The mining business is booming all over the territory.

A lot of people in the Territory don't yet know how it all happened on election day.

Western New York is enjoying a howling snow storm, while Arizona is basking in genial sunshine.

Chicago cast 46,000 more votes than New York last week. The course of empire continues to follow the sun.

A Chicago blind man has eloped with a blind woman. If anything on earth can make them open their eyes marriage will do it.

The discovery of an Indiana snake "as large as the pipe of a No. 8 cook-stove" probably is due to a scarcity of No. 1. whisky in that section.

Every candidate will have to file a statement of his expenses with the clerk of the board of supervisors, no matter whether successful or not.

An English paper exclaims: "Bryan is not dead," and warns the people to be on the alert or he will rise supreme. The foreign contemporary is right.

The woman suffrage amendment was defeated in California. The first reports indicated its success, but full returns show that it was lost by a very considerable majority.

We are told that "there is an immense amount of British capital, now coming over, to be invested in the United States." In the language of Patrick Henry, "let it come."

New York has a female Schaller in the person of Mrs. Anna Johnson, who is conducting what she is pleased to term a Christian Healing Institute and School of Holy Spirit. She cures all manner of ailments by prayer and laying on of hands. She claims to have died twenty-five years ago, and to have been sent back to life by the savior, whose special representative she is, and that she will never die again.

"One of the greatest aids to the mining industry of Arizona," said a prominent business man to a Herald reporter, "would be cheapening of the price of cyanide. The use of the chemical is now almost a monopoly of a single company. I notice that the company has lately sustained a severe blow in the courts. If its hold was broken, cyanide reduction costs would be cut in half, and many a dump of gold tailings now worthless could be worked at a profit."

Lon Harmon, a well known cattleman, was in Phoenix yesterday. Mr. Harmon states that no cattle will be shipped out of the valley for some weeks yet as the California stockman are disposing of their cattle and there is no demand for Arizona beef. He says that the cattlemen of the territory are enjoying greater prosperity this season than for some years, as the continued rains have made grazing excellent on the ranges. They are not anxious to sell, as a good price for beef cattle is looked for this winter.—Republican.

Amid the crash of political hopes and the lamentations of defeated candidates, Editor Rogers of the Prescott Courier, one of the staunchest silver advocates in Arizona, has found time to join the benedictine and on Saturday last took unto himself a better-half. It seems very for an Arizona newspaper man to take such a step in the face of the stern fact that prices are falling and money is constantly growing scarcer; but we wish the editor all the happiness and joy imaginable in his new venture.

The earth is now nearing the great meteoric orbit, and very soon there will appear in the heavens great numbers of the sparkling "shooting stars," blazing into dissolution from the heat caused by friction with the earth's atmosphere. Astronomers the world over are preparing to witness the display, which will be at its height about the middle of November, and local astronomers are in readiness to make careful observations.

BISBEE NEWS.

Bisbee, November 11, 1896.
COPPERINGS.

Del Lewis left this morning for a short trip to Tombstone. He will return in a few days.

Mr. Etz of Benson came in on the train this evening on business connected with his cattle interests. He will remain in town a day or so.

J. B. Angus took a trip to Fairbank and back today for the purpose of meeting Mrs. Noble from Tombstone who is to pay his family a visit.

Mr. G. C. Bollinger accompanied his wife to Benson today and returned this evening. Mrs. Bollinger is going on a visit to her mother who resides in Phoenix and anticipates a very pleasant change from life in Bisbee.

Louis Bodecker came in again for a short visit this evening and looks as merry as ever. Louis reports everything favorable in his vicinity and says they couldn't come much better as far as he is concerned.

Johnny Spence, an old time Bisbeeite who left here about a year and a half ago for a trip through Central America, returned this evening glad to again see his numerous friends and acquaintances. He has done quite a little traveling in the time he has been away and, while he has not struck any particularly bright bonanzas, he has had a good time from start to finish.

James S. Douglas, son of Prof. Jas. Douglas, arrived from Prescott last evening, where he has been in charge of operations for some time past, but he left almost immediately this morning to join the party from here, including Prof. Douglas and Mr. Ben Williams, who are at present investigating the Nacozari mining property. The entire party will probably return in a week or thereabouts.

Quite a number of Bisbeeites left for the county seat this morning to be in attendance at the opening of court tomorrow. Among them we noticed Judge S. K. Williams, Assemblyman Jones, Syd Harris and others. The entire party declared themselves in for an economic trip and left their gold certificates at home but we are afraid that their credit will have to stand a great many "incidental" expenses.

Dr. J. W. Farrington left for Tombstone this morning for the express purpose of finding out who that third delegate to the assembly is. Doc has stood the racket bravely for the past week and has done his very best at trying to look unconcerned but nevertheless he is exceedingly anxious and would give considerable to know just where he stands at present. We understand that the doctor intends to inspect the official count in person if possible, but we may be misinformed on this point.

We hope our good people before purchasing any more of traveling photographers will give our friend Markey a call and look over his collection of artistic views of our town. Mr. Markey has of late been devoting considerable time to a number of sectional views of our town and he is now prepared to furnish as fine views of Bisbee as could possibly be produced by any traveling photographer. One of his views in particular is one which he took in five sections and which shows the entire town of Bisbee from the mouth of the canyon almost to its head. This picture is one which will command a place in all of our collections of views and is surely well worth a visit to see. Mr. Markey is always willing to exhibit his views even if you have no idea of purchasing at the time.

Shortly after the arrival of the train yesterday afternoon we noticed what was to us an amusing incident. A number of our "Young America" were busily engaged spinning their tops on the Library Plaza when they were accosted by a stranger who had just arrived in town and who inquired where he would find the best restaurant. "Why at Otto Geisendorfer's, of course," replied the crowd in unison; "the one right over there with the sign Waldorf on the window! Guess you must be a greeny." The gentlemen received this sally with a smile, thanked the boys and went on his way rejoicing; but the smiles of pity which remained on the small boys' faces were enough to stop a shell full of eight-day clocks.

MORAL—Don't give the kids a chance to laugh at your ignorance, but make a bee line for the Waldorf on your arrival.

HIS EXPERIENCE.

How Black Jack and Pals Held up Agent Temple.

Mr. Joseph Temple, the gentlemanly N. M. & A. agent at Huachuca Siding, was in town today on court duty and was seen by a Phoenix reporter for an account of his experience with the robbers who held him up on Saturday last.

Mr. Temple states that himself and another employee were in the office when suddenly two men entered and without much ado ordered hands up, at the same time both men were peering into the barrels of two ugly looking pistols, manufactured by Mr. Colt. It is needless to say that both complied with the request with alacrity.

Whereupon the dark complexioned highwayman, presumably Black Jack, acting as spokesman, volunteered the information that they were out for the stuff, saying: "We do not want to rob any individual person, but are after the railroad and express companies. We do not want to kill anyone, but if necessary it will not trouble us much to do it." Concluding his speech he ordered the agent to open the safe under penalty of death and accompanied him to the iron box to see that it was properly done.

In the meanwhile the other employee was being looked after by the other robber who hunted about his clothes for a concealed weapon when he accidentally found the owner's purse containing some money. The robber pocketed it but when the old gray haired employee appealed to him saying it was all the money he had in the world the heart of the robber was softened and he returned the purse without opening it.

The money drawer of the safe was placed on the counter and the robber, to make sure nothing was held back, investigated himself and ordered everything in the safe, papers and all, placed on the counter. He noticed a disposition on the part of the agent to reluctantly bring things forth who was promptly told they would stand "no monkey business," and by the way the guns were flourished they meant it. The agent was ordered to separate the checks and papers from the cash and when finished the coin was tucked away in the robber's capacious pockets.

After looking about and passing jocular remarks about things and persons, the robbers concluded they had got everything of value. Before leaving, however, one took another last look at the safe and seeing some small packages that the agent didn't take out he put them in his shirt front and then the two employees were marched out to where the robbers horses were tied.

The younger robber had Agent Temple in tow and when about half way the former concluded he wanted some whisky and asked if Tom Smith's saloon was open yet. Tom had closed unusually early that evening and he was informed so. Then spying a private car on the track the inquisitive highwayman wanted to know all about it. Again the desired information was furnished, the car being that of General Wheaton who was on an inspecting tour of the military posts. Williams, (for that is who the robber is believed to be) stated that he would go over and have a drink with the general himself, and was much disappointed when told the entire party were at the post.

Williams declared he had a most elegant thirst and knowing there was some wine in the warehouse told Temple to come back and get some. Both returned, Williams holding the lamp in one hand and sizehooter in the other. The wine was found and Temple was made to uncork a bottle and sample some first, then Williams gratified his desire for refreshments. Williams next told Temple to take two bottles, uncork them and carry them out to his partner which was done. Black Jack and the aged employee were found patiently waiting, Black Jack being engaged in pastime chat and tearing open the packages he had just taken from the safe a few moments previous, burning the wrappers and seeing what the contents were. Mr. Temple explained the packages were jewelry belonging to private individuals who had left them in his care for safe keeping, and asked that they be returned. Both robbers looked at them by the light of the fire and concluded they would be of use to them and handed them back.

Both bandits were very talkative and gave an account of their holdups at Separ and San Simon and stated they might call again. They were certain a few officers would be killed if they continued to pursue them.

Williams passed the bottle for a farewell drink and the two unwilling victims were forced to drink, when the robbers finally mounted their horses and left.

Mr. Temple states that fully thirty or forty minutes were spent by the robbers at the Siding and during the entire time not once did either take their hands off their pistols. Neither was masked and the coolness and utter abandon and fearlessness with which they conducted the robbery would at once impress one with the full force of their remark that they would not be troubled much to put out a life with a leaden missile if necessary to further their ends.

They are desperate men and are safe only behind prison bars. The Indian-tailors found where 4 horsemen were together just a little beyond where the horses of the 2 bandits were tied showing conclusively that two men were outside waiting in case of an emergency. The four horsemen were traveling together when the trail was lost.

A patient for the hospital was brought in from San Simon today by Mr. Thos. Henderson. The unfortunate patient, a Mr. Clark had wandered away from the railroad and was lost. He was found by a round-up crew, an account of which will be given tomorrow.

Orange picking at the grove of the Arizona Improvement Company will begin next week says the Phoenix Herald. The fruit is and has been for ten days sweet and ready for consumption, but is allowed to remain on the trees to secure in full measure the sweetening, fragrance and high color that marks the valley product in the eastern markets. The fruit this season is of excellent quality, thin-skinned and of the size best suited to the trade.

The West Baden Journal publishes the following mathematical problem: A man purchased groceries to the amount of thirty-four cents. When he came to pay for the goods he had only a dollar bill, a three cent piece and a two cent piece. The storekeeper had a half dollar and a quarter. They appealed to a bystander, but he only had two dimes and one penny. After some perplexity the change was made to the satisfaction of all. How was it done?

The chainless bicycle idea is causing much comment among the makers and riders. It is said, on good authority, that at least four of the large makers will put such wheels on the market next season. One inventor, in the east is working on an idea which he thinks will revolutionize bicycle manufacture while the inventor believes in the chainless wheel he is working on one in which he wishes to avoid the beveled gear, and he thinks that he has discovered a way to do it.

The automatic machine idea has been turned to new account in Italy. Put a coin in the slot and take out a receipt, and the thing is done. The workman's "best penny" is banked without the trouble of going to the savings bank or post office. When a sufficient number of receipts have been collected, they can be exchanged for a "libretto" at the regular savings bank. Interest at 4 per cent is paid on deposit, and the depositors are entitled to a share of the profits derived from the bank's operations.

Scrofula

Is a deep-seated blood disease which all the mineral mixtures in the world cannot cure. S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is a real blood remedy for blood diseases and has no equal.

Mrs. Y. T. Buck, of Delaney, Ark., had Scrofula for twenty-five years and most of the time was under the care of the doctors who could not relieve her. A specialist said he could cure her, but he filled her with arsenic and potash which almost ruined her constitution. She then took nearly every so-called blood medicine and drank them by the wholesale, but they did not reach her trouble. Some one advised her to try S.S.S., and she very soon found that she had a real blood remedy at last. She says: "After taking one dozen bottles of S.S.S. I am perfectly well, my skin is clear and healthy, and I would not be in my former condition for two thousand dollars. Instead of drying up the poison in my system, like the potash and arsenic, S.S.S. drove the disease out through the skin, and I was permanently rid of it."

A Real Blood Remedy.
S.S.S. never fails to cure Scrofula, Eczema, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, or any disorder of the blood. Do not rely upon a simple tonic to cure a deep-seated blood disease, but take a real blood remedy.

A QUESTION.

An International Problem to be Solved.

Can a person be extradited to his native country after having declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, is a question now before the authorities at Washington, D. C. This question arose in the case of Antonio Vazari, who is wanted in the City of Chihuahua, Mexico for embezzlement; having committed the crime and made declaration intending to become a citizen of our country at the end of five years, the time required to be in the country before application can be made for final papers.

He was arrested in that city, according to the El Paso Herald, a few weeks ago at the instance of the Mexican authorities and placed in jail without bonds, pending the decision of the right of extradition. The case has been under investigation by Commissioner Sexton for several days and yesterday he rendered his decision ordering the said Antonio Vazari extradited. An appeal was immediately taken and the papers forwarded to Washington for a final decision on this very important international law point.
