FINEST INCIDENT OF PRESIDENT'S TOUR.

The Atlanta News Pictures it in Most Eloquent Language.

John Temple Graves, editor of the Atlanta News, in the following journalistic gem, demonstrates the fact that the people of Georgia, if they should indulge him in his latest ambition—to be a United States Senator—would spoil one of the South's best newspaper men to make a poor senator:

Somehow we all seem to have missed the finest and most representative incident of the President's Southern tour. She scene was at Boswell, and the dramatic personae were the President of the United States and Mrs. W. E. Baker, a rare fine dame of the old regime in Dixie.

Boswell, of course, like all the rest, went wild over the President's visit. Everything that had two legs and everything that had four legs in the pretty town turned out to see him. Every house was emptied of its inhabitant, all dignity was laid aside, and with eager eyes and clapping hands, the little world of Boswell went out to see the illustrious ruler of 75,000,000 people.

Not so Dame Baker, of Barrington Hall. She sat still and let the President come to her!

There was no show of wealth at Barrington Hall. There were no gilded trappings, no liveried servants and no perfumed mist from alabaster lamps falling on rich Administrators as the feet fell softly there. There was no stately guard nor pompous ceremony in the old mansion, touched with the ruin that made it picturesque and sacred in suggestion.

But there was within a woman of the old regime—a grande dame as gentle as she was proud. She was the relic of the finest and gentlest civilization that the world has ever known—born of cavaliers and the inheritors of a homage as kni, hly as chivalry could yield. She was a woman of the old South, and she had been born to understand that the majesty which unbonneted kings was hers in the birthright of her sex—for in that golden South of chivalry every maiden was a princess and every matron received the homage of a queen.

And so, gentle, unruffled and serene, with placid expectation on her chiseled face, and tranquil welcome in her clear blue eyes—while all the world went out to see the President—Dame Baker, of the old South, waited calmly at Barrington Hall for the President of the United States to come to her.

And when he came she called him "Theodore."

And with all his brave and generous heart Theodore Roosevelt honored her for the majestic dear conceit. Frank himself and bold, scorning shams and toadies, a Democrat in public fiber, and with one-half his blood pulsing the world's best chivalry—this rough rider of the plains, this manly man, this aristocrat of two sections, this Yankee-Southern cavalier, this foremost figure of the world—bent low before the stately dame of Roswell and loved her for her stately pride and dignity.

To have done less would have been lese majeste!

Ah, dear old South of memories and dreams—of stately customs and creeds! the strenuous years and the shining dollars are covering many of its glories with the material dross. But we thank God for the glorious old matrons, who shine with silver radiance out of the mists of the by-gone, making for the youth of today a renaissance of our chivalric life.

And we offer in even more cordial grasp the right hand of section to the illustrious citizen who, in his hour of almost imperial triumphs, waives all ceremonial claim, and pays frank and gallant homage to this dear old dame of Dixie.

A Daredevil Ride

Often ends in a sad accident. To her accidental injuries use Bucklen's Arnica Salve. "A deep wound in my foot, from an accident," writes Theodore Schuele, of Columbus, O., "caused me great pain. Physicians were helpless, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly healed it." Soothes and heals burns like magic. 25c., at all druggists.

Hon. Jos. B. Wall, judge of the 7th judicial circuit, with Mrs. Wall, were visitors to the home of Justice C. B. Parkhill this week.

Mr. Chas. L. Deardorff, superintendent of the St. Augustine Record Company's printing plant, was in the city several days this week.

Mr. David Edrehi, of Pensacola, agent of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, is in the city accompanied by his family, who have been summering at Marianna.

Sluggish Liver a Foe to Ambition.

You cannot accomplish very much if your liver is inactive, as you feel dull, your eyes are heavy, and slight exertion exhausts you. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and bowels and makes you feel bright and active. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and very pleasant to take. Orino is more effective than pills or ordinary cathartics. Refuse substitute. For sale by all druggists.
