's fire and then sweep down upon them like a whirlwind, plying their bows and using their long spears with deadly effect. So cautious were they in this respect that they soon distinguished the double barreled gun when it was brought into use and only approached when they were sure that such weapons had been emptied. On the first occasion when Hays and his rangers, armed with the revolvers, met a band on the warpath they allowed their fire to be liberally drawn, and then the Indians charged with exultant cries, but when the revolver was brought into play at close quarters the panic that ensued was absolute and the destruction of the Indians complete. Hays was colonel of the First Texan regiment, the nucleus of which was formed of veteran rangers.

CEMETERY VAULTS.

The Building of Them is a Profession in Itself.

The vault was the size of the usual cemetery vault—one small room, roofed, floored and walled with granite, an ordinary vault—and yet the undertaker said it had cost $25,000.

"But there is no carving on it," objected the man who thought of buying a lot. "It is as plain as a pipestem, and all the stone it contains could be bought for $10,000 or less."

"True, true," said the undertaker. And he pointed to another vault that might have been the first one's twin. "That only cost $15,000," he said, "a saving of $10,000, but the broker who bought it got abominably stuck."

"The cheap vault, you see, was built, as a house is, by an architect and an ordinary builder. It looks good. It will last for centuries. But, by Jove, it leaks like a sieve! After every storm it is flooded, and two of the cemetery attendants have to charge up a day's time against the owner for cleaning it out."

"Vault building is a profession in itself. To make for a vault a waterproof roof of enormous granite slabs is an art that only the vault builder understands. When the ordinary builder, no matter how proficient he may be, undertakes this task he fails lamentably. The vault leaks. After every storm its floor is flooded."

"Therefore, if ever you invest in a vault let a specialist erect it for you. He will charge you a good many thousands extra, but he will give you a good, satisfactory job."—New York Herald.

Duck Ducks of the Chinese.

In China the duck is much esteemed as an article of diet, and what may be called duck farms are common on most of the rivers. The birds are taught to hunt for their food, and the rearing of them costs little. They are kept in boats with a platform or deck extending outward on each side. These boats are taken to the shallow, marshy parts by the banks of the streams, and the ducks are then driven ashore to enjoy themselves in the mud flats. So well are the birds trained that at a given signal they cease eating and follow their leader back into the boat, where they lie during the night. Ducks preserved by being salted are a favorite food with the well to do.
