DRYAMENDMENT UPHOLD

into the State of Arizona, for any purpose whatever.

This being the case, the authorities relied on by defendant do not apply to this state; while it is true that the highest Court of Kentucky has held, in construing her Constitution and Statutes on the liquor question, that "there is not and never has been any law of this state" (Kentucky) "that prohibited the citizen from purchasing, where it was lawful to sell, intoxicating liquor for his personal use, or from having in his possession for such use liquor so purchased" (48 L. R. A.—N. S.—342), nevertheless it must be borne in mind that the court was construing a Constitution and Statute that contained no such peremptory prohibition provision as is contained in Arizona's Constitution.

I am of the opinion that the Constitution of Arizona absolutely prohibits the introduction of intoxicants into this state, in any quantity, not even excepting the introduction for one's personal use, and that this provision, drastic though it may appear to some, is not unconstitutional.

It is not the province of the Courts to say whether this is a wise or unwise law, their duty is to interpret the law as the people, by their decision at the Polls, unquestionably intended it.

The information alleges commensurately the particular circumstances to constitute a complete offense under our Constitution.

The information is sufficient and the Demurrer is therefore overruled.

Done in open court this 2nd day of October, A. D. 1915.

FRANK BAXTER,
Judge.

J. L. REDONDO RESCUES ALLEGED SPY WISENER

(By B. F. Fly)

It was none other than my friend, J. L. Redondo, who went to the rescue of my other friend, "Collar and Overalls" Wisener, who got pinched last week for going into Mexico with a six-shooter in his pocket. And the beauty of the thing is that Mr. Redondo didn't even know Mr. Wisener, further than the fact that he is a fellow American.

Mr. Wisener had no idea of violating the Mexican laws, but he did just the same. When Mr. Redondo heard of it, he made a personal plea to the Mexican captain of the guard at Algodones and, though the case had already been reported to the higher officials, yet, upon Mr. Redondo's recommendations, Wisener was given his liberty, though his gun was, naturally, confiscated.

This should be a good lesson to all Americans. If they insist on visiting Algodones, or strolling along the bank of the Mexican side of the Colorado river, they will save themselves lots of trouble by leaving their shooting irons at home.

COUNTY ENGINEER REPORTS ALL READY FOR THE ROAD WORK

(By Benjamin Franklin Fly)

County Supervisor Ike Proebstel, County Engineer Hindman and Consulting Engineer Hunter made a trip to Tucson a few days ago to confer with Southern Pacific railway officials regarding side track for the county's rock quarry which will be necessary when work is begun on the good roads.

The conference was quite satisfactory, though definite arrangements could not be completed until the higher-ups were heard from at San Francisco.

"I am glad to say," said Mr. Hindman today, "that we are now assured of all necessary side tracks at the rock quarry. Consulting Engineer Hunter hurried on to San Francisco and took the matter up in person with the higher officials, with the result that he telegraphed me this morning that we get all we ask for. The Southern Pacific will lay all necessary tracks and otherwise help us all it can, the county, of course, paying its just share of the costs. The arrangements that have now practically been completed are all that we could ask for," said Mr. Hindman in conclusion.

All of which means that whoever secures the contract for erecting the rock crusher will find everything all ready for him to begin work without delay, and the same will apply to whoever gets the contract for constructing the good roads.

The construction of these proposed good roads is Supervisor Proebstel's hobby. He is intensely interested in seeing the work begun as early as possible and then completed without any unnecessary delay. He is also deeply interested in seeing that the C. D. company does not construct a dam across the Colorado that will damage either Yuma city or Yuma valley, and is of the firm opinion that the reason that company is trying to take all the waters of the Colorado is to thereby try to establish a prior claim to all the water it wants for all future development, regardless of whether it is now using all the water it diverts or is wasting it into the Salton Sea, as previously and clearly set forth in these columns.

BABY GIRL BORN IN THE ANGEL CITY

News has just reached Yuma that Julius Levy is the proud father of a pretty baby girl. Mrs. Levy, nee Miss Balboa, is in Los Angeles, and the report says both mother and baby are doing well. Julius is as happy as a lark.

One of the drawbacks about being a Har is that you always have a hard time trying to remember what you said yesterday and the day before.

MESA WILL DOUBLE ITS CITRUS CULTURE

(By Benjamin Franklin Fly)

Work is being rapidly pushed on the new orange grove on the mesa. Nearly 100 acres are already plowed and ready for leveling. Nearly all the concrete pipe has been moulded and is now ready for hauling to its place of destination.

Early this morning, E. D. Vincent, former supervising engineer of the construction of Laguna dam, called on Project Manager Lawson to have the exact spot located on the high line canal where the pumping plant is to be located.

Chief Draftsman McConnel was detailed to accompany Mr. Vincent to the place, which will be practically five miles down the canal, one-fourth of a mile north of the central canal, and a fourth of a mile below the "Old company Ranch," in Section 8.

The pumping plant will be here and ready for installation by October 20, and from that day until the work shall have been completed, there will be no let-up on this important undertaking.

Mr. Vincent reached Yuma yesterday. He is accompanied by several of those interested in the new orange grove, as well as by a well known nurseryman from Phoenix who is to furnish all the citrus fruit trees, the laws of Arizona prohibiting importation from other states. There will be upwards of 10,000 trees in the first order, which means that Yuma county's citrus culture is to be doubled before the year is out.

President Wood, Mr. Vincent and others interested in the new orange grove, and this work will probably be supervisors yesterday and asked that Orange Avenue road be completed to at least as far as the new orange grove, and this work will probably be done at once.

VEGETABLE GROWING ADVANCES AT GADSDEN

Leo Turner, superintendent of the truck gardening at Gadsden, was in town today on business connected with the new enterprise. Mr. Turner is very enthusiastic and confident of success. He says one hundred acres has been signed up and preparations for planting are well under way on several of the small tracts.

Mrs. Lila Koen is home from the coast.
