New styles in veilings just in at Hill's.

We have requested Mr. Detwiler, of New Smyrna to present the facts relative to the floating obstructions in the river at that place, which information will be found elsewhere. It would not be out of place for our local Yacht Club to take some action, and endeavor to have the obstructions removed at once, empowering a committee to act, follow the channel and report. The tourist season is upon us, and the waterways of the East Coast of Florida, should not be obstructed, as it is our duty, as citizens, to afford the stranger within our gates the most ample facilities to enjoy and investigate our resources of climate and soil without hindrance.

Buy the guaranteed trousers, "The Dutchess," of Moore Bros.

The very laughable comedy, "Married for Money," was presented to our drama loving people last night by some talented artists, and for two hours mirth bubbled out like the rippling waters of a gushing fountain, and highest enjoyment held a brilliant reign, and placed all thoughts upon "the windy side of care." Jack Core, as the "hen-pecked" Mr. Mortimer, was exceedingly fine; H. S. Mortimer, as the old man Mellowboy, was superb and kept the audience in a roar of laughter; Miss Layton, as Matilda, repeated her lines with fine effect, and moved around delightfully; Miss Vineta Elton was bright, vivacious, sparkling, bewitchingly and exquisitely graceful, while Miss Fay Charles gave a graphic and faultless characterization of a sour-visaged, ill-tempered and "horrid old woman." All in all, it was indeed most laughable, and everybody came away thoroughly delighted with the mirth-provoking comedy.—Raleigh Post. Opera House, December 19th.

Fancy thermometers at Clark's. They make a nice Xmas present.

The Palmetto Club held its first meeting of the season at their club rooms Thursday. The rooms looked especially attractive as several members had generously donated pictures for the walls. A piano adorned one corner, while the new Century occupied another. Roll was called and 44 members responded. It was noted with regret that one of its members had been called away since the last meeting of the club. A short address by the president followed, and then a Sonatina by Huhlan was given as a duet by Mrs. Huston and Miss Clark. Miss Thorp then read a paper on "Club Work in the South," which pointed out many channels in which other clubs are doing excellent work, and was quite an incentive to our own. A paper followed, read by Mrs. Graham Thompson, on the educational advantages of pictures in the school room. During the intermission tea was served, Mrs. Weeks presiding over the table. Then followed a short business meeting, during which seven new members were voted in, after which the meeting adjourned until December 19th.

SHOES!

How much a man is like his shoes—
For instance, both a soul may lose—
Both are made tight by cobbler's;
Both are made to go on feet;
Each without a mate is incomplete.
Both have been healed and often sold,
And both in time will turn to mould.
Now which would you choose—
To be a man, or be his shoes?

You will find at our store a complete line of Men's, Women's and Children's shoes.

New and complete line of men's and boy's FUR HATS, and CAPS.

Watch for our advertisements on Holiday Goods in the newspapers next week.
