

LOCAL CONTRACTORS TO SHARE IN BUILDING

PRESIDENT OF COMPANY WILL SUBLET TO LOCAL DEALERS.

Actual Work Will Commence on the Building by Wednesday Morning With a Small Force of Men.

From Tuesday's Daily Sun: W. W. King, president of the King Lumber Company, has arrived from his home at Charlottesville, Va., and is now making the necessary preliminaries preparatory to starting work on the new Government building.

He was occupied all of Monday in looking at the different materials to be found here, and where possible will sub-let contracts for certain parts of this work. He wants to purchase all of his brick, sand, lime and rock here from the local dealers, and it is highly probable that satisfactory prices will be made.

In speaking of the building he stated that the actual work of excavation would commence by Wednesday or Thursday, but this will be mainly for the purpose of better understanding just what he will have to do in making room for the basement.

So far the only orders that have been placed are for the cement and steel work, and this part of the contract is being worked upon.

To commence with, only about fifteen hands will be employed, but within the next thirty days a force of from forty to fifty men will be at work on the building, for about this time the sand, stone, steel and other material will commence arriving and this section of the city will present a busy scene.

Mr. John Young, the superintendent of construction for the Ocala building, will also have charge of this building. He will retain his office at Ocala but will visit Gainesville every week to look after the work and material being used.

Mr. King is very favorably impressed with Gainesville. He has visited many sections of the city to look at the different materials to be found here for building. He speaks in the highest praise of the shade trees and the wide streets, and while we have received a very large appropriation for a town of our size, he now feels that our Representative in Congress knew what he was about when he asked for it, and considers that such a fast-growing city is deserving of the high-class building we are to have. There are few, if any, of the cities with a like population that have received what we have, and we should feel happy over the result of the work accomplished by our Representatives in Congress.

Mr. Young will at once visit the city and see that the work and material are all up to the requirements of the Government and it is hoped to have the building completed within the required time, which will be about fourteen months.

From here Mr. King will go to Selma, Ala., where his company have another like contract now well under way, but before his departure he will make all necessary preparations for the building and will place hustling men in charge of the work to complete it as fast as possible.

REMAINS OF MR. CHASE.

Services to Be Held from Home at 2 O'clock This Afternoon.

From Tuesday's Daily Sun:

The special train over the A. C. L. from Jacksonville bearing the remains of the late Chas. W. Chase arrived last night at 8 o'clock and the remains were met at the depot by a large crowd of sympathizers, including many ladies.

In the party on the special were Mrs. Chase, B. F. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Chase of Chicago, who were met in Jacksonville by Mrs. W. S. Prindle and C. D. Dennis. The party left New York City on Sunday night and arrived in Jacksonville yesterday afternoon, the special being made up and ready for them at the Union depot, and they left that city at 5 o'clock yesterday evening.

The funeral services will be held at the home today at 2 o'clock, and the remains laid to rest in the vault the deceased had constructed long before his death, just west of Evergreen Cemetery.

The funeral will be conducted by Revs. F. R. Bridges and F. H. Craighill, the services being public to all that desire to attend.

Dr. T. F. Thomas and R. McClellan have charge of the remains and last night placed them in the home of the deceased.

The following gentlemen have been requested to act as pall-bearers: W. R. Thomas, B. F. Williamson, E. E. Cannon, W. B. Taylor, Col. I. E. Webster, C. D. Dennis and B. F. Hampton, with the following as honorary pall-bearers: Col. H. F. Dutton, Byron Barnett of Jacksonville, Capt. John Inglis of Dunnellon, Capt. W. B. Denham of Tampa, Col. J. G. Nichols and N. G. Wade.

Particulars regarding the death of Mr. Chase were that he expired from heart failure, as he lived only a few minutes after a physician was called. He and his wife had just arrived at the Manhattan Hotel in New York City in the morning, and about the noon hour Mrs. Chase went out on a little visit but was to return in a short while, as they had an engagement with an oculist. She returned several minutes before the appointed hour and found Mr. Chase sitting in his chair in a rather dazed condition, as if her appearing had suddenly aroused him. She at once called to some ladies and among the number one summoned a physician, but he never recognized anyone or anything, and expired within a short while after her arrival, having had a severe convulsion, and she is of the opinion that he had been previously stricken to some extent before her return.

Mrs. Chase at once notified his brother in Chicago and he and his wife reached New York a short while following his death, but it was not until Saturday night that Mr. Williamson reached there.

The Dutton Bank, the Gainesville Furniture Company and a number of other business houses have signified their intention of closing during the ceremony, and it would be a just tribute for every business house of the city to close its doors today during the services.

LARGELY ATTENDED FUNERAL.

From Wednesday's Daily Sun:

All of the business houses of the city closed Tuesday during the hours for the funeral ceremony of the late C. W. Chase.

The services were held at the home on East Main street, and long before the hour arrived the home was filled and the street in front was well occupied with people and vehicles who had come to pay their last respects to the man who had done so much for Gainesville.

Revs. Bridges and Craighill conducted the service, which was very impressive, and in the remarks of the clergy they touched upon the successful career of the gentleman while engaged in business. The music was furnished by the Methodist church choir, who sang "Abide With Me" at the opening of the service, and closed with "Lead, Kindly Light."

From the home the remains were taken to the private cemetery of Mr. Chase, located just west of Evergreen Cemetery, where they were laid to rest in a large vault, constructed by the deceased about four years ago.

The floral offerings were the most elaborate and profuse ever seen in the city of Gainesville, a large ambulance being required to carry the offerings to the tomb. Friends of the deceased cabled from Germany to purchase for them a handsome wreath which arrived by express, and the local offerings were all handsome and expensive.

Jacksonville and Savannah were both represented at the funeral, besides quite a number of prominent phosphate and turpentine men from all over the State who had been associated with the deceased in a business way.

Mr. Chase came to this city about 25 years ago, at that time being a promoter of a cotton gin roller, but he was not here long before he realized the great possibilities of the phosphate field and engaged with H. F. Dutton & Co. in the phosphate business, which was practically controlled by him at the time of his death. The company some few years since purchased the interests of Ford & Hiller, and the Dutton Company was organized with C. W. Chase president, Col. H. F. Dutton, secretary-treasurer, and C. D. Dennis, general superintendent.

This phosphate business was only one of the many big undertakings of the man, for at one time he was largely interested in railroading, and it is stated that he made over a million dollars on his transaction for the J. & S. W., which was later sold to the Coast Line.

Mr. Chase's early life was spent in the schools of Massachusetts, and he was engaged early in life in a large shoe factory located near Lynn, Mass., but he disposed of his interests to invest his money in Florida.

He was possibly the most extensive real estate owner in this State, having at the time of his death about 40,000 acres of phosphate land and a great variety of fine city property. His interests include Spring Park Farm, turpentine interests, sawmilling and various private concerns.

Among other large schemes that he was promoting was the large dry dock and terminals for Jacksonville, which would have made this city the shipping point for a larger part of the phosphate rock now handled at Savannah. He had also largely invested his money in the proposed paper plant, and this was a certainty for Gainesville had not his untimely death put a stop to the operations temporarily.

His immense phosphate business will continue, and many of his closest friends are of the opinion that the paper mill will yet be established here.

Mrs. C. W. Chase and his brother, Frank H., will have charge of his vast estate.
