

For Cleansing the Blood

I have never found anything equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In our home it is regarded our general family medicine. We use it whenever we are bilious or run down, or have impure blood or that tired feeling. I regard it only simple justice to speak well of this medicine, that has proved its worth so many times. Certainly we would not know what to do were we deprived of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. L. E. Nusbaum, Gosport, Indiana.

SOME LIGHT THOUGHTS

Light and enlightenment go hand in hand—they are both products of one another.

Civilization produces better means of lighting and better lighting produces better civilization.

Civilization can be almost accurately measured by the amount and quality of light.

A fairly good steady light has only been available for about 50 years and in those 50 years the world has progressed more than for a thousand years before.

In the "Dark Ages"—ages that lacked all kinds of light—illiteracy was almost universal and so was misery and squalor and bad government—the common people worked all day—they could not learn for lack of light at night. A general knowledge, which means civilization, did not exist in those days, nor did a good light.

A good light adds just enough hours to a day to enable one, during those few hours, to progress and to draw ahead—without those few evening hours of mental activity, made possible by good light, civilization would be handicapped and progress halted.

Good light, cheerful, steady, ample, bright, will help us grow—mind and heart.

The BEST LIGHT is the—but what's the use. Everybody knows which is the best light.

GABY'S MOTHER ARRIVES

Dancer Hears That ex-King Manuel Is Coming to America.

New York, March 17.—Mme. Almazaire Carie, mother of the French dancer, Gaby Deslys, arrived yesterday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria from Paris and was met at the pier by her daughter, who embraced her frantically.

When a reporter asked the dancer if she had been informed that Manuel, the ex-king of Portugal, was traveling incognito on the George Washington arriving today, Gaby Deslys threw her arms again around her mother's neck, exclaiming: "Maman, maman, c'est lui qui vient!" "Soit tranquille ma fille," responded her parent patting her heaving shoulders. "J'y suis, j'y reste."

This appeared to comfort the dancer, and she went with her mother to see about the baggage. It is the first visit of Mme. Almazaire Carie to America.

Everybody connected with the Winter Garden at the pier appeared to know that Manuel was coming on the George Washington, disguised as a traveler for a Pilsen brewery, it was said.

A Cold, La Grippe, Then Pneumonia
Is too often the fatal sequence. La Grippe coughs hang on, weaken the system, and lower the vital resistance. R. G. Collins, Postmaster, Barnegat, N. J., says: "I was troubled with a severe La Grippe cough which completely exhausted me. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound soon stopped the coughing spells entirely. It can't be beat." Cole's Pharmacy.

FLOOD PARALYZES TOWN

Brewton, Ala., Under Martial Law and 200 Persons Homeless.

Mobile, March 16.—Reports from Brewton, Ala., say the high water caused by heavy rains and a cloud-burst is beginning to fall, but it will be weeks before business can be resumed. There was twelve feet of water in some places in the town last night. The town is in darkness and under martial law. Two hundred persons are homeless.

The water in Burnt Cork Creek rose twenty-five feet in five hours, and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will not be able to run trains between Mobile and Montgomery before Wednesday. Three large trestles have been washed out. Trains from New York to New Orleans are going by way of Selma, Ala., and Meridian, Miss.

The damage to the strawberry crop in the vicinity of Brewton will reach $250,000.

Getting it Right.

It was on a street car in the city of Washington. Two colored women in cheap gowns and shawls were talking and one chanced to mention a Mr. Jinks in her conversation.

"Excuse me," said the other woman, "but his name is not Jinks. It is Mr. Jenks."

"Oh, I see," said the other woman complacently. "I see that you puts de access on de pronoun."

Literally Speaking.

Little Elsie was reproved by her mother for saying "What?" She was told that she must never use that expression, but say, "I beg your pardon." The lesson evidently went home, for a little later she turned to her mother and inquired, "Mamma, I beg your pardon time is it?"—Boston Transcript.

BREAKING THE BANK.

A Past That is No Longer Possible at Monte Carlo.

Among the classic system players who gained great sums at Monte Carlo was Charles Wells, adventurer and inventor, who went to Monte Carlo with the money of other people, to "win or lose it all" by testing his great idea. He played, also on the simple chances, a modification of the famous method of l'Alambert, the great mathematician. Wells began with a stake of ten units, decreasing to nine if he won, but increasing to eleven if he lost. His game was a kind of swinging of the pendulum, going up one way to twenty units and the other down to one.

For a time he contrived to prosper so sensationally that the tables at which he played had occasionally to stop for a few minutes until more money was brought. This was "breaking the bank" and gained Wells the honor of becoming the hero of a popular music-hall song.

Nowadays, however, no successful player can have the thrilling joy of breaking the bank. As soon as it is seen that one gambler or more may reduce the funds of a table to a low ebb more money is unostentatiously brought by one of the footmen, and play never stops for an instant.

Charles Wells figured in the criminal courts of Paris, where he boasted he had won $400,000 from the casino.—C. M. Williamson in McClure's Magazine.

HELD COURT IN A RIVER.

The Attorney Was in a Hurry, and the Judge Was Accommodating.

To get a legal capacity while enjoying a morning swim—surely a unique record in the annals of law—once fell to the lot of Vice Chancellor Shadwell.

The then Duke of Newcastle had commenced to cut down the timber at Clumber in such a rapid and wholesale manner as to raise the anger of his eldest son, Lord Lincoln, who, finding expostulation useless, turned to the law and sought an injunction to restrain his father. Although it was long vacation, he ordered his solicitor to press matters forward, for the magnificent trees were falling at an alarming rate.

So up to town posted the attorney and had the affidavits drawn up the same night. The following morning he repaired to the vice chancellor's house on the banks of the Thames, to find on his arrival that the chancellor had gone for his morning's swim.

With exemplary presence of mind he chartered a boat and after a stiff pull came up with the judge and at once stated his case. Meanwhile the vice-chancellor trod water and, on the injunction being formally applied for, granted it forthwith and resumed his swim.—Tit-Bits.

A Ricker.

"To improve the flavor, of course."

"No. It's to make it as slippery as possible when I come to carve it."—Washington Star.

Hospitable.

"Well, did New York appeal to you?"

"Yes." It was "welcome" when I came and "well done" when I went."—Cornell Widow.
