SAD DEATH.

Ed Stump Meets With a Tragic Death.

Word was yesterday received of the death of Ed Stump in the Huachuca mountains. The first report was to the effect that he was found murdered, and many rumors were soon afloat, causing considerable excitement, as he was well known here. However, authentic word was received later that his death was due to an accident.

The Prospector, by courtesy of the Huachuca Water Co., in using their telephone line, ascertained by communication with E. H. Stone that Mr. Stump had met with a tragic death. When his body was found his neck was broken, and every evidence pointed to the fact that Ed was engaged in cutting down a tree near the edge of an embankment, and apparently in trying to pull it over it suddenly gave way and he was precipitated to the bottom of the gulch, sustaining a broken neck and contusion on the head by a projecting rock, resulting fatally. To add to the saddening circumstances Ed left the house Friday and the body was not found until Sunday morning. He is to be buried near his home.

Ed Stump was well and favorably known in Tombstone and Cochise county, and by printers all over the west, and for many years was employed on the Prospector. He was 30 years of age, and his demise is sincerely regretted by all who knew him. The sorrowfulness of the occasion is the more intensified by the fact that the aged father and mother are thus deprived of their only son, and the irreparable loss will be a serious blow to the loving parents. The Prospector joins in extending heartfelt sympathy and condolences to the aged parents in their great affliction, and trust that among friends the pain in their hearts may grow less, and that loving hands will be held out to them in their deep sorrow.

A Prescott correspondent of the Phoenix Gazette estimates the number of Phoenix people who have visited Flagstaff this summer at three hundred.

Mrs. A. Garrett and children returned yesterday from their visit to California. They spent their month's pleasure trip very enjoyably and had a good time.

Mrs. Hutch, janitress of the school, contemplates leaving for California shortly, and the appointment of her successor was made by the board Saturday.

An exchange suggests that if the Chicago Tribune's "man who started in life at an early age" will come forward he can see 70,000,000 other persons who began life under very similar conditions.

Mr. J. Christensen was up from the river today. He informs the Prospector that he intends sinking for artesian water, and has perfected arrangements to begin work next week.

Under the new postoffice registry law soon to be promulgated the sending of registered letters is indemnified against loss to the extent of $10, no greater sum being allowed in any letter.

The Gazette of yesterday gives considerable space to a new remedy for snake-bite. The oil weighed in the balance and never-found-wanting remedy is yet doing its work in a very satisfactory manner, and the people are not going to give it up to go chasing after new and non-jagable rain-bows.

Supt. Johnson of the Gold Cliff at Pearce writes President Flitts that the mine is showing up surprisingly well. He states that free gold in quantity is now developing and in a test of a handful of dirt from the ledge in panning out, gave surprising results. He writes very enthusiastically of the progress in the mine.

The Board of School Trustees held a meeting Saturday and decided to open school on Monday, Sept. 13th, instead of Sept. 6th, as previously reported. The usual day of opening fell on Labor Day this year, and the board thought best to postpone until the following Monday. The appointment of Mrs. Holland as janitress was the only other business coming before the meeting.

CANINE SAUSAGE.

The "Missing Link" the Result of Official Interference.

A friend at Guaymas writes the Oasi's as follows: "The old joke about making sausage out of dogs is not vlogged in the lighter vein in these parts—especially in Guaymas."

"The other day some one reported to the chief of police that some 'phones' were living in a cave near Batuecas, about a mile from town. The official went over to see what they were doing. On arriving near the mouth of the cave he saw the ground strewn with dogs' heads, tails, etc. Rushing up to the cave he found four fellows hard at work cutting up and preparing dog meat for sausage, and near by a large basket full of the product ready for sale around the town. He immediately took them in and they are now in 'durance vile.' For some time people have been complaining of the sausage being awfully tough, and a lot of dogs were missing. The police counted forty heads at the cave. Some have ventured the opinion that the 'toughness' was caused by sundry and various old tom cats interperated to give it the proper staying qualities. "Sausage in this town is tabooed," and any legitimate sausage maker can close his establishment until further orders."

Great grasshoppers! How this advertiser ignores the Ten Commandments. The following "ad" is taken from a Las Vegas paper and headed "An Experiment": "Take a perfectly clean penknife and cut your finger so that it bleeds. How long will it take the wound to heal? Ordinarily it will require from eight to ten days. If you drink Kraterjack water it will heal in four days."

LABOR DAY.

Proclamation by the Governor Requesting Its Observance.

THE TERRITORY OF ARIZONA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

The laws of the United States designate the first Monday in September of each year as a legal holiday to be known as Labor Day.

When we reflect that labor is the foundation and creator of all wealth; that upon it depends all happiness and all excellence; that it is labor that builds up great States and carries on the commerce of the world, the wisdom of this enactment is apparent, and especially is it so when applied to the people of our territory who are laboring to develop its various resources and establish for themselves happy homes. Our busy and industrious communities contain but few idlers, hence nearly all can be rightfully classed as laborers—the mechanic, the merchant, the miner, the lawyer, the farmer, the divine, the banker, the physician, the teacher and the clerk, as well as he who performs the more severe task of daily manual labor, are laborers in the best sense of the word, for while many earn their daily bread by the sweat of their face and others by the work of their brain, they are all toilers.

A general observance of the day so wisely set apart by Congress will tend to promote a higher appreciation of the dignity of labor and the great part it is taking in the building up of our Territory and the great Republic of which we hope soon to become a State. To bring labor of all kinds into closer relations with itself and with other interests, to inculcate a friendly feeling and hearty co-operation between labor and capital, thus encouraging good will between all classes of the community with a view to pleasant and reciprocal relations, is the great object of this observance of Labor Day.

Now, therefore, I, Myron H. McCord, Governor of Arizona, do proclaim and declare Monday, the 6th day of September, 1897, a legal holiday, and do most earnestly recommend that all business of whatever nature, except such as the necessities of the community require to be carried on, be suspended on that day, that all who desire may have an opportunity to observe the day in a manner befitting the importance of the occasion.

Let us not forget that Labor Day is as important and to future generations will become as suggestive and inspiring as the religious and patriotic holidays that our people so loyally and religiously observe.

Done at Phoenix, the capital, this 16th day of August, A. D. 1897.

MYRON H. MCCORD, Governor of Arizona. CHARLES H. AKERS, Secretary of Arizona.

CACTUS SPECIMENS.

All Varieties to Be Seen at the Territorial University.

The largest cactus bed in the world, comprising every variety known to the Territory, lies within the heart-shaped border immediately in front of the main building of the Tucson University, says G. H. Smalley in the Phoenix Republican. Prof. Toumey, the botanist and entomologist of the agricultural experiment station and professor of biology of the university, who is recognized as the foremost authority on the botany of Arizona in the country, has brought together in his remarkable collection. Its founder has no superior in the science of botany. He is deserving of the thanks of the Territory for his work. If there is any particular kind of cactus you dislike for a job it has given you in an unguarded moment you will find it here smiling happily and surrounded by all its brothers and sisters.

It gets so cold in Alaska that whiskey freezes.—Yuma Sun.

Better drink it before it freezes. It gets so hot at Yuma that whiskey has to be cooled off with boiling water before it can be drunk. Take your choice.—Mineral Wealth.

Because the Tombstone Prospector man is compelled to depend upon his imagination for news the Phoenix press wax woolly and convey covert flings directed at the Prospector which frequently mention Ananias.—Oasi.
