BANNER SALVE, the most healing salve in the world.

The Stars and Stripes at Acre. A good American had been making some soul stirring remarks about the glorious star spangled banner when an Englishman who is pretty well Americanized told a little story apropos: "I remember once to have seen the stars and stripes applauded uproariously on a peculiar occasion. It happened many years ago when the British flag wasn't as popular in the United States as it is now and a party of us Englishmen were at a theater in New York considerably farther down town than theaters are now to be found on Broadway. The play was 'Richard I' and if you remember there is a scene in the play where Richard, after putting his foes to flight in terrific style, mounts the walls of Acre and plants the British colors there. Evidently the management knew the temper of the audience and felt that even under such circumstances the British flag would not be a good thing, so what did they do but give Richard the star spangled banner, and by all the gods, he took it with him in the charge and planted it on Acre's walls. It was ridiculous, of course, and we Englishmen laughed, but the audience took it quite as the correct thing, and the way the people stormed and shouted and clapped was enough to have made Richard turn over in his grave. Historically it was away off, dramatically it was open to criticism, but patriotically it was a howling success."—Washington Star.

Trigonometry in X Ray Work. "Few people know," said Dr. J. C. Egolston while performing an operation at the City hospital: "that it takes trigonometry to locate a bullet in the body. But in every X ray operation in which the bullet or foreign substance is deeply imbedded a mathematical computation is necessary to show just how deep the bullet is. The X rays make the flesh transparent, leaving only the bones and foreign substance visible, so that you see just where the bullet is, and yet you don't know where it is. You know its latitude and longitude, so to speak, but those measurements are surface measurements, and you don't know how deep the object is beneath the surface. The point on the surface of the body beneath which the bullet is can be readily located, but how far beneath that point is the bullet? "This is the question that trigonometry has to answer, and by knowing the answer a great deal of unnecessary cutting may be saved, and what might otherwise be a difficult and dangerous operation may be rendered comparatively safe and easy. If the bullet enters one side of the body, for instance, and lodges within an inch or two of the skin on the other side, the other side of the body would be the one from which to operate."—Kansas City Journal.

Worth the Difference. In S. L. Powers' story at the Middlesex Bar association dinner the lawyer tried the case for the complainant. Sue sued a middle aged gentleman for breach of promise. He married another girl. The jury retired, and the defendant also went his way. The jury returned, the defendant did not. The jury found for the plaintiff in $500 damages. The lawyer met the middle aged gentleman a few minutes later in the lobby of an adjacent hotel. "Squire," said the latter, "how did the jury decide?" "Against you," was the answer. "I didn't think they would do that." said the middle aged gentleman indignantly: "What's the damages?" "That ain't so bad," he exclaimed on being told. "Squire, there's that much difference between the two women"—Boston Herald.

Both Were Surprised. The third time I changed cars at the Hornellsville Union railroad station and lunched at the little grillroom just up the street the jolly little proprietor recognized me as a regular patron and did his best to entertain me while my special pot of coffee was coming to a boil. "Notice that fellow who just went out?" he asked, chuckling contentedly to himself. I hadn't noticed particularly, but I knew it would be disconcerting to admit, so I nodded encouragingly, sans a writer in the New York Herald.

They Worked on Benches. The dignified dame was not really English, but she had mastered the dialect to some extent. "My newvev 'Erbert," she said, "wants to marry a schoolteacher! Fawncy! A person who works for a living! To be sure, now that I think of it, that is not always a disgrace. You, my dear, write for the press now and then. I am told, but you don't 'ave to, you know. That is different." "Yes," replied the young person to whom she was speaking, "but I may be said to have inherited a tendency to work. My father and grandfather both worked for a living, and they were not allowed even the luxury of a chair to sit on. They worked on benches." "Dear me!" exclaimed the dignified dame, greatly shocked. "What did they—ah—work at?" "Well, my father was a judge of the superior court, and my grandfather was one of the justices of the United States supreme court."—Chicago Tribune.

The Pie Eaters. Pie in New England is served in many queer ways, especially the King of all pies, the royal mince. Not long ago there appeared a sign in the station of staid, crooked and correct Boston—a sign bearing the strange device, "Hot Mince Pie and Ice Cream." This is a wild combination compared with one that was served in this city at a midnight supper. A Welsh rabbit was being made, and there were some who did not care to eat it on crackers; no toast in the house, for it was the fire's evening out. A mince pie was found lurking in the ice chest and pressed into service. The rabbit was spread over the pie, and both vanished in a short time. Those who ate are still afraid in the dark, for they can imagine that the same things are coming for them again as came during their dreams of that wild, weird night. A local minister tells a pie story on himself that is a corker." He is a delicate man, and his wife was down with the flu for him and vetoed it for him.

"Well," he continued, "that's Jim Smith—Long Jim Smith they call him—conductor of the Erie, and, say, he's laying for me. Greatest practical joker you ever saw. Always getting rigs on me, and I never could get back on him until last week, and then I was about as much surprised as he was."

"I was coming down the street and saw a crowd gathered around some Salvation Army singers. Long Jim was away on the edge of the crowd, standing on his tiptoes so he could see over the heads of the rest. He had his back to me, and, sticking out from under his arm, was a big bag of lemons. I saw my chance, and I sneaked quietly behind him, hauled off and gave that bag of lemons an awful squeeze with my cane."

Here the little man went off into an uncontrollable fit of laughter over the remembrance. He laughed till his sides shook and tears ran down his face. I waited till he had quieted down.

"Well?" I queried. "Scattered the lemons all about, I suppose?" "Scattered! Ho, ho, ho! He! He! Hi, hi, hi! He! Hum! Well, I should say so. But they wasn't lemons; they was eggs."

WHY HE CURES.

The Greatest Specialist of the Time Gives Every Case His Personal Attention. Doctor Hathaway's Method. Most doctors have a certain number of remedies which they use in all cases which seem at all familiar. This is not Dr. Hathaway's method. Every case with him is most carefully diagnosed and the exact position of the disease is determined. In every case is treated separately and medicine is administered with special care. Not two people are treated in the same manner, consequently no two people can be treated in the same way even for some common ailments. Dr. Hathaway is a specialist in the best sense of the word—he treats special cases in a special manner. Every Case Specially Treated. Dr. Hathaway's great and untiring success is due to this individual system of treatment. In spite of hundreds of requests for a book on this subject, Dr. Hathaway has never published one. He has, however, prepared a new book, "Marriage, Vicar, Health," which is a masterpiece of its kind. It is a book which will be read by everyone who is interested in the subject of health and happiness. It is a book which will be read by everyone who is interested in the subject of health and happiness.
