Personal and Social.

The measles have their grip on the Whiteville colored kids.

Mesdames C. H. Preston and L. C. Preston were visitors to Palatka last Tuesday.

Mrs. V. J. Herlong has gone to Barnwell, S. C., to be with her son, Henry, who is reported very ill.

W. F. Glynn is making heavy shipments of fruit these days and seems to be realizing good prices.

Mollie Icenhour, niece of Mrs. M. H. Read, is quite ill at her parents' home in Jacksonville, with scarlet fever.

Mrs. Will M. Miller gave a reception and whist party last Saturday in honor of Mrs. Dr. Sandusky, of Jacksonville.

Harry Chamberlin, who has been attending school in Tennessee, has gone to Oklahoma to take a good position.

The young people of the town had a most enjoyable dancing party at V. I. A. Hall on Thursday evening of last week.

Mrs. Rich, mother of Mrs. C. P. Hale, who spent last winter here, has returned and is at Mrs. F. S. Crotty's for the season.

Miss Gertrude Benham who has been attending the young ladies seminary at Montegale, Tenn., returned home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Staats, who are stopping at the Turner House, are expecting a party of friends this week from New Jersey.

A. M. Kendall went to Palatka on Tuesday. Mr. Kendall expects to have his new steam laundry in running order by next Monday.

Mr. Boyd, who is interested in the timber business at Shell Bluff, has rented the Deaton cottage and will bring his family here to reside.

Webb Chamberlin returned last week from the college at Northfield, Mass., and will remain through the holidays and possibly longer. He comes because of illness.

The very small sized tangerines, running as small as 280 and 250 to the half-box, wrapped, have been selling as high as $3.50 the strap in the New York market.

Mrs. Lee Bolton and little daughter, and sister, Miss Leon Dabley of Glennville, Ga., are here for a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hunter.

E. G. Sackett has retired from the draying business and has gone into the fish business. He is one of the town's old standbys, and all wish him success in his new enterprise.

The Crescent City section is the largest citrus fruit producing section in Florida. More boxes of fruit leave this place than any other single shipping station in the state. Not only biggest, but best.

The Lisnaro grove of Mrs. Collins B. Hubbard is shipping a big crop of fruit this year. This grove is cared for by Wallace Smiley, who has been diligent in his work and now sees the good results.

Miss Dessie E. Neal who has been in Alabama since early in November, is at present the guest of Mrs. Dr. M. Reeves, at her home in Birmingham. Miss Neal does not expect to return home before the middle of January.

This is the season when the average Crescent City man has money to create, but that he doesn't burn all of it is seen in the fact that the Bank of Crescent City increased its individual deposits by $21,000 during November.

The crowd around the postoffice these days on the arrival of the noon mail is larger than ever before. The Crescent City postoffice is rated only as fourth-class, while as a matter of fact, considering its cramped quarters, it is really first-class in its management.

Among the recent arrivals at the Turner House are Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Staats, Bloomsbury, N. J.; Mrs. Charlotte Bodine, Stockton, N. J.; Mrs. Louise Oakley, Elizabeth, N. J.; Mrs. E. Tomson, Clinton, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cobb, Miami, Fla.; Jacob Brown and Mrs. M. E. Overstreet, Galesburg, Ill.

Rev. Father Barry held his first Sunday service at the new Catholic church here last Sunday evening, there being a good attendance. Father Barry is very popular with Catholics and Protestants alike, and the church here would be deemed fortunate, could he come frequently and hold Sunday service.

Mr. J. G. Lyon one of the popular winter guests for several years at Grove Hill is again at that popular hostelry and forms part of a group of old timers who love to swap summer experiences and play auction pitch about the fire in the hotel office these cool evenings. Mr. Lyon is from New York.

Rev. J. H. Davis who has served the Howe Memorial Methodist church here for the past three years, preached his farewell sermon last Sunday morning. Mr. Davis, it is understood, has expressed the wish to be sent to another appointment the coming year. He is this week attending the Florida Annual Conference at Jacksonville.

County Commissioner Alvers made a vigorous kick to the bond trustees last week. Mr. Alvers says that by direction of the board of commissioners, the bond trustees were instructed to divide the hard road bond money equally among the five commissioners districts of the county; that in face of this arrangement the bond trustees have spent considerable more than one-fifth in the third district, and that they were arranging to take this excess off the first district. Mr. Alvers will have the support of all peninsula people in his kick, and he can't kick any too hard.

The oil for heating purposes in the groves of Thos. H. Stryker and B. F. Tillinghast was purchased of Capt. S. M. Labree, who is the agent for this section of the Standard Oil Co. The gentlemen above named have hundreds of little sheet iron heaters for use in their groves in case of cold, burning a crude oil.

Mr. Clore's Advancement.

Wallace B. Clore, who formerly resided here, but who went to Pittsburg several years ago to take a position in the fruit commission business, and who some three years ago went to Chicago to open a branch in that city for his firm, Crutchfield & Woolfolk, is now a member of the firm, the style of which is Crutchfield, Woolfolk & Clore. The New York Packer's Chicago correspondent in speaking of the change says: "Wallace B. Clore, who came here three years ago to take charge of the Chicago branch for Crutchfield & Woolfolk of Pittsburg, remains in charge, having acquired an interest in the business."

"Mr. Clore's success here has been the cause of favorable comment among his friends here and elsewhere in the trade. When he first took hold of the business three years ago Crutchfield & Woolfolk had no store here, but after his arrival from Pittsburg, he soon decided it would be necessary to get a salesroom and he found accommodations in the building at 141 South Water street, which appeared to be all that was necessary to transact what business would be necessary, but it was only a short while when the quarters became cramped, owing to the increased business."

"After investigation had been made regarding suitable leases it was decided that quarters at 97 South Water street would be ample for handling all the business in single and nearly two years ago the business was moved, but it did not take long to demonstrate that one of two things must take place—either to seek a still larger store and office or to quit for a regrettable loss of possible business that the memory of all the firm saw could be transacted with better equipment and facilities. Hence, the most recent change."

Mr. Clore lived here several years and was one of our most expert orange growers. He married Miss Marguerite Ward, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Ward of this place and they have prospered to a degree. Mr. Clore has risen to a ranking place in the commercial circles of the windy city, and they have a beautiful and happy home with several interesting children.

RIVERS OF ALASKA.

The Waterway Wonders of This Immense Territory.

Were the rivers not navigable there would be little done in the interior of Alaska today. First used by the prospector in his plying boat and the trader with his little steamer, they have become the means of opening up every camp that has been struck in the interior of Alaska.

The Yukon is very shallow at its mouth, which is about seventy miles in width across its delta. There are places 400 miles from the mouth of the river where the biggest Atlantic liners could navigate with ease, for there are soundings which show a ninety foot channel in a mile wide river. The Yukon is navigable for 2,100 miles. The Kuskokwim, a sister stream, has been navigated only on the lower reaches, but with its navigable branches is believed to have 1,000 miles of navigable water. The Tanana has been ascended for 500 miles and the Koyukuk in excess of that figure. Scores of other streams can be used by small steamers from twenty-five to 200 miles. Altogether it is safe to say there are 5,000 miles of navigable streams in Alaska. The Yukon opens for navigation the latter part of May and closes the latter part of October.

But with all its wealth of gold, its unheard call to toilers of the soil, its mountains studded with gems of riches—the lodes of veins of copper and other materials—this empire starves for the one thing that would make it thrive—Coal.

The Name Noah.

Not many persons are sufficiently acquainted with the Bible to know that Noah was the name of a woman as well as of the patriarch. At an inquest in England a female witness gave her Christian name as "Noah." The coroner remarked that he had never before known a woman to bear the name, whereupon the witness, who was well posted in the origin of her singular predilection, said: "It is a Bible name, sir; you'll find it in the last chapter of the book of Numbers."

Reference was duly made, and in the eleventh verse of the thirty-sixth chapter of the coroner found mention made of "Mahlah, Tirzah and Hogenah and Miriam and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad."

Bethraths in Germany.

In Germany an elaborate method of announcing the betrothal practically puts an end to all breach of promise cases. As soon as a couple become engaged the pair visit the town hall and declare their willingness to marry and sign, with witnesses, a series of documents which render a change of mind on the man's part practically out of the question. When either party wishes to withdraw from this agreement the pair again visit the town hall and additional documents are formally signed, witnessed and sealed. The authorities then determine the question of compensation for injured feelings, etc.

Ready For the Storm.

"I intend," the poet wrote, "to continue to storm the citadel of your affections."

"Storm away," she wrote back, "but I've just succeeded in getting in out of the wet by becoming engaged to a dear old man who has $9,000,000."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Smaller One.

Many stories are told of Tom Reed's sudden flashes of wit—as, for instance, when Miss Reed struck the earth in front of the golf ball and he said, "Hit the other ball, Kitty."—Portland (Me.) Express.

WANTED A JOB.

Therefore He Did His Best to Please the Manager.

A certain playwright relates how a manager was much annoyed by the persistent applications for a "job" made by a peculiarly seedy individual. Time and again the manager had referred this person to his stage manager, "See Blank," he would say, interrupting the man's attempts to set forth his qualifications.

At last the applicant did succeed in gaining audience of Blank, the stage manager, who was in the theater for the time "sizing up" candidates for the chorus.

There were, of course, a number ahead of him, but this fact did not prevent the seedy man from interrupting the stage manager between songs with requests for a job.

Exasperated, the stage manager at length turned to the pianist and ordered him to play an accompaniment for the stranger. With considerable hesitation the seedy person raised what voice he had in song. The result was bad as bad could be.

The manager suddenly commanded him to desist.

"What do you mean by this tomfoolery?" he demanded, disgusted. "You certainly have confounded impudence to ask me for a job!"

"Look here!" said the stranger, angry in turn. "I don't claim to be able to sing. In fact, I don't want to sing. I'm a stage carpenter. I only sang to please you because you insisted on it!"—Pearson's Weekly.

His Favorite Opiate.

Ushers in theaters handle some peculiar people during a season, but the experience of the employee of a Chestnut street playhouse was a puzzle for some time. A well dressed, middle aged man would secure an end seat in the front row almost every evening. He would tell the usher if he fell asleep he was not to be disturbed until after the show. No sooner would the orchestra play the overture than the usher would notice that the man was asleep. At the close of the night's entertainment some one would rouse the sleeper and he would leave with a polite acknowledgment. One night he explained his strange behavior: "I suffer from insomnia," he said. "The only relief I get is when I sit close to the drummer in an orchestra. There is something in the rhythmic beating of the drum that soothes me to sleep."—Philadelphia Times.

A Lottery Romance.

A few years ago, as the date for the drawing of the annual Christmas lottery at Madrid was approaching, a poor mechanic of Corunna was awakened three consecutive nights by the number 125,800, apparently spoken in his ear. So impressed was he by the repetition of the number that he wrote down the number and joyfully said to his wife, "That number will win the first prize in the great lottery!" "Then why don't you buy the ticket?" his wife answered jokingly as she looked at the figures. "Why, see, if you add them together they just come to my age. I shall be thirty-one on Christmas day." The ticket, after much trouble, was found it had been rejected a few minutes earlier by a wealthy citizen of Corunna and bought, and before many days had passed the mechanic and his wife were made jubilant by the news that the ticket had won the first prize of £200,000.—London Globe.

On the Installation Plan.

One day Robert said, "Uncle Will, how much do you want for those pups?"

"Oh, about $2 apiece," was the reply. "But, Uncle Will," said Robert, "what could I do with a piece of a pup?"—Delinquent.

"Why have you broken your engagement to Billy Stillwell?" "Oh, I couldn't stand for his stang. I tried to put him wise that father was sore on the phony talk, but he couldn't see to get up, so I pushed the skids under him."—Chicago Record-Herald.

HIS GREAT IDEA.

The Tin Plated Tomato and the Moral That Goes With It.

A good theory that won't work isn't half as good as a poor one that will.

Twenty years ago a young man just out of college had a great idea. He was going to tin plate tomatoes. There was to be no more troublesome paring and cooking and canning to preserve tomatoes throughout winter. It would be necessary only to drop a nice ripe tomato into his tinning solution and it would come out coated with tin and would keep for twenty years. In fact, there wasn't any reason why it should not keep forever! The young inventor figured it would cost him 50 cents a gallon to make this tinning solution. It surely would sell for $2 a gallon. Every one eats tomatoes—that is, nearly every one. Everybody would eat them if they could always have a nice tin plated tomato lying around. He ought to sell a million gallons a year. That would be a profit of a million and a half dol.—Well, no tin plated tomatoes are on the market yet, and the man who invented them is still making only $15 a week.

The moral of this is that whenever you bear of a great idea that is going to reform or uplift the world make sure that it is not of the tin plated tomato brand.—Chicago Tribune.
