WHEAT WANTED

Man is just beginning to learn a little of the most powerful forces in nature. During the last sixty years wonderful changes and much progress have been made. A new light, a broader humanity, and a deeper spirituality have come to the world. The application of steam and the invention of machinery, that brought the continent together and made the world one market was but the beginning of the gray dawn of light, that will envelope the earth and lift man into an atmosphere more pure and more divine.

It is now admitted that the man who has pure blood, health and muscles, and a clear brain, is the one who can serve his God and humanity the best. The mighty and subtle forces of nature, with wisdom to use them, become man's best servants. In nature's unlimited storeroom we find all that is needed for the development of the body and mind.

Some of the fine forces of nature, that may be used to strengthen and beautify body and spiritualize the soul are sunlight, electricity, magnetism, color forces, fine spiritual forces, and will power. Proper living will put us in possession of all that is necessary and best for us. Perfect health will be secured by living in harmony with the fine forces that regulate the universe under the direction of the Divine will. An exception, however must be made in the case of accidents and hereditary tendency. But even tendency to disease may not develop in a long life time, if perfect living is the rule of life.

An attempt will be made in this short paper to give, in brief terms, the influence and power of sunshine upon human beings.

The sun, the most beautiful object in nature, is the center light and life to the solar system. The sun paints the most beautiful colors on fruits and flowers, ripens the waving fields of grain, and warms and vitalizes the blood that circulates through the human system.

Without the sun the world would be a void. Darkness and death would reign supreme.

Lord Byron saw such a vision when he wrote the following lines: "The bright sun was extinguished, and the stars Did wander darkling in the eternal space Rayless and pathless; and the icy earth Living blind and blackening in the moonless air; Morn came and went, and came, and brought no day, And men forgot their passion in the dread Of this their desolation; and all hearts Were chilled into a selfish prayer for light."

It is a wise provision of nature

THE FARM.

Every time a rain falls all tilled land should be cultivated. There are many light rains through the summer which wet only the surface of the soil, and if this is not cultivated under the moisture speedily evaporates and is lost. This cultivation has also another effect in developing nitrates in the soil. Whatever vegetable matter is in the soil needs only to be brought into contact with oxygen to be decomposed and its manurial elements set free. There is also on soil that is cultivated frequently a deposit of moisture by the atmosphere which it contains, and this, being really a dew, always contains more ammonia than does ordinary rain water.

It is not possible, or best if it were, to plow so close to trees in sod as to remove all the grass around their trunks. But such clumps of grass should be dug out with a spade and overturned. There are no roots close to the stump for this grass to interfere with, but it makes just the shelter that the apple tree borer beetle needs when depositing its eggs. It also obstructs the view of the tree trunk. Every orchardist should watch his trees closely during the summer for signs of the borer, and the bunch of grass growing around the roots of the trees is what most often prevents the first work of the borer from being observed.

The lady who inquired about the cultivation of sage should purchase a paper of English broad-leaf seed, of some reliable grower. I prefer the broad leaf as it is less apt to run to seed. Prepare a bed for the seed with a few spadefuls of the surface from the hen yard, and mix that with the dirt in the seed-bed thoroughly. When the plants are large enough transplant in rows 18 inches apart. Pinch off the buds when they appear; if allowed to go to seed, it is injurious to the plant. When the leaves are large enough, pick or cut them off and spread in a dark warm room. The sooner it dries the better it is. When dry place it in an air-tight bag. Before a rain it is well to throw a spadeful of hen manure about the plants. Manure taken from the surface of the yard is best as it isn't so strong.

Health and Power.

The following was written for the Logan Journal by W. H. Apperly, one of Utah's leading educators.

One of the most important healing instruments ever given to the world is the Thermolumine. This is an instrument that can be used to animate the system in the solar sweat baths. One medical writer says in speaking of it that every case of Rheumatism, Consumption, Dropsy, and Scrofula that has received a regular course of treatment in it has up to the present time been cured.

The sun is the grandest life giving force in the universe. Why should not ignorant tribes and heathen nations worship it? there is no other object in nature so worthy of their adoration. Let us thank God for the glorious sunlight. Let us open our windows and our souls to receive it, that we may be made healthy and virtuous by its divine influence.

ONLY A—RUSTIC.

But He Gave Some Pointers on Country Style.

"There were 13 men of us holding down seats in a Fourth avenue car the other day, while four women who couldn't get seats were hanging to the straps when a man at the end of the car, who had been busy with the contents of his grip, suddenly rose up and asked one of the women to accept his seat. In reply to her "thanks" he said:

"Not at all, ma'am—not at all. I'm sorry I didn't offer it before. Hope you will excuse me, ma'am."

She bowed in the affirmative and he said:

"I am not a New Yorker, ma'am. No, I don't live here. You suspected as much, I presume?"

She looked up, curiously, but didn't reply, and he glanced up and down the car and continued:

"I am what you folks call a provincial, you know—live out in a country town. We are hayseeds out there, and have rustic ways. For instance, you would never see 12 of our men occupying seats in a street car while three ladies had to stand up. Regular country style that is, but we can't help it."

The 12 of us looked full at him and sought to bulldoze him into silence, but it didn't work.

that what is needed most exists in the largest quantities, and is the most easy to access. Sunlight is plentiful and cheap. All we have to do is to put ourselves in the way of it. If we open our window our room will be filled with it. If we expose our bodies to its genial influence they will be warmed and vitalized by the life giving principle. Plants that grow in the shade are weak and sickly. Human beings that are deprived of sunlight become subject to scrofulous conditions and a prey to many diseases. It has been said that one invites idiocy as well as disease by rearing a child in the shadow.

The late Dr. Dio Lewis uses the following language: "Don't you see a good many pale girls in your stores, girls with a bloodless half-baked sort of a face, whose expression is void of spirit and force? Those girls are in a green state. Look at their lips and cheeks. They are not half ripe. Send them out into the country and let them live in the sunshine three months, and I would give more for any one of them in any work requiring spirit than for a dozen of those pale things that live in the shade. The only girls who become fully ripe and sweet are those who baptize themselves freely in sunshine."

Sunlight not only cures disease and gives physical energy and beauty, but it increases mental power as well. Joseph Simms, M. D., in writing to Dr. Babbitt of the intellectual feat of students who reside in sunny climates says:— "These nature's children of the sun are far stronger than American or Englishmen or other Europeans." One class of twelve Arab boys under thirteen learned four languages in four years. They could also work difficult theorems in Euclid with skill and swiftness without the aid of book or teacher. The learned Doctor closes his long and interesting letter in the following words: "Yours truly and heartily in sympathy with the cause of sunlight."

Students, you may increase your mental vigor as follows: Sleep in clean and well ventilated rooms that admit a good supply of sunlight and expose the bedclothes to the sunshine as often as possible. Keep the lungs well supplied both night and day with pure air. Take exercise every day in the sunshine.

Sunlight drives away the blues, gives elasticity to the step, and vigor to the brain. It makes the eye sparkle with love and intelligence and it gives a bloom to the cheek, that cannot be had from all the cosmetics in the world.

"We've got a few professional loafers, of course, but I can't remember when one of them kept his seat and obliged a lady to stand. Twelve men comfortably sitting down and three women lurching around as they hang to the straps! Its New York, you know, and not at all queer to you, but I must confess—"

I do not know what he confessed to. I rose up and went out and dropped off the car, and was followed by 11 others, and when the car had passed we went into canons and bound each other by a solemn oath to punch that man's head at the peril of our lives if we ever ran across him again.—Detroit Free Press.

ARIZONA HIS PREFERENCE.

CONTAINS RICHEST GOLD FIELDS.

Finds His Ideal Existence in the Southern Territory.

Colonel Lee Crandall, late of Washington, D. C., with R. E. Humphries and Joseph W. Masters, associated members of the Kasser Mining and Milling company of Globe Arizona are in the city. The company, which is one of the largest engaged in gold mining in the state, has recently undergone reorganization, and has become possessed of a one half interest in what is known as the Great Western group of carbonate ore bearing mines, ten in number, which are located eight miles west of Globe, and of several other valuable adjacent properties. The representatives of the company now in the city are here for the purpose of having constructed, by the Colorado Iron works, all equipment of machinery for the development of its properties.

The official list of the company at present is: President, Colonel Lee Crandall of Globe, Arizona; vice-president, John Kasser of Globe, Ariz.; treasurer, Joseph W. Masters of Brooklyn, N. Y.; secretary, Theodore Crandall of Globe, Ariz.; general attorney, Noble E. Dewson of Washington, D. C., and Richard D. Jackson of New York. The officers consultative the board of directors.

The properties owned by the company are situated sixty miles from the railway station of Ft. Thomas, which is at the extremity of a spur, sixty miles in length, connecting the Southern Pacific at Bowie. The claims are in the Gila valley and mountain spurs adjacent thereto, and comprise about 200 acres in extent.

Speaking of the affairs of the company and of Arizona in particular, Colonel Crandall remarked: "Christopher Columbus discovered America, I discovered R. E. Humphries, and Humphries discovered the Great Western group." Mr. Humphries has been a resident of Arizona for thirty years, and has prospected, assayed and developed many of its most valuable mining properties. Speaking of the mineral and agricultural resources of the state and of the climatic conditions he said:

"Arizona has the richest gold fields in America to-day, not excepting Cripple Creek. The carbonates and free ores are found from the east to the west and from the north to the south boundaries of the state. Last year the state built more lines of railway than all other western states combined. Its valleys produce five crops of alfalfa yearly, and afford winter grazing besides, while our fruits are shipped to California and sold as famous fruits of that famous state. Peaches, pears and apples of Arizona took first prizes at the California Midwinter fair. Peaches weighing fifteen ounces are not uncommon, while I have seen a bushel of them weighing twelve ounces each, taken from one tree.

"The climate," continued the speaker, "is the most delightful in America. After having lived in every western state I would not now give up my Arizona residence for a reservation in paradise."

Colonel Crandall thinks well enough of Arizona to give up his Washington and Alabama properties there to take up his residence there. After a brief sojourn in the east, whence he goes in a day or so, he will return to Globe to reside.

"I have registered there," said he, "and am going to ally myself with that splendid state. I regard it as being the best state for young men without capital to emigrate to of and locality in America. It is what Michigan and Ohio were fifty years ago."

Colonel Crandall is well known throughout the country, both as editor and politician, and goes west to spread his doctrine, displayed upon a lapel button which he wears, of "More money, less misery."

Mr. Masters of the company said he had much to say regarding his first western trip.

Speaking of his trip through Arizona he said: "I came West a doubting Thomas, but I go back a believer. Of course I was surprised to find trees sprouting by merely sticking limbs into the soil, as they do the Okachilla in Arizona, and also surprised at the apples of the Salmaras, or giant cactus. The mines, too, were a revelation to me, but the hospitality of the people, the freedom from petty crimes and the exuberant climate can only be appreciated when known."
