The primaries will be held on September 8th, sixty days prior to the general election of Tuesday, November 3d, as required by law. The day for the general election is fixed as the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The procedure for the primary election, as provided in the new code, is as follows:

At least sixty days before the primary the secretary of state shall prepare and transmit to the board of supervisors a notice designating the offices for which candidates are to be nominated. This notice shall be published once a week for three consecutive weeks.

Candidates shall file nomination petitions from 20 to 60 days before the primary, that is, not later than August 18th, and not sooner than July 9th. They are to be signed by the candidate, bear his residence and postoffice address, the date of the primary election and the election, and, if he is a non-partisan candidate, it must be so stated.

Petitions for state offices are to be filed with the secretary of state; for county offices with the clerk of the board of supervisors, and for city offices with the recorder.

The candidate may also file a nominating paper signed by qualified electors. In the case of candidates for presidential electors, representatives in congress, United States senator and state offices, with the exception of the legislature and superior court judges, it must be at least one per cent of the voters of his party distributed over at least three counties; for a county office, member of the legislature or superior court judge, three per cent of the party in the county; for county precinct committee-man, three per cent of the party vote in the precinct; for justice of the peace or constable, five per cent of the party vote in at least a sixth of the election precinct.

The basis of percentage in the vote of the party for governor at the last preceding general election: Any political organization which cast five per cent of the total vote for governor shall be entitled to representation. A new party may be represented by a candidate upon petition of electors equal to two per cent of the number of votes cast for governor, distributed through at least five counties.

The county supervisors and city recorders must prepare sample ballots 12 days before the primary of 1914 and submit them to chairmen of county and city committees and candidates.

Strict provisions have been enacted regarding election expenditures. Each candidate must file his itemized list of expenditures within ten days after election. It must include all promises to pay money or other things of value as well as all treats, presents or favors which cost money or other things of value, either present or future, which are intended to contribute to their success.

The candidate must file expenses of his authorized agents and of those who made expenditures in his behalf even though not authorized. If he does not file these statements he is not to receive his certificate of nomination, supposing him to have been successful. Successful or unsuccessful he is liable to a fine of from $25.00 to $500.00 upon conviction of the misdemeanor.

Vacancies occurring after the primary, shall be filled by the party committee. Campaign committees must file reports of their expenditures.

The maximum prices which may be legally paid by means of campaign expenditures for the various offices are: United States senator, $1,500; state officer, $1,000; supreme judge, $750; congressman, $1,000; superior judge, $200; state senator, $200; state representative, $200; office of district or subdivision of a county, $50; mayor of a city of 5,000 population or over, $200; other city officers, $50.

If a candidate exceed these expenditures, he shall be liable to a fine of from $100 to $2,000 and (not or) confined in the jail of the county in which he shall have been convicted from six months to two years.

A candidate may secure nomination by certificate, which is to be filed not less than 10 days after the primary and which shall be signed, only by voters who have not signed the nomination papers.

In order to vote at a primary one must be a qualified voter and have resided in the precinct for thirty days prior to the election.
