PRESIDENT MCKINLEY'S DEATH.

President McKinley is dead—the whole world mourns. What a meaning there is in this short sentence! At the climax of the celebration of the President's visit to one of the greatest expositions the ingenuity of man has conceived and his skill put on foot, the hilarity of the multitudes is turned to mourning by the flash of a small weapon in the hands of an anarchist.

Anxious days and nights follow during which all Christendom waits with bated breath for news from the bedside of the distinguished sufferer.

The most learned physicians are there, and consulting and working with them are surgeons whose skill is known everywhere.

He is better! He will live!! they tell us in high-sounding phrases and as if to emphasize it a string of names of noted specialists in surgery and medicine two inches long follows the announcement.

Such rejoicing! It is ten fold greater than before the tragedy, for we have just emerged from the shadow of an impending calamity, and feel like laying aside all things else to show the world how much we love our President.

A week has passed and praise be to God! the President has taken solid food! He leisurely puffs a cigar and plans for the future! The Vice-President goes to the mountains to hunt. The other great men only remain through over-anxiety.

But hark! The bulletins tell us the learned men in medicine and surgery are hastily called in consultation. They come away from Milburn House with grave faces. Almost before the world is apprised of the critical condition of affairs the announcement comes—

The President is dead!

Once again the world mourns, and as it has seldom mourned before! As these lines are being penned the greatest nation on earth is bowed in reverent supplication as a last tribute to the departed chief. In the old home at Canton, Ohio, the body is being tenderly laid to rest, while the deepest sorrow prevails throughout the world.

Mr. McKinley was pre-eminently a man of the people. While he was at times misguided by his official advisers, nevertheless, he held the confidence of the masses as few people have done since the establishment of the Republic.

The country breathes a sigh of relief at the announcement that the new President will endeavor to carry out the policy inaugurated and so successfully pursued by Mr. McKinley.

SOCIALISM A FAILURE.

The winding-up of a cooperative colony in a South Georgia county is one more triumph of the individual over any effort to curb him. One of the members of the colony says:

The blame is in the system. The commonwealth destroys the individual by demanding too great a sacrifice from the competent man and putting too great a premium upon incompetency. Our system is pretty to look upon, but mankind is not ready to put it into practice.

On commenting upon the above, the Atlanta Constitution says: "In this first principle of life we have the best assurance that the man can never be permanently shackled. There may be times, as at present, when combination is so strong that the individual fears for his safety, not knowing that the same opinion that the combination the same opinion that the combination would totter if an instant. All schemes to so combine men as to wipe out their individuality must fail. There is no need, therefore, of indulging in idle fears as to the future. The man may be depended upon to take care of himself."

HE IS OMNIPOTENT.

The man who does the most mischief in the community is not the notorious criminal. He is the fellow who whispers lies in the ears of others in order to excite their prejudices and turn them against their friends; the tale-bearer, the cunning twister of facts into exaggerations, the purveyor of idle gossip, the man who is dishonest himself and hence is unable to credit others with good motives; who tries to make himself solid with one person by exciting that person's mind against another, and seeks to advance his personal interests by poisoning the minds of others. Every community has such creatures. They work in the dark and never accept responsibility for their lies.—Ex.

The character above named is without doubt the most abominable thing God ever made. He is the bane of towns, nations and empires. He is even worse than the reptile that charms its prey before devouring it.

Every community has him, and must endure him. Happy is the man who can discriminate between him and a real, unpretentious but dyea in the wool friend.

The following truthful statement from the Leesburg Commercial is just as applicable to Leon county as it is to Every dollar appropriated by Lake county Commissioners for an exhibit of the products of the county at the State fair next November will return four fold in good to the county. The money will insure a fine display of the wonderful and varied resources of the county and new life will be given her industries thereby."

The number of murders and criminal assaults in West Florida is becoming very alarming. It is noticeable, too, that nearly all of them are committed by turpentine negroes imported into that section. One seldom escapes the fury of a mob or the vigilance of the officers but neither seems to have a restraining effect upon the culprits.

TREATMENT FOR SNAKEBITE.

We chronicle two cases of rattlesnake bite, both occurring last week, one here and the other at City Point. One was treated by Dr. Holmes and the other by Dr. Wilson, and both patients are now out of danger.

Drs. Holmes and Wilson use the same treatment for snakebites, viz., the hypodermic injection of a three or four per cent. solution of permanganate of potash in or near the wound, and the internal administration of echinacea in teaspoonful doses every half hour until five or six doses are taken, then less frequently, and they both use strychnine and glonion hypodermically to strengthen and sustain the heart, and also morphine to relieve the pain.

Persons bitten by a poisonous snake should at once cut off the circulation in the limb bitten by tying a handkerchief or other ligature above the wound, and then should make a free incision including the wound and get treatment as outlined above by a physician or if one cannot be secured at once, by themselves or their neighbors. As soon as possible after the injection and internal administration of echinacea the ligature should be removed from the limb, for if it is retained there too long the limb will mortify and amputation of the limb become necessary.

The subsequent treatment of the case must be left to the judgment of the physician as no positive treatment can be outlined for every case, as no two will be exactly alike. Every family should keep on hand a good hypodermic syringe and a bottle of permanganate solution, and enough echinacea to treat a case should a physician not be obtainable in a short time.—Titusville Star.

BOYS' SOCIAL CLUB

The Boys' Social Club held a picnic last Wednesday at Lake Hall, and had a most enjoyable time. Tully's big wagons were filled with the merry-crowd of boys and girls who had prepared and brought their lunch baskets for the occasion. Those present were: Mr. R. Alford and Miss Lucille Stockton, Mr. Clyde Evans and Miss Hattie Perkins, Mr. Julius Evans and Miss Claude Bowen, Mr. Kent Johnson and Miss Ebie Quale, Mr. Ray Householder and Miss Susie VanBrunt, Mr. Joseph Shutan and Miss Marion Bowen, Mr. Edgar Bowen and Miss Susie McGriff, Walter McLin and Miss Blanche Paré. Messrs. William VanBrunt, Plagg Rawls and Ross Bryant had to go as stags, as their young ladies were not allowed to go on account of the weather. After a jolly ride and good time getting ready for it, lunch and lemonade were served.

Mrs. Bowen and Miss Edna Evans acted as chaperones, and made the young people have a very pleasant time. In the afternoon Mr. Cluff, an honorary member of the club, came out with Miss Kate Mickler and Mr. W. N. Sheats, Jr., with Miss Lucille Stockton. All had a jolly and very pleasant time singing, laughing and merry-making generally. Five boats were hired for a row on the lake, but the boys had to row alone, as the chaperones would not let the young ladies go on the water. All returned home in the evening and declared the event a very successful and enjoyable one.

ON THE GROUND.

Ex-Mayor O. H. Kelley, of Carrabelle, writes that the lumber for the building the derrick for the oil well at Carrabelle has been cut, and will all be put on the ground by to-day (Thursday). Work will soon begin.

He believes that if oil is to be found anywhere in the State Carrabelle is that place, and they are going at least 2,000 feet to hunt for it.

Isaac A. Stewart, Esq. for appellants; James D. Beggs, Frederick W. Marsh and George B. Perkins, for appellee.

The following five cases have been set for oral argument (pursuant to memorandums filed) on Tuesday, the 24th inst:

1. The First National Bank of St. Augustine et al. vs. Walter J. Kirby et al.—St. Johns county. Attorneys: W. W. Dewhurst, John C. Cooper, W. B. Young, A. G. Hartridge, M. C. Jordan, W. A. MacWilliams.

Frank M. Simonton, plaintiff in error, vs. The State of Florida ex rel. Solon B. Turman, defendant in error.—Hillsborough county. Motion to vacate supersedeas denied. Opinion per curiam. John P. Wall, H. C. MacFarlane and William B. Lamar, Attorneys-general, for motion; Barron Phillips, McNamee & Clough, A. W. Cockrell & Son and R. W. Williams, contra.

The effect of the decision denying the motion to vacate the supersedeas is to continue Mr. Simonton in office as solicitor of the Criminal Court of Record for Hillsborough county until the final disposition of the case by the Supreme Court. A motion to dismiss is pending, but will not be heard before the return day of the writ of error, second Tuesday in January next. The matter brought up from the Circuit Court for review was a judgment of ouster in favor of Mr. Solon B. Turman, the relator, and against L. F. M. Simonton; the supersedeas granted has the effect of suspending the judgment until the matter shall be passed upon by the Supreme Court.

George G. Clough, of Tampa, and W. Waldo Martin, of Ocala, were admitted to practice.

"Have by some surgeon Shylock on thy charge to stop his wounds lest he do bleed to death." People can bleed to death. The loss of blood weakens the body. It must follow that gain of blood gives the body strength. The strengthening effect of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in large part due to its action on the blood-making glands and the increased supply of pure, rich blood that it produces. It is only when the blood is impoverished and impure that disease finds a soil in which to root. The "Discovery" purifies the blood and makes it antagonistic to disease. When the body is emaciated, the lungs are weak, and there is obstinate, lingering cough, "Golden Medical Discovery" puts the body on a fighting footing against disease, and so increases the vitality that disease is thrown off, and physical health perfectly and permanently restored. It has cured thousands who were hopeless and helpless, and who had tried all other means of cure without avail.

Twenty-one one-cent stamps to cover expense of mailing will obtain a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in paper cover. Send thirty-one stamps if cloth binding is preferred. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NEW LIBRARIAN ELECTED.

Miss Maggie Williams was elected, at a meeting of the Board of Directors last Friday evening, to be the new librarian at the University Library. Miss Elliott, who now occupies the position temporarily, will continue to do so until Miss Williams takes charge, October 1st.

Miss Williams is well known to Tallahasseeans, and is thoroughly acquainted with the work. She was elected unanimously among nearly a dozen applicants for the position.

All of the Directors were present in person or by proxy, excepting two, and one of the absentees had failed to receive official information of the meeting.

LEON ACADEMY TO OPEN.

Leon Academy will open on Monday, the 30th inst., instead of the first Monday in October, as seems to be the general impression. The list of teachers appears elsewhere in this issue.

Under the efficient leadership of Prof. H. W. Demilly principal, Leon Academy has become one of the most useful as well as the best patronized schools in the State. The same good work will characterize the coming term.

PICNIC PARTY.

Chaperoned by Mrs. Arthur C. Spiller and Miss Mamie Andrews, a party of young people spent the day delightfully picnicking at Lake Hall Saturday. Among those who went were the following: Misses Mamie Johnson, Willie Johnson and Blanche Paré, and Messrs. L. C. Demilly, E. E. McLin and John G. Crawford.

FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE.

A Correspondent Predicts a Very Successful Year for the Institution.

The forty-fifth annual session of the Florida State College, at Tallahassee, begins next Thursday. The old students will find many changes on the campus that will give a new air to the old college, and the new students will find many more comforts in the new dormitories than have been spoken of through the papers, says a correspondent of the Times-Union and Citizen.

Notwithstanding the continued rains during the summer, it is expected that the new buildings will be ready for use by the 26th.

President Murpree has recently returned from Thomasville, where he made full arrangements with the matron of the boarding halls.

Mrs. M. J. Howe, the matron, is not unknown in Florida, being a native of Gadsden county; and her husband a graduate of Brown University, Rhode Island, was during his life time, one of the ablest and best known educators in Florida and South Georgia. Mrs. Howe is a christian lady, pronounced in culture and refinement, and a graduate of Wesleyan Female College. For several years she has resided in Thomasville, Ga., and during the past eight years has kept a high-class boarding house in that city. The college is lucky to secure Mrs. Howe for the position of matron, and the new session will open with every assurance that the management of the dormitories will be successful.

Professor Williams, the new professor of English language and literature, and his family, will arrive next Saturday. Professor Williams was principal of a large teachers' summer school at Arcadia this summer, and resigned the principalship of the Summer Institute, at Bartow, to accept the chair of English in this college.

Professor Buchholz, the new principal of teachers' training school, is expected on the 24th. Professor Buchholz is one of the best known teachers and schoolmen in Florida. He is the author of the teachers' normal arithmetic. He was principal of the largest State teachers' summer school in the State this summer. This school was conducted at DeLand, in Stearns University. In addition to directing the training school, Professor Buchholz will be professor of philosophy and pedagogy in the college.

Other professors will come in during the first of next week. During the summer Professor Murpree has been superintending the construction of the new buildings on the grounds. Professor Bierly has been studying at Chicago University, and visiting the laboratories of the largest universities in the North and East. Miss Miller has spent the best part of the summer at Buffalo, N. Y. Professor Long spent the summer with relatives and friends in Tennessee, spending a season at Monticello. Professor Calhoun was at Chicago the greater part of the summer. Professor Calhoun is regarded as one of the finest linguists in the country. At Chicago University he was called on by the professors in charge to address the classes in French and German, a compliment to the ability of Professor Calhoun and to the standard of the Florida State College.

Miss Provence has spent the summer at Richmond, Va., with relatives.

It is expected that the college will enroll many more students than usual at the beginning of the new year. Last year 206 students attended. In this 206, twenty-four counties and five Southern States were represented. The college is becoming better known, and with the unsurpassed facilities for teaching care of the non-resident students, it is no exaggeration to say that the patronage will be augmented at least 50 per cent. during the next two years.

WATER COMPANY WINS.

In the early part of this year the directors of the Water Works Company adopted a resolution fixing a minimum rate of $2.50 a quarter for meter water consumers. The effect of this was to about double the rate for water in the residence part of the city. The City Council asked for an injunction in the chancery department of Judge Malone's Court. The matter has just recently been decided in favor of the water company, and they are sending out a circular this week requesting all meter consumers to call at the office and sign new contracts.

The Council proposes to carry the matter still further, and has instructed the City Attorney, Hon. Geo. P. Raney, to take an appeal to the Supreme Court. Whether or not the appeal will operate as a supersedeas against the enforcement of the new regulation we are not informed.

THE LIAR'S CLUB MEETING.

The President Out-Classed by the Meek-Eyed Secretary.

The Tallahassee Liars' Club was in regular weekly session. The conversation drifted to dogs and the many remarkable feats performed by them under excitement of the moment.

"Why" said the meek-eyed president of the club, "I once owned a dog that was all right until he saw a tre falling. The darned fool seemed to think it his bounden duty to get under every one that fell around the place and in the spring when I went out to split rails I always chained him securely."

"One day I was cutting down a very large tree, and just as it commenced falling I heard old Power coming and yelling like the devil had him by the tail. I tried to stop him, but the blamed fool was so excited that he rushed by me and right under the falling pine. I saw it fall square across his back, and did not even go to see, for I knew he was mashed into sausage."

"Half an hour later I saw him going limping off toward the house. Knowing the tree had fallen on him, I went to investigate. Sure enough there was where he had been; mashed into the ground just enough to make his imprint in the sand, but a small log, not more than four to six inches, had saved him. He happened to be parallel with it, and had pulled himself out. I suppose he was stunned at first, or he would have made some outcry."

"That's nothing," said the weak-eyed secretary. "I once owned a dog named Lion. He was a big black cross between a cur and a Newfoundland. He was the devil for running rabbits, and if they gave him half a chance he would run them down."

"One day I was in the field plowing and heard him after a rabbit down in the branch near by. At noon he failed to show up for dinner. The whole family became alarmed, he being a great pet, and upon returning to work I went down where I had heard him to investigate.

"There was an old cypress stump, twenty or twenty-five feet high, and it was hollow. I saw where he had been scratching around the roots, but there was no dog in sight."

"Thinking perhaps he had been snake-bitten and started home I pulled out my whistle and gave one or two calls.

"Well, sir, that blamed dog commenced whining from inside the cypress stump."

"I stuck my head inside, and sure enough there he was, not more than eight feet up. Bit it was a pretty close fit, and the splinters left by the decaying tree all stuck up. He could not drop back for splinters sticking him."

"It is well known that a dog is more afraid of a bear than anything else, and realizing that only one thing remained, and that one thing for Lion to go out at the top of the stump, I scratched on the sides of the hollow and growled like a bear.

"Well, sir, old Lion gave a little whine, and rotten wood fell all over my head. As he reached the top it broke off with him and he hit the ground running."

"When I reached home at night it took all sorts of coaxing to get him from under the bed, where he had lay curled up all afternoon."

"It was a mean trick to play on Lion, but what could I do?"

The president's face by this time had assumed a terribly disgusted expression. It was evident that he did not care to prolong the meeting, and a wink from the vice-president to the chaplain brought a motion to adjourn before the past grand master liar could get the attention of the club.

SHOT CHICKENS FOR QUAIL.

Two Tallahasseeans were out quail shooting with the finest pointer that ever flushed a quail. They were making next to the world's record drive along the public road, when "Dick," the faithful bird dog, came to a point that told them as plainly as if the birds were in open view, that they were there.

"Careful, Dick," coaxingly yelled the owner of the dog, while he and his companion got out of the buggy, has tily loaded their guns, and stealthily:

Try one and you will want more.

approached the birds from opposite directions.

Dick's nose showed slight animation, but the remainder of him was as stolid as an Egyptian mummy and as firm as the rock of ages, so bent was he upon holding them until his master gave the word.

Carefully the hunters approached, with an occasional warning to each other "not to shoot in this direction when they get up."

"See them?" called out one of the hunters.

"No, but I hear them," replied his companion.

Still no birds got up. The dog's master knowing that the birds were there, else the dog would not point that bunch of bushes, and wishing to get the first shot, banged away at the spot where they were supposed to be.

"Quack, quack, quack, chuck, chuck, chuck," came from an old sitting hen. "Wha' fo yo' shootin' my chickens, you ornery white buckra," yelled an old black aunty, as she emerged from a cottage right at them, but which had heretofore been unnoticed.

"It is hardly worth while to state that the hunters suddenly discovered that they had business elsewhere. Nor did they tell the story upon reaching town. It has only just leaked out from the parties themselves the incident having become old.

FOUND DEAD BABY.

Several days ago a dead child was found in a ditch near Hancock's Mill. Whether white or black could not be determined, as it had been buried in mud for days and was in a putrid state beside. No clue has been secured as to the parentage, but it is believed that the child was prematurely born, perhaps of illegitimate parents, and hid away for that reason.

CUT HIS HAND WITH GLASS.

Mr. Gus McGriff, the popular young drug clerk at the Tallahassee Drug Company's store, happened to a painful accident Monday. He was putting up some preparations prepared by these druggists and in driving a cork in a defective bottle with his hand, broke the bottle and received several painful wounds in the palm. It was dressed by one of the physicians in the store and is doing as well as could be expected.
