Date Set for Launching.

Tuesday, Oct. 5th is the date agreed upon.

Miss Margaret Willard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Willard of this city, and a grand daughter of Florida's great and grand old commoner, Col. Robert W. Davis, has been selected to act as sponsor. No more charming young lady could have been selected in all Florida. She is the logical, and will make the ideal, sponsor for such a purely Palatka craft.

Steam Cutter Roamer Here.

The steam cutter Roamer, a yacht built on beautiful lines by and for the use of a New York multi-millionaire who got weary of the lapping waters and sold it to the State of Florida for use of its Shell Fish Commissioner, Col. T. R. Hodges, was in the river in front of Palatka yesterday on its way to the Volusia Bar.

The Roamer is a handsome craft and is fitted with every convenience for luxurious living. It is armed with guns like a regular revenue cutter and equipped with the latest Marconi wireless telegraph system.

Col. Hodges, State salt water fish commissioner is in command; the Gulf is for his use. It will be on the boat coast most of the time. In the late legislature the Shell Fish law was amended to include salt water fish, and under this provision Col. Hodges will be here occasionally to see that the shad fishing laws are respected. The cutter carries all the crew needed for a boat of its size—a captain, a mate, an engineer a pilot, a wireless operator, and a deputy commissioner; also a colored combination chamber-maid and cook of the male persuasion. Also a colored deck hand and stoker.

Shower For Bride Elect.

The ladies of the Monday night club gave a miscellaneous shower Tuesday afternoon at the beautiful home of Mrs. Howell A. Davis, for Miss Lulu Reed, the bride elect. The autumn tints were evidenced in all the decorations, goldenrod being used profusely. The receiving ladies were Mrs. H. A. Davis, Mrs. W. P. Merriam and Mrs. H. F. Leeks, Mrs. T. J. Barnett and Miss Lulu Reed, Miss Oma Davis received the gifts. The guests ushered into the living room where a large basket containing the gifts were set before the bride-elect, who proceeded to open the various packages and pass along for inspection and admiration.

Seventy ladies spent a most delightful afternoon and at the punch table Mrs. Leeks and Mrs. Alston Haile presided. Mrs. Norman Riles poured coffee. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Barnett in the dining room were assisted by Misses Olive Tighman, Grace and Louise Urie, Birdie Reed, Jouita O'Haver and Thelma Hyers. Peach sherbet, cake and coffee were served. Mrs. Merriam looked after the comfort of the guests.

The gifts were many and useful, in fact some of the fancy work was par excellence, showing that the recipient of these gifts was near and dear to those who spent many hours on the labor of love. The music of the afternoon was furnished by the victrol, and was a feast of good records.

Why Ford Uses Papers

Sneaking before the St. Louis Advertising club recently, C. A. Brownell, who has been advertising manager of the Ford Motor Company for some time said: "Our advertising department, in buying advertising, is absolutely devoid of sentiment, as in the buying of vanadium steel or any other merchandise. We figure that it is as much a part of the cost of producing an automobile as is the steering wheel or the carburetor, and we buy our advertising in as cold blooded a way as we do the steering wheel. For our purposes, we almost exclusively use the newspapers, because we find that through them we reach the people along the lines of least resistance.

"One of the reasons for selecting the newspapers is that we have learned to follow the local advertiser's lead. We have for a long time used the so-called national magazines, but I would rather, 10 to 1, insert a moderate sized copy in a newspaper than in any of the national magazines, because I know that there it will come face to face with the man who is going to buy a car alongside the intimate reading matter that is part of the daily reading. It is because of this possibility of getting in close personal touch with them that we use the newspapers, and I would rather be where the mass of advertising is, in the newspapers that carry the most than not. Place it in the paper that is most used."

Livingston's Bad Break.

Mme. Ida Crouch-Hazlett, orator of the socialistic party, was interferred with last Saturday night while delivering an address at the corner of Lemon and Second streets. Chief of Police Livingston it seems had informed the woman that she must not speak on that corner on Saturday. She persisted in doing so; when she began speaking he stepped up to her and asked her to desist; she refused and went on with her address; a moment or two later Mr. Livingston went to her and taking her by the arm helped her to the wall; and then with another officer walked her to the court house square, where he turned her loose, and where she continued her address.

The excitement of the occasion drew a crowd, the majority of whom sympathized with the woman. In her interrupted address she is said to have paid her respects to several citizens, the mayor and the offending chief of police. The woman has a good command of language and those who were attacked, had they been present to hear, would have been willing to admit that in vituperation "the female of the species is much more deadly than the male."

On Monday night a called mass meeting was held at the court house to protest against the action of the chief. A series of demands were made on he council which were presented to that body on Tuesday night; and referred to the police committee for action. This committee will report at the next meeting.

Mr. Livingston feels that he was carrying out the mayor's orders; but he fell short of them. The mayor was asked by Mr. Livingston if the woman should be allowed to speak on that corner on Saturday night. The mayor told him that because of the playing of the band and the general congestion at that point on Saturday night he would not speak there. She was told, but refused the order of the mayor.

As a matter of courtesy it is proper for those holding meetings on the streets to get a permit. Several have been refused in this city by the present mayor; they were advertised to speak against a certain religious denomination which is recognized as one of the great churches of the country and which has many adherents in Palatka who are among our best citizens. These thereupon spoke on private down-town property and in the court house. Mrs. Hazlett would not have been denied the privilege of speaking on the street, but it was the wish of the mayor that on Saturday night she select some other place for her meeting. She spoke from this corner on both Thursday and Friday nights and was not molested. She evidently intended to defy the request of the mayor and court arrest.

Mr. Livingston had no legal authority to go as far as he did; but he insists that he did not arrest the woman—simply "called" her defiance of his orders by marching her to a place where she would not be in the way. By doing so he gave her advertising which resulted in an audience and afforded a topic for real speech.

Important Action by School Board.

At the regular monthly meeting of the county school board on Tuesday the board made arrangements for the proper screening of the toilets at all rural schools against flies. This is in conformity to the State law passed at request of the State Board of Health and is only a part of the complete program of that board in destroying the breeding places of flies in all public places.

For State Championship.

The Palatka and Fernandina baseball clubs will play a game in Jacksonville today for the State championship, a concession on the part of the Palatka club and just to show there is no ill feeling.

The Fernandina club has made no record this season; but for the present series its backers have hired several of the Jacksonville South Atlantic League players, and these are the boys with whom Palatka is contesting for the championship. A big excursion will be run from Fernandina today to witness the game.

On Thursday at Fernandina, the Palatka club won the second of the series in a score of 8 to 4. On Wednesday the Fernandina club won in a score of 2 to 1. In this game Fernandina made its two runs in the last half of the ninth inning with two men out. A number of Palatkans will go to Jacksonville today to witness the final game.

Board of Trade Meeting.

At a meeting of the Palatka board of trade last Monday night, Capt. Moragne Husson of Jacksonville made an interesting talk calculated to arouse local enthusiasm for the organization of a military company in this city, the same to be one of the companies composing the First Regiment, F. S. Troops. Col. Hilburn, Judge Calhoun, Col. de Montmolin and others also spoke in favor of the formation of such a company and finally a resolution proffering the boards cheerful and active backing of the scheme was put through unanimously. A committee of some 15 members was appointed to work up a list of young men who will join the company.

Several other matters of importance were discussed. A committee was appointed to raise money to meet the deficit due the baseball players.

GIBRALTAR.

The Rock That Guards the Mouth of the Mediterranean.

Gibraltar was captured by the British July 24, 1704, and from that day has not been out of British hands.

At first little was thought of the importance of this stronghold. For the succeeding nine years the Spaniards made repeated attempts to recapture it. On one occasion they nearly succeeded.

A French and Spanish force having been collected on the isthmus that joins the rock to the mainland, a southern offered to show them a path up the sloping sides of the rock, which he had reason to believe was unknown to the British. This offer was accepted.

Five hundred troops ascended quietly one night and took shelter in a hollow called by the Spaniards "the little chair." At daybreak next morning they ascended higher, took the signal station, killed the guard and anxiously looked for expected reinforcements. The reinforcements failed to arrive. The armed garrison sallied out and drove the invaders down the rock. The "little chair" was filled up and the place made stronger than ever.

All subsequent attempts to capture the rock have failed. One of them was a siege by Spain and France, beginning in 1779 and not terminating until September, 1783.

The rock of Gibraltar takes on a more important bearing than ever in these days of big guns because of its commanding position at the mouth of the Mediterranean, where that sea is little more than twenty miles wide.—Exchange.

LITTLE ANDORRA.

The Tiny Republic That Nests in a Nook in the Pyrenees.

Andorra is a republic of 175 square miles situated in the valley of the same name in the Eastern Pyrenees. It forms an irregular little square plug between France and Spain and is a hotbed for smugglers plying between the two countries. It leads a semi-independent existence under the protection of France and the Bishop of Urgel, Spain. Charlemagne declared it independent in return for its services against the Moors.

In 1278 it was transferred to the Comte de Foix and the Bishopric of Urgel. During the French revolution relations between it and France were interrupted, on account of the refusal of France to accept the annual tribute, which was considered incompatible with a Republican form of government. In 1806, however, the former relations were renewed, and free importation of cereals, made necessary by the limited area of Andorra, was allowed by France in return for an annual tribute of 600 francs.

Andorra is governed by a council of twenty-four members chosen for four years by the heads of the communities. The revenue is derived from lands and a few taxes. The manner of life is very simple. Every able-bodied male is liable to military service between the ages of sixteen and sixty. The capital is Andorra, with about 1,000 inhabitants. The total population is about 6,000 and remains practically stationary.

The best way to get along with some people is to get along without them.

Still, if you find yourself in a rut, remember that a rut is the smoothest part of the road.

Biliousness and Constipation.

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feelings caused by biliousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. Y., writes: "About a year ago I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured me of biliousness and constipation." Obtainable everywhere.

BRINGING UP CHILDREN.

There Are Some Curious Customs In This Queer World.

There has been much discussion over the proper bringing up of children, but ideas continue to differ. And the farther you get away from home the stranger the ideas seem.

The Filipino father cries out with proud delight as his three-year-old girl baby takes her puff at her first cigar.

Among the Seri Indians of the gulf of California the father is the last one expected to have any influence on the children. The mother rules the younger members of the family, and when she must enforce her authority by physical force she calls, not on the father, but on one of her brothers or some other male adult of her family. The father must never chastise his children.

A Navajo father administers punishment to his children very much as any other father does, but the Navajo boy has a means of protection denied to white boys. He has only to catch a rat by his own unaided efforts. From the moment he has accomplished this feat, no matter how young he may be, his father may not lay hands on him.

The children of the Point Barrow Eskimos have special training in politeness to foreigners. In conversing with strangers who make mistakes in the native dialect children must carefully note those mistakes and repeat them, even to imitating the wrong pronunciation of words. To speak correctly in such a case is likely to bring punishment from the parent of the child.—New York Sun.

Retold For Choir Singers.

One of the wealthy members of a fashionable church in Boston approached her pastor with the complaint that she was greatly disturbed by one of her neighbors.

"It's positively unbearable," said she. "That man in the pew in front of us destroys all my devotional and pious feelings when he attempts to sing. Couldn't you ask him to change his pew?"

The good pastor was sorely perplexed. After a few moments' reflection he said:

"Well, I naturally would feel a little delicacy on that score, more especially as I would have to give a reason. But I will tell you what I might do." Here the pastor's face became illuminated with a happy thought. "I might ask him to join the choir."—Harper's Magazine.

Hard Luck.

"People can talk of their troubles," said Mrs. Wagleigh, "but I think Mrs. Jones has the hardest luck of any one. She is absolutely deprived by nature of enjoying a woman's greatest pleasure. She's a deaf mute and can't talk. She can only use her hands. Now, if that isn't awful tell me what is?"

Mr. Wagleigh looked up from his evening paper. "I met her husband this afternoon," he said, "and he was tickled to pieces. His wife cut her fingers with the bread knife yesterday, and now she can't talk at all."—New York Telegram.

Mr. Pinkley's Grievance.

"I wouldn't o' had no trouble wif de constable ner nobody," said Mr. Erasmus Pinkley, "if it hadn't been for woman's love o' dress." "What has dress got to do with it?" asked the jailer. "My women folks warn't satisfied to eat de mos' of de chicken. Dey had to put de feathers in deir hats an' parade 'em as circumstantial evidence."—Washington Star.

DON'T TALK WAR; TALK BUSINESS!

This expression isn't exactly original with us, but we use it because it so aptly expresses our theory of the cause of quiet business conditions.

A prominent banker tells us there is plenty of money in the country but that people are afraid to spend because the "war" has put pessimistic ideas in their cranium.

Forget it! Be optimistic! Loosen up and help prosperity back on the road again and give it a fresh start on its way.
