Capt. H. Warren's Drilling machine Here

The Drilling machine for Captain Henry Warren's artesian well has arrived and as soon as the Captian gets home from the big fair on the far northwest he will begin to make a well. We hope the Captian will get a well that will throw the water a hundred feet high. But what is use that is too good.

Flood waters of the Little Colo. river

There has been water enough gone down the Little Colorado river the last two months to drown the whole Territory of Arizona for the next two years. It has rained for every day for the last months and them some.
Great trees have been uprooted by the furious flood waters of the river and its tributaries, railroads have been washed away and stock destroyed, yet they will tell you there is no water here.
The surface of the land is swept with water and a great body of water lies within fifteen feet of the surface underground.

Sidney Sapp, Notary Public.

Removing the Con- victs from Yuma

The removal of the convicts from the Yuma to the new penitentiary at Florence will begin tonight with the starting of a car load of life men and long termers who will be brought through Phoenix tomorrow morning There will be two cars of the long termers. The heavily barred car used in the transportation of Chinese orderd deported, will be employed in the transfer of the convicts. There is only one car available for that purpose so that four trips will have to be made to bring over the 200 convicts yet remaining in Yuma.

A large number have already been brought to Florence from time to time since the beginning of construction to work on the penitentiary. They were generally short term men, the terms of many having expired during the work of construction under the credit system allowed them.

Contractor Gregg, who had charge of the construction, was in town yesterday. He said that though the prison is not yet complete, it is nearly enough so for the confinement of the prisoners In fact everything is complete except the outer building. That has reached only a height of one story.

Claud Youngblood, of Snowflake was in town Monday buying goods for his store.
