

SPERMATOCYTES AND ENGLISH SPARROWS RESPONSIBLE FOR IT.

From a Boston despatch of Nov. 15th, we learn the following: Scientists of Harvard have at last discovered why turkey disease has become so prevalent for many a Thanksgiving season—the big bird has been literally "put out in" in New England by appendicitis.

More than this, the disease has spread to the south as Virginia and has already reached Michigan, which up to the present time has for years been the chief breeding place for turkeys.

So serious is the danger of a virtual extinction of the "national bird" that a thorough investigation of the causes of the trouble and its possible prevention has been made by such scientists as Dr. Frederick Smith and Dr. E. E. Tyzzer, of the Harvard medical school and Dr. Philip Hadley, of the State Experiment Station of Rhode Island.

The same disease which has decimated turkeys has of late spread to game birds such as partridges and quail; and the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission is prosecuting an investigation of this special line. The findings of all are that the mysterious disease starts from a small living organism which produces in the intestines of the turkey or partridge an inflammation similar to that of appendicitis in a man.

When the disease attacks a turkey or game bird, there is no hope, say the scientists. The cause has brought forth a variety of opinion, the most forcible being that the English sparrow carries the organism which affects the larger birds. The experiments which determined the nature of "turkey ailment" have extended over a quarter of a century.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is lacking the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.
