of the U. S. R. S. made a visit to Yuma. They were Messrs. Davis, Hanna and Murphy. By this time the charges and counter charges had become so serious that these three moguls, together with "extinguished" Manager Sellew made a personal investigation of the whole shotin' match. Their report was the last document of the file that was read.

It found Mr. Cook's claims not proven. When the four names signed to the report were read out aloud by Chairman Fleming, Mr. Teasdale lost his balance, stumbled a little, then grabbed the name "Sellew" like a trout grabs a fly, tossed it back and forth a few times, so as to shake its liver out, and finally declared that that was one of the greatest conspiracies of the age, claiming that the dead man was persecuted, and that at this very time somebody near to Sellew had filed on the dead man's place, and that he proposed to probe the conspiracy to the very bottom. He said Mr. Priest knew all about it, too, whereat the acting manager tried to give Mr. Teasdale one of Kelly's warranted to never wear off smiles, whereupon Mr. Teasdale got "as made as a wet hen," and shouted: "Put it in the record! I want the record to show that the acting manager laughed out loud at this outrage!"

At this Mr. Priest laughed sure enough, and I don't blame him, for nearly everybody else laughed at the same time.

Mr. Teasdale then proceeded to "take the hide off" of the "extinguished" manager, and declares this isn't the end of it. To all of this we have no earthly objection, only don't waste too much time on it until the "extinguished" manager can be on hand to hear the happy refrain.

Beyond this pleasing incident, and agreeing to the "plan of procedure" there was nothing else done at the afternoon meeting. The bard went in a body this morning to view the drainage system preparatory to discussing it this afternoon and tomorrow.

CHAS. SMITH FAMILY ON FIRST VACATION

Charles Smith and wife and children left on the two o'clock train for Calexico to join his brother, Mont Smith, who went over last night by auto. From there the party will go to the mountains for a rest. Mr. Chas. Smith is taking his first vacation now since he has been in Yuma, over 19 years. They may be gone thirty days.

From the bedside of Dave Inman, at the Yuma hospital, the cheering note is heard that his condition is favorable.

It begins to look like a little scrap with Mexico, and it will be all the powers of the Western Hemisphere on one side and Mexico (or Carranza) on the other.

13 MEXICANS KILLED ALONG THE BORDER

HARLINGEN, Tex., Aug. 12.—The Texas rangers Tuesday killed two American brothers named Brady, alleged members of the Mexican bandit gang which has been committing depredations in this locality recently. The Bradys, who were with a number of Mexicans, first fired upon the rangers, it was said.

Tuesday night a United States infantryman was killed by Mexican bandits about two miles east of Mercedes. The soldier was one of four on guard. The Mexicans crept up in the darkness and opened fire. The soldiers replied and the Mexicans vanished.

Two Mexicans were killed by rangers a few miles west of Sebastian, Tuesday. They are believed part of the bandit gang.

United States troopers at Armstrong, 77 miles north of Brownsville, were fired upon Tuesday afternoon by Mexican outlaws. Since the beginning of the raids, 13 Mexicans had been killed by possemen up to Tuesday night.

POSTOFFICE IN NEW HOME; ALL ARE HAPPY

The postoffice is now located in its new home and all hands are joyful. The new room is much better suited for the mail business. All mails go and come by the rear, where formerly the trucks were more or less a nuisance coming through the front door. The new place is much cooler, having better ventilation.

PALA INDIANS TO HOLD FIESTA AT SAN DIEGO

(Special to the Yuma Daily Examiner)
SAN DIEGO, Aug. 12.—One of the most spectacular events of the San Diego exposition-year is promised exposition visitors August 25, 26, 27 and 28, when the Pala Indian tribe from its reservation in San Diego county will hold its annual fiesta on the grounds of the exposition. The entire tribe of about 100 aged Indians and 400 younger braves and squaws and children will be transported by automobiles and motor trucks to the fair and there go into camp about their fiesta allotment of space. Here, throughout four days and nights they will celebrate.

A. O. Phillips and F. R. Morgan, of Somerton, have each recently shipped a car of honey from here.

Mont Smith has leased his ranch for two years and will go to Orange, Cal.
