Governor Broward and State Chemist Ross are on a tour of inspection of the Everglades.

The railroads will have no cause for alarm regarding rates at this session. Wait until after the holidays at least.

Mr. Armour is said to have lost $5,000,000 on wheat. That will be sad news for the meat consumers, who will be expected to make it up.

The assertion that the Italians that are locating in Texas are going to vote the Republican ticket is another proof that Cecil Lyon has not lived in vain.

Don't stop and growl at your luck. Keep on working and things will change, but luck won't have anything to do with it. Don't depend on luck, for pluck is the word.

While he does not say so in that many words, Secretary Wilson leaves the inference that the Republican party deserves the credit for the world's record-breaking crops.

Daytona is getting ready for the winter business. The postoffice has added 96 new lock boxes, the East Coast Railway has a new freight warehouse and the Southern Express Company has a new agent.

The Washington Post says if Miss Roosevelt had been offered an elephant she would have been compelled to take it. She could have disposed of it to the G. O. P. It apparently needs a new elephant since the last election.

Washington, the capital of the United States, has a colored population of ninety thousand, more than any other city in the world, and New York City follows with seventy thousand, and Chicago third with thirty-five thousand.

Major Gordon W. Lillie, "Pawnee Bill" has sold his wild west show to a syndicate of show men for $150,000. Major will return to his buffalo ranch at Pawnee, O. T., to engage in the raising of the now nearly extinct buffaloes.

Governor Pennypacker is greatly tickled over escaping the shot that was aimed at him by a hunter who mistook him for a "rabbit." Wonder how the rabbit would feel if he knew he had been mistaken for Governor Pennypacker?

London asserts that the United States has neither a financial or diplomatic interest in the present situation in Turkey. Possibly not, but London will at least allow us to gratify our curiosity by hanging round in the neighborhood so long as there's a scrap in prospect.

This is going to be a great winter for those gay old sea dogs in Congress. Secretary Bonaparte does not want any new battleships, the President wants several, and the general board of the navy is committed to three. It will take a long time to get the previous question put on that proposition.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

President Roosevelt's annual message to Congress is a very moderate state document on all subjects, even the reforms so devoutly to be wished. He cautiously approaches the subject of corporations and trade unions, evidently fearing their power, and has the same advice on railroad rate legislation as he presented a year ago, believing a commission should be appointed, and in cases where the rate is exorbitant to establish a limit in maximum and minimum rates, so that no favoritism can be shown.

Private car lines and refrigerator cars, he suggests, should be put under the control of the Inter-State Commerce Commission and a system of examination of railroad accounts established. The department of commerce and labor needs investigation and the condition of women in industry should have attention, to check any cause for disturbance in the social life of the country.

The matter of insurance is brought forth as needing stricter and more universal regulation, and when State supervision is inadequate to make it a National subject.

He does not say much on the tariff, expressing a desire to stand by the old rates, yet he hints at reciprocity. He asks for economy in the public service, a larger volume of money for legitimate business, investigation of the business methods of the departments, and does not want money from corporations for campaign purposes.

A peace conference at The Hague is desired, the strict enforcement of the Monroe doctrine to protect our small republics, and our fostering care extended to Santo Domingo.

The army and navy are praised, a big navy is recommended, a federal bureau of naturalization and more exacting qualifications for citizenship. He wants plenty of immigrants of the right sort, and expresses such a desire for them that he is willing the government should help pay the freight by hinting strongly at subsidizing some of the struggling steamship lines.

The Philippines should have more attention given to agriculture and less time to war, and the Dingley tariff reduced except on sugar and tobacco, and he wants the taxes in Hawaii reduced.

The Panama canal is all right and feasible whether at a sea level or with locks, the sanitation is all right and the only thing needed is money.

The message is not quite as stiff-backed as the people had looked for. It won't frighten the Senate or House.

DIDN'T EXPECT TO.

Speaking of noteworthy trees we rise to remark that Florida has more than one specimen of the plane tree of Asia Minor, so loved and admired by the Romans—which was worshipped in Asia for centuries. Hearing of a particularly fine specimen Xerxes marched two days out of his way to see it, and forty thousand soldiers of his Immortals stood in its shade at noon. But beautiful and remarkable trees are so common in Florida that when The Gainesville Sun gives in the list of them it does not even mention the plane trees of Florida.—Times-Union Short Talks.

Bless you, man, The Sun did not attempt to give a list of the beautiful trees and plants in Florida. We only desired to show that Florida has as rare flowers and plants as grow in California. Being just a little bit "cheesy" on Florida, believing it to be the best State in the Union, we object to people yapping about what California is, has and expects to have, etc. We don't take a back seat for health, and when it comes to resources Florida ranks among the top-notchers.

Evangelist Norworthy is holding revival meetings at the Springfield Methodist Church, Jacksonville, and is meeting with great success. It is thought he may yet save some of the people of that suburb.

INDUSTRIAL EDITION.

The Gainesville Sun came out in a magnificent industrial edition Sunday, which did the paper great credit and will do the county much good. Besides a thorough and well written history of the many advantages of the county and city, the edition contained many illustrations of its beautiful homes, public buildings, streets, streams and fields. The numerous advertisements were clearly the work of artists, and taken as a whole a more interesting and creditable effort is unknown in the journalistic fields of Florida.—Quincy Times.

The Gainesville Sun issued a very handsome industrial edition, a great number of which were distributed at the State Fair, and which will prove the means, we doubt not, of inducing many prospective settlers to turn their attention to Alachua county and its enterprising metropolis. The News has been favored with a copy of the issue, and in matter as well as mechanical make-up, the work is thorough and highly creditable.—The Lakeland News.

The Industrial Edition of The Gainesville Sun, published for distribution at the State Fair, is eminently worthy of the taste, enterprise and ability of its publisher, Hon. H. H. McCreary. It is in magazine shape, thirty-two pages, exclusive of cover, and is replete with valuable information about Alachua county, which is noted for its fertility, wealth and variety of resources. The advantages and attractions of the county are fully and ably described, which descriptions, added to the many handsome illustrations, will prove an advertisement of inestimable value. Every seeker of information about Florida should have a copy of this splendid paper, which may be had by sending five two-cent stamps to the publisher at Gainesville. In getting out this industrial edition, Senator McCreary has rendered his county an invaluable service.—Punta Gorda Herald.

A copy of the Industrial Edition of The Gainesville Sun reached our exchange table Monday morning and is without doubt a credit to that hustling paper and its owner. It is 36 pages in book form and in two colors of ink and is a great advertisement for the future University city.—White Springs Herald.

The Gainesville Sun, with that go-aheadness for which it is noted, has just gotten out an industrial edition, which is a handsome 32-page journal, beautifully and profusely illustrated with half-tone cuts and sets before the public the growth and industry of Gainesville and Alachua county. It is a great edition and its editors will accept congratulations of The Herald.—Bradentown Herald.
