A Home Course in Domestic Science

"Twenty Lessons in Domestic Science," by Marion Cole Fisher has recently been received by us for review.
This is a complete advanced course in domestic science and home economics boiled down to meet the requirements of the housewife and the student.
The entire course consists of twenty practical lessons—one hundred pages filled with the most valuable information the housewife can possess, heretofore taught only in domestic science schools.

Do you know the relative value of food, what fruit to use for cooking, what purpose salads serve, the correct use of condiments, about proper kitchen equipments, about U. S. Government's bulletins, how to reduce the high cost of living, how to promote and protect your own and your families health, how to make housekeeping simpler and more economical and pleasant by utilizing modern science in the home.
This book, we note, is priced at $2.00 per copy and from what we understand it contains a complete $100,000 college course, condensed, and it is practically free to every interested housewife.

Write the Home Economics Department of the Calumet Baking Powder Company, 4100-28 Fillmore St., Chicago, Illinois, for full particulars regarding the book and how to secure it.

YOUTH MEETS SPRING

When youth and springtime meet in the mind of the designer of millinery we are presented with such conceptions as those in the group of hats shown above. One of the new shiny fabrics makes the draped turban with its audacious drooping bow at the right side. Knife-plaited ribbon is responsible for the cheerful hat in rose color that looks as if it might be made of sea shells at the right. The odd and flashing shape at the left has a satin brim and fancy braid crown with a cluster that comprises fruits, flowers and foliage posed against it. The wide-brimmed braid hat boasts of lovely lines not interfered with by a rosette and ends of satin ribbon posed at the side. These are only four among the myriads of hats made to grace the heads of young women, but from them may be gathered something of the vivacity and the general brightness of new shapes and materials for spring.

ALONG the Apache Trail in Arizona

ALONG the Apache Trail in Arizona the motorist can see the dwellings of a race—now believed to be extinct. These cliff dwellings are at least 400 years old and if their walls could speak they would tell a most dramatic story of romance and conquest.
Arizona has more than its share of interesting places to lure the motorist. There he will find many Indian reservations—the homes of Apaches, Navajos, Hopis, Mohaves and other tribes. There, too, is the famous Roosevelt Dam and the incomparable Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.
And wherever he goes the motorist can be sure that his motor fuel will be right—because Red Crown Gasoline is sold everywhere.
Look for the Red Crown sign on service stations and garages.

President and Mrs. Andrew Kimball returned from the North Saturday evening and were glad to get home again. They report having had a very interesting time while in Salt Lake City in attendance upon the various meetings of the Relief Society and General Conference. There was a fall of about six inches of snow all over the north and extending to the Nevada line. Heavy frost destroyed all the fruit and vegetation, it appears that the cold wave struck Cala and Ariz as well.
