ON THE SAFE SIDE.

The Parson—Rastus, of de Lord on Judgment day should say to yo', "What yo' done do wif all dose chickens yo' stole?" What would yo' say?

Rastus—Parson, I might say dat mah wife done cooked 'em, but yo' know a man ain't compelled to testify agin' his wife.

Not in Circulation There.

An error of a new clerk in the mailing department of an eastern publisher was responsible, the other day, for the mailing of a prospectus to a world-famous statesman, who had been dead for some years. The letter was returned a few days later with the following indorsement: "In Heaven, 1911. Gentlemen: As your publications are not permitted to circulate here, I believe it would be useless for me to subscribe for them. Yours respectfully," and here followed the name of the famous statesman.

Two of a Kind.

"I find that my husband has been having the office boy call me up every day and mumble terms of endearment. That's a nice way to fool his wife. He's been going to the ball game."

"How is it that you didn't catch on to the voice?"

"Well, I'm busy at bridge every day, and I've been having the cook answer the telephone."

A FINE NIGHT-CAP

The Best Thing in the World to Go to Bed and Sleep On.

"My wife and I find that 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and a cup of hot milk, or some cream, with it, makes the finest night-cap in the world," says an Allegheny, Pa., man.

"We go to sleep as soon as we strike the bed, and slumber like babies till rising time in the morning.

"It is about 3 years now since we began to use Grape-Nuts food, and we always have it for breakfast and before retiring and sometimes for lunch. I was so sick from what the doctors called acute indigestion and brain fag before I began to use Grape-Nuts that I could neither eat, sleep nor work with any comfort.

"I was afflicted at the same time with the most intense pains, accompanied by a racking headache and backache, every time I tried to eat anything. Notwithstanding an unusual pressure from my professional duties, I was compelled for a time to give up my work altogether.

"Then I put myself on a diet of Grape-Nuts and cream alone, with an occasional cup of Postum as a runner-up, and sometimes a little dry toast. I assure you that in less than a week I felt like a new man; I had gained six pounds in weight, could sleep well and think well.

"The good work went on, and I was soon ready to return to business, and have been hard at it, and enjoying it ever since.

"Command me at any time any one enquires as to the merits of Grape-Nuts. You will find me always ready to testify." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

STRUGGLING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF WORLD

RIGHTS OF A RUNNER

Greatest of Baseball Players Says He Would Not Intentionally Injure Fellow Player—Football Tactics Are Used.

"I hate to be referred to as a brute," says Ty Cobb, greatest of ball players, and now in the zenith of his grand career. "It isn't very pleasant for a fellow to be called a rough performer and a deliberate crippler of his fellowmen. I wouldn't intentionally hurt another player for twice my salary, and yet, whenever somebody bumps up against these spikes of mine, they'll say I do it intentionally, and discuss which would be the better way—to eliminate the spike or to eliminate T. Raymond Cobb.

"Let's have a little understanding about this thing and, also, let's go back into baseball history a little way. Long ago there were players, some of them much slower and heavier than myself, so I am told by veterans who knew them, players who, despite this bulk and slowness, stole more bases to the season than I do nowadays. I find from the old guides that there were dozens of men who made good baserunning records, say from thirty to seventy a season, and that this wasn't considered at all remarkable. And yet I fail to find in the old newspapers mention of many collisions, or many cases where basemen were spiked by the sliding runners.

"What does all that mean? Simply this: that in those days everybody recognized the right of the base runner to a clear field and a fair chance to steal the next cushion if he had the speed and skill. Nowadays the infielders think that the way to stop a runner is to use football tactics; to step way over on the side of the base nearest to the approaching stealer and block him off from reaching the bag. They receive you on their shins or feet, they strive to check your slide so that it will be a physical impossibility for you to arrive at the base, and then they bring down the ball for the putout.

"It's worst of all at the home plate, for there the armored catcher, with a big body protector and shinguards, meets you as you come in and squats on you or on the base path, so that you can't butt through or squirm past his huge bulk. As a result of these tactics nobody dares to slide head-first nowadays. Duff and McCarthy, who were great base runners in the olden times, have told me that in their day the acme of perfection was the head-first slide, twisting the body to one side and reaching out a hand to touch the base. The man who tried that now would get his hand spiked or his neck broken.

"Now, under all baseball law and the logic of common sense, the base runner has a right to try for his base with a clear field and no football blocking. I believe that, and I insist upon it. Furthermore, I don't want to play bog. Half that base is mine, and I claim that half whenever I go after it.

"I don't slide past the bag, nor even over the boundary of the half that's mine. If the baseman stands where he belongs, on the half-base that is his, or on the farther side, he won't get spiked, and he has a fair, even chance, if he is active with his hands, to touch me out. That's square enough, isn't it?"

"If the baseman deliberately comes over the base, standing in the road so that I have no chance to slide in except by violent contact with him, whose fault is it if he gets the spikes? Think it all over and then decide; am I a brute, a butcher or a reformer? I think that I'm a real reformer, correcting abuses and trying to bring back certain phases of the game to their condition in the earlier days."

BIG SLUGGERS STRIKE OUT

Tyrus Cobb, Larry Lajoie and Honus Wagner Have All Fanned Three Times in Single Game.

Those discussing the relative merits of the big league batsmen, Ty Cobb, Larry Lajoie and Hans Wagner, can no longer remark in any argument against Cobb that the world's greatest ball player has been fanned three times in one game while Lajoie and Wagner never underwent that torture.

Manning, who used to pitch for the New York Highlanders, set down Tyrus three times in a game played in New York. That was some time ago. Still, Wagner and Lajoie never experienced the same displeasure until recently, and a peculiar coincidence was that both Larry and Hans fanned three times on the same afternoon.

George Suggs, former Tiger, pitcher for Cincinnati, handed it to Hans, while Ed. Walsh, who won fame this season by pitching a no-hit no-run game, struck out Larry in three out of four times at bat.

High Ball Seldom Used.

It is a noticeable fact that the most successful pitchers these days are those who seldom pitch a high ball, and yet there was a time when the high ball had the batters guessing. Today, however, the pitcher with the high ones does not last long. The batsmen have mastered this delivery and the pitchers have been forced to change their style of pitching entirely. There are decidedly few players these days who hit the low balls, and very few who cannot hit a high one. Most of the long hits made during a season are on balls that are pitched above the waist. Not only is it easier to follow the course of a ball which is pitched on about a level with the waist line, but the swing in most instances is more natural.

Comes With Ifne Reputation.

George Mogridge, a White Sox pitching recruit hailing from the Galesburg club of the Illinois-Missouri circuit, comes to the big leagues with a great reputation. It was in the Illinois-Missouri league that Alexander of the Phillies got his start two years ago, and the fans in those parts say Mogridge will make Alexander travel a few to hold his honors.

BABE'S TOMB FOUND RATTLESNAKE DEN

Cannot Change Resting Place of Child Until Colony of Reptiles Is Exterminated.

New Orleans, La.—A battle to the death with a den of rattlesnakes will be necessary before a baby's grave can be removed from beneath the crumbling ruins of Fort McComb, near here, when workmen begin their operations next year preliminary to the erection of the proposed $75,000 club house of the Louisiana Motor league. The site of the old fort is a wild and weird spot. The moss-covered structures have crumbled away, leaving the large rooms, araways, tunnels and underground chambers to the hundreds of venomous reptiles, spiders and lizards.

In the shadow of the walls of the fort a plain white headstone marks the grave of the infant of Sergeant Smith, which was born in 1888 and lived five weeks. A single plank serves for the primitive drawbridge that once aided soldiers in crossing the moat, now a ditch of mud the water teeming with slimy moccasins. Rattlesnakes, seven feet long, with innumerable rattles, have been killed recently by fishermen near the fort. It is said that if a stone is thrown into the "chamber of death," where the big rattlers have their home the sounds of hissing and the shirring of rattles resemble the noise made by arousing a monster swarm of bees.

END OF CONCEALED WEAPONS

Now a Serious Crime in New York State to Carry Gun on Person.

Albany, N. Y.—Among the many laws enacted by the legislature of 1911 is the so-called dangerous weapon statute, which is designed to reduce the number of homicides in the state, especially in New York city.

It provides that any person over the age of 16 years who has a revolver or other firearm in his or her possession without a license to carry the same is guilty of a misdemeanor. The crime is made a felony if the weapon is concealed about the person.

Another provision of this law is that all sales of firearms shall be registered and a description of the weapon. It also makes it a felony to use a blackjack or sandbag and a dealer must be shown a permit to carry a weapon before selling one to any person.

Man Drowned in Buttermilk.

Gilmore, Neb.—Thomas Her, a milkman, was drowned near here in 1,000 gallons of buttermilk. Her was driving a tank containing the buttermilk when the wagon dropped into a depression in the road and overturned. The tank burst and the milk filled the depression. Her was caught beneath the tank. Occupants of a passing automobile pulled the body from the sea of milk a half hour later.

Horses in Nail-Studded Car.

Savannah, Ga.—For transporting horses and mules for 90 hours in a car studded, sides and bottom, with heavy nails, which maimed or killed all the animals, a Georgia railway has been made defendant in a suit for damages. The animals had been transferred from their original car and were in another which had nails sticking out all around.

Eats 58 Corn Ears at Sitting.

Boston, Mass.—Another world's record was smashed by Charles W. Glidden, champion eater, who, in a restaurant, devoured 58 ears of corn in one hour and 55 minutes.
