

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Are you a victim of headache? Did it ever occur to you to inquire into the cause? Ninety per cent of headaches are caused by strained or imperfect eyes. You see perfectly—that may be—but by overtaxing the delicate muscles and nerves of the eye, you impose upon them more work than they are able to do.

If your headache is from your eyes we can cure it.

WANTS HIS PRESENTS BACK

Nat Goodwin Will Try to Upset Ex-wife's Agreement

New York, June 3.—According to a dispatch from Los Angeles, Nat Goodwin, the comedian, may endeavor to regain possession of $500,000 worth of California property, in which Miss Edna Goodrich acquired an interest before she married him. Prior to the wedding, a lawyer in England drew up a trust agreement, extending beyond the lives of the principals, which made Miss Goodrich a partner in the ownership of the property. Mr. Goodwin according to the report from Los Angeles, believes that such an agreement made in England is not valid in California and will base his efforts to regain the full ownership of the property on this technicality.

Herman L. Roth, attorney for Miss Goodrich, says that the comedian is misinformed on the subject. The agreement, even though it was drawn up in England, is as binding in California as though it were made in that state, he declares. He has not heard from Miss Goodrich concerning the plan of her former husband, but expects word from her at any time. She is present abroad.

"Miss Goodrich will not submit to the consummation of any such a plan without a fight," said Mr. Roth, "and I believe she would win in her opposing action. I shall take no steps to offset Mr. Goodwin's intentions until he makes a move in the courts. California court annals have a precedent that supports my contention that an action would result in the retention of the property to Miss Goodrich."

In the Fair case, some time ago, the supreme court of California, held that a deed of trust, which provides that, at the death of either of the parties to the instrument, the trustee shall convey to the surviving party the real property therein, is void on the ground that the statute of uses and trusts of the state of California does not convey that power to the trustee.

But, on the other hand, the case of the bank of Sacramento versus Montgomery, a later action—only two years ago—the full bench decided that, while following in a way the decision in the Fair case, a unanimous decision was rendered that only the heirs at law could attack such a trust deed, notwithstanding, the statute of uses and trusts. In other words, neither of the parties to the instrument can, during their lifetime, attack the trust deed. In that opinion the court, Mr. Roth thinks, got away from the former decision. He also believes that the later decision is so explicit and specific that if any other action in point be brought, the Fair decision can absolutely be reversed. The Fair decision by the way, was rendered by four of the members of the Supreme court, three dissenting.

If the recent decision holds, Mr. Goodwin's heirs might attack the trust deed, but not he.

A friend of the comedian said yesterday that, through the fact that Miss Maxine Elliott, a former wife of Mr. Goodwin, was not represented by counsel when he divorced her several years ago, she might, in the event of his death, bring action for a portion of his estate, that would even cause Miss Goodrich trouble in getting possession of her share in the $500,000 worth of property involved in the trust deed drawn up in England.

NEGROES LYNCH A NEGRO

But They Were Applauded and Encouraged by White Neighbors.

Jackson, Miss., June 3.—With white men applauding their efforts, a mob composed entirely of negroes lynched Alfred Johnson near Shelby, Miss., for killing Hamp Moore, an aged negro. The killing, it is said, followed an argument in which the old negro reprimanded the younger for denouncing slave owners.

Johnson was locked in jail when the negroes stormed the place and overwhelmed the jail officials.

The white people, who are greatly outnumbered by the negroes in the Shelby neighborhood, joined in as spectators only, but encouraged the blacks.

BRYAN'S STATEMENT

Says Democrats in Congress are Responsible to Country

St. Paul, Minn., June 3.—When shown a report of the action of the Democratic caucus on the wool schedule, William J. Bryan gave out the following:

"The Democrats in congress are responsible to the country and to their constituents and it remains to be seen whether their action will be endorsed. The report which I have seen shows that the matter was fought upon a false basis and I shall be mistaken if the public is deceived by the pretense that it was levied for revenue.

"The amount raised by a tax on wool could be raised by a tax on raw silk or raw rubber with much more justice. I mention these two ways of making up the amount. There are many other ways. The tax on wool would never be thought of but for the protective benefit it is supposed to bring to wool-growers. I think the party would have done better if it had honestly stated its reasons, and declared itself in favor of protection to that extent.

"However, in expressing my opinion, I am only speaking for myself, and the caucus may find the public more gullible than I think it. The declaration that this is not a surrender of the free wool doctrine is adding insult to injury, and I was surprised that any advocates of free wool accepted it as a reason for endorsing the committee bill."

RAISING OF THE MAINE

Pumps Will Work Slowly Cleaning Water from Cofferdam.

Washington, June 3.—Army engineer officers here estimate that it will be at least two months after work begins on pumping out the water in the cofferdam about the battle ship Maine, in Havana Harbor, before an expert opinion can be formed as to whether it was an inside or outside explosion that sank the vessel. The tourists who go to Havana thinking to see the Maine entirely exposed within twenty-four hours will be badly disappointed. Just at present the War Department officials are planning to withstand the charge of the multitudes who wish to examine the progress of the work as carefully as the army and navy experts. Civilians probably will not be allowed aboard while the work is progressing.

Assuming that the pumping out begins on June 15, as scheduled, the first stage of the unwatering process will only lower the water enough to expose the top deck. This probably will loom up as a bank of mud as the water in the harbor is very muddy and the vessel has been "collecting" deposits for thirteen years. When the upper deck is out of the water, the work of clearing away the mud and examining the deck will keep the officers busy at least three or four days. The examination of the deck will of course be made with the greatest care. In making an inventory of what is found the officers must be in a position to swear that they were actually there when the mud was cleared away. For this reason, if for no other, it will be necessary to exclude outsiders.

When the work on the upper deck is completed there will be more pumping and more mud until the water is lowered to the deck below. Inspection of this deck will then be undertaken without undue haste. It is believed that the lower down the water goes the more difficult will be the work of clearing the mud away. The problems of inspection also will be made more difficult as the successive stages of pumping out progress as daylight will not penetrate into the hull of the vessel and work will have to be done with artificial light.

What can be saved of the Maine and what it is most expedient to do with the vessel can only be well determined when she is exposed to view. Many engineer officers fear she can never be floated and will have to be taken apart in sections if it is decided to save her at all. Other officers believe she will break and fall to pieces when the unwatering of the cofferdam gets under way.

Brigadier General William H. Bixby, Chief of Engineers, will be present when the unwatering begins. He has on three or four occasions had his trunk packed to leave for Havana at a moment's notice, but each time the pumping out has been postponed.

The army officers in charge of the work do not expect to satisfy every one with their work or to get through without obstacles or hitches of any sort. There already is criticism from those who do not appreciate the task the army officers are undertaking and who believe they are wasting time and money because they do not do everything with a rush. The officers expect more criticism when the pumping out begins, as their work will not be done for the benefit of the gallery, but for the government of the United States.

UNDervalUED CUTLERY

Arrest Follows Importation From Germany

New York, June 3.—The first arrest in the government's campaign against importers of German cutlery for undervaluation was made Thursday when Josef Landeburg of the Josef Landeburg importing company at 693 Sixth street was taken into custody at his place of business and arrested before United States Commissioner Ghrist on the charge of undervaluing an entry of four cases of pocket knives imported from Germany in December, 1903. The undervaluation, it is alleged, was effected by means of a false consular invoice stating as the value 472,750 kronen, whereas a private invoice which Landeburg surrendered to the government and later tried to recover states the true value as 2,057,75 kronen. Assistant United States Attorney Carl E. Weltony said yesterday that there were other cases of undervaluation and that other and bigger hardware importers had been including in the practice of undervaluing German cutlery. More arrests may be expected from time to time.

Landeburg was released on $3500 bail for examination.

DRAWS FOUR SALARIES

Alfred Brooks Fry Gets Three From Uncle Sam and One from New York

Washington, June 3.—There is one employee of the Treasury Department drawing four salaries, three from the Federal government and one from the state of New York, according to the testimony of J. Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury before the House committee on expenditures in the treasury department on Thursday. The four salaried person is Alfred Brooks Fry, superintendent of repairs to Federal buildings in New York City, who draws $1400 a year for that job and $1400 on the pay roll of the chief clerk of the treasury.

In addition he is consulting engineer at Ellis Island for the department of commerce and labor and an employee of the New York Canal Commission. Mr. Taylor did not know how much the Ellis Island and Canal Commission jobs paid. The committee is encouraged by what has been developed so far to believe that its investigation of the treasury will do a great deal of good in straightening out kinks in the service and correcting evils which the members say very evidently exist.

KEEP TAB ON CASTRO

Uncle Sam's Government Will Not Be Caught Napping.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—General Cipriano Castro of Venezuela, has been located at Lisbon by the State Department. He has been there since May 15, having reached Portugal from a Spanish port, presumably Bilbao.

Upon learning his whereabouts definitely the State Department cabled the American Charge d'Affaires to acquaint the Portuguese government with the fact that the United States had not changed its view respecting General Castro, and that he should not be permitted to organize a filibustering expedition directed against the present government of Venezuela. It is presumed that the Portuguese government will see that the neutrality laws are strictly enforced.

This is believed to be General Castro's second attempt against the Gomez government in Venezuela. Some time ago he reached Guadalupe, having previously assembled some of his adherents on the Venezuelan frontier and on neighboring islands in the Caribbean. The State Department reported the facts to the French government and General Castro was not allowed to proceed in the direction of Venezuela and returned to Europe.
