Yuma Will Get the Bridge; It Is a Certainty Now!

LOCAL CAPITALISTS TO GUARANTEE FUNDS

Yuma has been busy today over the bridge matter, and the situation, as it now stands, is this: Four Yuma citizens, namely, John Gandolfo, Sr., E. F. Sanguinetti, J. M. Molina and A. Modesti, will guarantee $5,000. If Yuma needs it about $2,000 more can be raised just as easily. All Yuma's big men see how foolish it would be for Yuma to turn down $64,000 cash—now available for the bridge—for the small sum now lacking.

The outside situation is this: Imperial county has pledged $7,000, to be raised by taxes, and can raise another $1,000, or a little more if needed. San Diego has $7,000 in the bank for the bridge; three or four thousand dollars more can be raised if needed.

Los Angeles was expected to make her pledge of $7,000 good and has refused thus far, though several small subscriptions have been offered and refused by Mr. Michelsen, who went to San Diego yesterday to confer with Col. Ed Fletcher who has the bridge matter in charge.

Mr. Michelsen returned to Los Angeles today and if Los Angeles will make good or subscribe at least $5,000 he will accept it. Otherwise, Yuma Imperial and San Diego will put up the Los Angeles end of the money.

The committee appointed by the Commercial Club last night to raise whatever sum may be needed consists of John Gandolfo, Sr., chairman; E. F. Sanguinetti, J. M. Molina, A. Modesti and John Stoffela. The very largest amount Yuma may have to raise is $11,000, though it will probably be nearer $5,000.

It is now definitely settled that Yuma will get the bridge and it now remains to finish the details, and the wires are being kept hot between the interested points with this end in view; also, another meeting of the Commercial Club will be held tonight at 8 o'clock.

DICK STANTON TO ATTEND COURT IN LOS

W. W. Law, of Los Angeles, attorney for Richard H. Stanton in his suit for damages against the Salt Lake railroad company, wired this morning that the railroad had defaulted, and requested the attendance of Mr. Stanton at court in Los Angeles at once.

Mr. Stanton had his right hand and arm injured while traveling at Los Angeles.

DESMOND HERE; REBUILD THEATRE

Desmond, owner of the Zeller theatre, which was destroyed by fire Sunday night, is here today from Los Angeles, figuring with local contractors for rebuilding the theatre on a new plan.

It is probable that the new roof will be portable, so that it can be removed during the summer months; and thus the theatre will be possible 12 months of the year. Yuma people have learned to patronize an airdome, and will positively not patronize a warm closed building.

OVERTON HENDRICKS, BOOSTER, WRITES OF YUMA FROM LOS

Overton N. Hendricks, of Bard, who is at present in Los Angeles, writes of his observations as follows:

Los Angeles, Sept. 5, '13.
Yuma Examiner,
Yuma, Arizona.

Dear Mr. Shorey:
I am "up town" undergoing repairs, after a strenuous season of turkey raising, and some way or other seem to run across, run over or collide with people interested in Yuma.

While riding in a street car with a dairyman, from whom I had just bought a bunch of heifer calves, the other day, we became so absorbed in the topic of "Yuma" that the whole car of people were listening to us before we were aware of it, and the result was a lecture on Yuma on a Los Angeles street car, and the evident interest is surprising.

But what I have to ask of you is another matter. While in the Sunset exhibit room yesterday I met a man associated with one of the eastern magazines and who was in a very doubtful frame of mind regarding Yuma, and among other things mentioned was the gruesome effect the old penitentiary made on the tourist, hardly any of them being aware of its present educational capacity.

I was very glad to tell him that the "eye-sore" was now a thing of the past, and he wants me to get him a few news items which you have run recently regarding the tearing down of the old prison walls in order that he may have them reproduced to appear under the heading of "Topics of Interest," in the next issue of his magazine. And will you do it? And send same to me here at 126 So. Fremont avenue.

People still ask me if the siphon is completed, and if Yuma valley has any water yet. Nothing short of a permanent Yuma exhibit at the Sunset exhibit room, which is visited by every tourist that comes to Los Angeles, showing to them Yuma as it is today, will ever convince them that Yuma is open and ready for settlement.

Thanking you in advance for the favor, I am

Yours, very sincerely,
OVERTON, N. HENDRICKS.

BIG SALE OF ARIZONA PINE AND OTHER MERCHANTABLE TIMBER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 10.—(Special to the Yuma Daily Examiner)—Co-operative arrangements announced by the departments of agriculture and the interior make possible the offering for sale of 630 million feet of merchantable timber in southeastern Arizona.

The stand covers the southeastern corner of the Sitgreaves national forest, the northwest edge of the Apache national forest and the Fort Apache Indian reservation. Besides 600 million feet of yellow pine timber, there is 30 million feet of less important species including Douglas fir, white fir, Engelmann spruce, Mexican white pine, blue spruce, and cork bark fir.

Separate bids and contracts must be made for the timber upon the national forests and that upon the Indian reservation. Ten years will be allowed for the removal of the timber after the beginning of the cutting period, although a sufficient prior will be given first for the construction of logging roads, mills, etc.

The opening of the great body of virgin timber, is due to the determination of the departments of the interior and agriculture to pool their acreage in the locality described. By combining timber on the two adjoining national forests, the Apache and Sitgreaves, with the stand on the Fort Apache Indian reservation, a natural logging unit of sufficient timber is presented to warrant the extensive and costly constructive work which the marketing of the timber requires.

These prayers will be uttered in all the tongues of men almost simultaneously. Special sermons on the subject of religion and moral education will also be preached. The distance was 102 45-100 miles. Jackson, Rex, was second; Goode, in Studebaker, third. William Rhoades, in Studebaker, with third place almost won, went into the ditch on the last lap. JAPANESE SUBSCRIBER WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM SCHOOL

Frank Nakamoto, a graduate of the Yuma Grammar school and the Yuma Union High school, is now attending the Stanford University, and his many Yuma friends will be pleased to hear of it. Following is his letter in full:

Palo Alto, Cal., Sept. 8, '13.
Mr. W. H. Shorey,
Yuma, Arizona.

Dear Sir:

Please forward your weekly issues to the above address. Enclosed find $2.00 to pay for same.

Although I am not far away from Yuma, I cannot, even for a moment, be a stranger to the daily happenings at Yuma—my second native town, and the mother of my education.

Since I first announced my intention of attending the University of Colorado, I changed my mind, or rather the school which I want to attend. I was admitted to the school here without any objection, and I am now going to the Stanford University.

Every surrounding is agreeable to me, and the weather at the present time is pretty good.

Yours truly,

FRANK Y. NAKAMATO.

HAYDEN SAYS HE WON'T RUN FOR GOVERNOR; LIKES CONGRESS

PHOENIX, Sept. 10.—Effectually putting to sleep the many rumors that he would be a candidate for the governorship of the state of Arizona in the next election, Carl Hayden, congressman from the state, writes a firm denial of that ambition to a close friend in Phoenix. This leaves the Democratic nomination for next fall as much in the air as it has been for the last six months. The congressman has been boosted for the candidacy for several months by his many friends throughout the state. He was acclaimed a sure winner against all Democrats who would show themselves in the field as his opponents.

The candidacy has been urged upon Hayden for many reasons, chief of which was the fact that he has not interfered with the internal fights of the Democratic party of the state and would heal the breach which now exists in the party. It was acknowledged on every hand that should Carl Hayden decide to run his chances to win were sure. His letter to the Arizona follows, and is conclusive of his stand:

"I am in receipt of your letter of August 27 in regard to the Democratic nomination for governor of Arizona and hasten to say that I shall not be a candidate for that high office.

"At the age of thirty-six I feel that I am indeed fortunate to be a member of congress. Every one has been very kind to me here in Washington, and I hope to be of some service to the people of my state. I have, at present, no other ambition than to remain in my present position, and while I appreciate the kindly interest of my friends and trust that I may continue to enjoy their confidence, I shall not be a candidate at the next election for governor of Arizona, or for any other office than the one I now occupy by the votes of the citizens of Arizona.

"With kindest regards, I am
"Yours as ever,
"CARL HAYDEN."
