AFTER WAITING HOURS HUSBAND SHOOTS WIFE

Woman Suing For Divorce Beat en Down by Husband.

WIFE CALLED ATTACK BRUTAL

Crutchfield Is Now in Grady Hospital With Injured Head—"Ac- cidental," Says Her Husband—Di- vorce Case Pending.

Atlanta, Oct. 27.—That J. H. Crutchfield, after waiting for two hours, met his wife on the veranda of her home at about 6 o'clock Thursday night, struck her on the head with the butt end of a Winchester rifle and fired two shots at her prostrate form as she fell into the doorway into the arms of her young son, is the statement of an eyewitness to the shooting of Mrs. Sallie Crutchfield at 300 South Pryor street.

Mrs. Crutchfield was painfully injured on the head and the calf of her leg was torn to pieces by a ball from the rifle.

It appears that the husband had been in the vicinity of the house since 4 o'clock in the afternoon with a Winchester rifle, waiting the return of his wife from the matinee. As soon as she stepped off the car at her door he approached her on the veranda and struck her on the head. At the time of the shooting Mrs. Crutchfield was ringing the door bell in an endeavor to get into her home, and her son, Paul, aged 12 years, was opening the door as his father began the attack.

The place of the shooting on the veranda was marked with pools of blood and blood was on the steps that led to Mrs. Crutchfield's apartments on the second floor of the house, where she lay in bed until the ambulance which had been summoned was on the way from Grady hospital.

Thomas A. Baldwin, who lives near the scene of the crime, stated that he went to the house on seeing the attack and helped to carry Mrs. Crutchfield to the room and that her explanation as they bore her up the steps was, "It was a brutal attack." Another witness states that Mrs. Crutchfield begged her husband to refrain from shooting, but that he paid no attention to her words.

Paul Crutchfield, the son, is said to have climbed on his father's back in an endeavor to make him leave Mrs. Crutchfield alone.

After the shooting Mr. Crutchfield walked up Pryor street and turned on Thomas Baldwin, who followed him. "Leave me alone, or I'll shoot you, too," Crutchfield is alleged to have said. However, W. H. Baldwin followed him at a distance until he reached Whitehall street and Trinity avenue, and then pointed him out to a policeman, who arrested him.

The injured woman was taken to the hospital in an ambulance and it is reported that she is not badly injured, although the wounds are of a painful nature.

The wound on the head brought forth much blood, as did the shot wound in the leg, but neither are necessarily fatal.

As far as could be ascertained on the scene of the shooting, Mr. Crutchfield said nothing to his wife before he struck her with the gun, but commenced the attack while she was trying to get in the door.

A divorce case between the two is now pending in the Fulton superior court, Mrs. Crutchfield charging her husband with brutality on several occasions. The couple had not been living together for some time. Mrs. Crutchfield had the upper floor of an apartment where she was attacked, letting out rooms to boarders and her husband lived elsewhere. No trouble between husband and wife was anticipated. It appears that Mrs. Crutchfield was ignorant of Mr. Crutchfield's presence until he came up on the veranda.

At the police station, Crutchfield insisted that the shooting was an accident, and that he had no intention of harming his wife. He stated that his life had been threatened by a man who is one of Mrs. Crutchfield's friends, and that he went to the house to "get him." He says that his wife grabbed the gun and that in the struggle to retain it, the gun went off, and Mrs. Crutchfield was injured. He declared that if he had wanted to kill his wife he could easily have done so. He was very much worried about her condition and wanted everyone to go to the hospital and find out how badly she was hurt.

For some time past Crutchfield has had trouble with his wife. She has sworn out peace warrants for him in Justice Landrum's court, all of which were dismissed. Besides this, she has filed petition for divorce twice, and now a third petition has been filed.

At the hospital it was stated Thursday night that it would not be necessary to amputate Mrs. Crutchfield's leg, although the shot from the gun has torn the flesh very badly.

Searching For Victims of Fire.

Kansas City, Oct. 27.—A systematic search for victims was begun Friday in the ruins of the Chamber of Commerce building in Kansas City, Kan., destroyed by fire Thursday. First the walls were pulled down and then a large force of men was put to work to remove the debris. Eight persons were still unaccounted for Friday morning. At the hospitals two of the injured were in a serious condition, but it is believed all the others will recover. Several of them were able to leave for their homes Friday. Three 10 per cent per month money lenders, who had offices in the destroyed building, lost much of their paper, including hundreds of dollars worth of notes. Alachua, Oct. 27.—Miss May Sealy and Mr. Edgel Guinn were married at the home of the bride's parents, on the morning of the 24th. The wedding was a quiet and simple affair, only the relatives and special friends being present. The groom is operator at Waldo, for which place the happy couple departed shortly after the ceremony. Friends and acquaintances wish them a bon voyage.

The Knights of Pythias gave a supper in the Stringfellow building on the evening of the 25th complimentary to their lady relatives and friends. The intention was to have an oyster supper, but instead of the oysters which failed to arrive, the good ladies prepared an elegant repast of salads, roast meats, pickles, cakes, etc. The supper was well attended and enjoyed to the fullest.

The High school girls will give a supper on November 2nd for the benefit of the piano fund.

Louis Sorcho, who distinguished himself at the scene of the Maine disaster in the harbor of Havana by rescuing bodies from the battered steel of the sunken battleship, and who is advertised as the most celebrated and expert diver in the world, is the owner of the show which has been booked for the Carnival.

Sorcho does some remarkable feats, one of which was recently performed at Chicago, where he remained under water ten hours and took a nap in his bathing suit. His exhibition is instructive as well as spectacular.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

By the Special School Reporter of The Sun—Many Items of Interest.

The enrollment is now 448. The average attendance for the past month, ending Friday, was 422, or a little over 90 per cent.

There were only a few cases of tardiness last week. On Friday the principal announced that, beginning with the second month, next Monday, every grade having no tardy pupils and no unexcused absences, would be given a half-holiday at the end of the month.

Chapel exercises are becoming a pleasant feature of the day's work. On last Wednesday we were entertained with a mandolin and piano duet by Misses Lottie and Florence Steckers. On Friday, by a piano duet by Miss Edith Bagley and Miss Inis Thomas.

The yard has been thoroughly cleared of litter, and the trees set out last year—every one of which is growing finely—have had the grass cleared from around them. As the principal said Friday morning, the yard begins to look like "folks" live there.

Examinations are over and we are all anxious to see our first month's report cards. We hope they will do our teachers credit—for we certainly have the best teachers in the State.

On Friday Capt. McBeath placed the following books in the school library for the use of grammar and high school pupils: "Plant Life for Little Children," "Stories From Life," "Harper's Second Reader," "Irish's Orthography," "Johnson's Fifth Reader," "Manual of English History," "Outlines of Roman History," "Questions on American History," "Historical and Biographical Stories," "Jones' Reader, Book 8," "Carpenter's North America," "Essentials of English History," "Our Navy in War," "Life of Robert E. Lee," "Successful Americans," "Makers of American History," "Harper's Fourth Reader," "Animals at Home," "Good Literature, Vol. 8," "Good Literature, Vol. 5," "Jones' Reader, Book 5," "Outdoor Studies," "Our Birds and Their Nestlings," "Carpenter's Africa," "Stories of France," "Stories of Ancient Greeks," "Stories of English History," "The Spanish in the Southwest," "Life of Stonewall Jackson," "Life of Nansen," "A Boy on the Farm," "Seaside and Wayside," "Stories of Our Humble Friends," "Story of the English People," "Short History of England," "Story of Lewis and Clark," "American Inventors and Inventions," and a number of others.

We will be especially busy next week getting our exhibit work ready for the State Fair.

We all know next week which grade is to carry the honor banner for attendance and good order for the coming month. The principal says that the contest is close between three or four grades.

The Democratic Society had a fine meeting Friday afternoon. The exercises were interesting. There were several visitors present, among whom were Mrs. Doig, Mrs. Pedrick and a number of the Episcopites.

TWO VESSELS ARE REPORTED LOST

Schooners Susan Bryan and Emma S., Missing.

OFF SOUTH CAROLINA COAST

It is Thought That the Boats and Their Crews of Four Men Each Were Lost Off the Coast of South Carolina on Last Saturday.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 27.—The schooner Susan Bryan and the Emma S., laden with cargoes of rice, are missing, and it is thought that the boats were lost, with their cargoes off the South Carolina coast last Saturday.

The boats had a combined cargo of nearly 7,000 bushels of rough rice valued at more than $8,000.

The crew of the boats consisted of four men each.

If the boats had gone ashore, it is thought that the men would have given word here of their safety, and the absence of this news, it is thought that the boats have gone down with all on board.

Willeford News.

Willeford, Oct. 26.—We are glad to know that Thelma Flowers, who has been in bed for the past week, is steadily improving under the skillful treatment of Dr. Wilson of Ft. White.

There was quite an excitement created on the streets last evening when Mr. B. L. Flowers turned out his pig, which he intends taking to the State Fair at Tampa, to run about and show himself a bit. It was quite a surprise, as he had not informed anyone of his intentions. He is continually receiving congratulations, as every one feels sure he will win the prize, they don't believe it can be best in the State of its kind.

J. R. Thomas has left town for a few days on business.

Messrs. Bliss and Lang, two wide awake drummers, were visitors to our little town this week.

The people of Willeford were highly encouraged when they heard it was reported around that the S. A. L. was going to put a through train to Jacksonville, as "peggy" is always two hours late. We wonder if the S. A. L. think that W. J. Bryan will be elected to buy her out, the reason why we can get any cars? If he does Heart will punch him off the roost sure.

Messrs. Connor, Randol and Kincaid can lay their fishing tackle aside until spring, as pork is splendid and they have lost their flavor.

J. M. Wright, manager of the Flowers Manufacturing Co., was in town last Saturday and stated that the business was on a boom, and that he was having six hundred ties placed on the road every day.

Cane grinding is on hand, and the young folks are anticipating a jolly time.

Forbid Marrying of Divorced Persons

New York, Oct. 27.—At the meeting Thursday night of the United Methodist Episcopal conference which is in session here, the committee on divorce in a report forbidding a pastor in the conference marry divorced persons. The resolution was passed unanimously by the conference. The resolution provides that any pastor in the conference who is accused of marrying divorced persons will be tried according to the discipline of the church and if found guilty will be expelled from the ministry.

Married Four Men.

New York, Oct. 27.—In the Tompkins police court, a cook, who was Miss Augusta Brunning, before she attempted marrying four men, appeared before Magistrate Steinert, charged with bigamy and was held in $500 bail for the grand jury after waiting examination. Of her four "husbands" three were in court. "I didn't know I was doing wrong by marrying the men. They were all so nice and sweet and I loved them all. Besides they worried me to marry them," said the woman.
