THE LONG TRAIL

Will Afford Unrivaled Opportunity To View the Green Mountains.

F. Smith, formerly of Burlington, returned Tuesday to Ada, Minn., where he is assistant cashier of the First National bank.

Mr. Smith has spent some weeks in Vermont and put in part of his vacation assisting in the state forestry department and Green Mountain club in their joint labor of extending the Long Trail from Canada to the Massachusetts line.

The party engaged upon the latest extension left Burlington late in June, beginning work between Campt's Hump and Lincoln mountain. This link of the trail was completed last week, leaving only the Addison county stretch between Lincoln mountain and Mount Horrid to complete an unrivaled mountain thoroughfare.

When interviewed Tuesday by a Free Press reporter concerning the newest portion of the trail, Mr. Smith said: "The Long Trail about 28 miles more of which have recently been completed affords an unrivaled opportunity to view the Green Mountains. The trail when completed will be the greatest piece of mountain trail in America."

"His service is even greater to the state than to pedestrians, a quick means is now afforded foresters to reach fires. A forest warden will be placed on the trail whose duty will be to watch out for forest fires. This mountain region before was remote from ready assistance in case of fires. The forests are mainly balsam and spruce with mountain vegetation."

"The difficulties of cutting a foot-path through this vegetation were many and great. The greatest obstacle was the slash or cut timber, that has been left to rot. This and the underbrush made the building of the trail a slow and painstaking process."

"With the aid of six men under fire deputy warden, R. M. Ross, 32 days were consumed in laying out the 28-mile trail. The estimated cost of this was $10.50 a mile, or nearly $300. The average distance covered by the foresters in a day was one and a half miles. On the next to the last day three miles was covered, this being the record for the expedition. This portion of the long trail is on a 15 per cent grade. This cannot be appreciated until it is understood that the average grade of the mountains through which it passes is 20 per cent."

"In building the trail the men experienced good weather most of the time and they were forced to lay off only a few days on account of rain."

"The trail starts at Camel's Hump and passes by Burned Rock, then west to the Three Hopes mountains. From there it continues to the summit of Lincoln mountain. It affords a good place for an outing and the 28 miles may be tramped in about two days."

PRIEST MAY MARRY

Pope Pronounces the Ordination of Arena Null.

London, July 23.—The Pope has set his seal on a much-debated case of exceptional interest in ecclesiastical law. Father Gaetano Arena, an Italian secular priest, who had been exercising the functions of priesthood for 12 years recently desired to be freed from all sacerdotal obligations on the plea that he was morally constrained by his parents while under age to enter the sacred ministry.

The Pope pronounces the ordination Arena null, and will restore to him all the rights of a secular member of the church, including that of contracting a religious marriage. It is believed that the decision will have a far-reaching effect in the ranks of the Catholic clergy.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by W. I. Gokney under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine. It is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

STATE FORESTRY SCHOOL

It Will Be Held in August at Downer Plantations in Sharon.

State Forester F. A. Hawes announces that the third annual summer school of forestry and horticulture will be held at the Downer State forest, Sharon, from August 19 to 28, inclusive. This school is held by the State forester in cooperation with the University of Vermont. It is open to men and boys over 16 years of age, and its purpose is to give those who control lands in Vermont a better understanding of the principles of fruit growing and forest management.

The plan of this short course is to give those attending the maximum of field work and the minimum of lectures. At the beginning of each forenoon and afternoon there will be one lecture, and the remainder of the period will be devoted to illustrating the lecture in the field. Botany will be taught, as usual, Prof. G. P. Burns, and horticulture by Prof. M. B. Cummings, both of the University of Vermont, and forestry by the State forester and B. A. Chandler.

Students will sleep in tents which are provided by the State, and may board with the superintendent of the forest for $7 for the whole period. This is the only charge, aside from that for transportation. Students should bring their own blankets, towels, soap, notebook and pencils. Application for admission should be made to the State forester, Burlington, before August 10.

There will be a field day for parents and friends to visit the school on Saturday, August 23, when there will be public addresses on agriculture and forestry, and an opportunity to inspect the plantation, which are among the most extensive in the state.

In order to interest a larger number of people in improved forestry methods, the State forester is arranging for a series of forest conferences in the late summer and fall. The plan of these conferences is to give an illustrated lecture on forestry in the evening, and to hold a gathering in neighboring woods the following forenoon, to consider specific local problems. The forester will be glad to arrange for such a conference wherever a hall is provided free of charge and where at least a half dozen may be guaranteed to attend the woods meeting, provided the weather is good. Such important subjects will be taken up as timber estimating, forest planting and increasing the profit from a forest.

Off the Job.

Up to the present William Jennings Bryan has been something unusual in the way of a secretary of state. Taken into the cabinet manifestly for political reasons and heralded as a trouble breeder, Mr. Bryan has been as docile as a kitten. He has subordinated himself in the name respectful way to his chief and the two get on splendidly. However as a practical statesman, bending over the intricate foreign relations of the country, Mr. Bryan has made no record. He concerns himself little about the office and it has come to be understood that his position is mostly honorary. "The work is done by John Basset Moore, second assistant secretary, an acknowledged authority in matters of statecraft, the first assistant, Former Gov. Osborne of Wyoming, likewise being a political appointee. Mr. Bryan's occupation is still, as ever, speech making, newspaper writing and day dreaming with the White House in expectancy after Wilson's one (?) term." He roams the country breathing beautiful beatitudes, while Prof. Moore does the real work. Mr. Bryan has a peace plan to which, he says, 20 leading nations have given their countenance, but when it gets down to binding form it will be quite another matter. The President is handling the situation in the bureau or state with his usual tact. He knows he cannot put the hobbles on Mr. Bryan's tongue, so he lets him loose to talk himself out while he finds a competent man to perform the important duties. Possibly there is a little shrewd method in it all, on Mr. Wilson's part.—Randolph Herald and News.

Wren's Bomb For St. Paul's

St. Paul's—old St. Paul's—once knew the effect of a bomb that actually exploded. After the great fire it was at first thought that the ruins might be repaired, but too much damage having been done it was decided to pull the fabric down—a task in which many lives were lost. To put an end to the tedious work Wren hit upon the idea of enclosing eighteen pounds of gunpowder in a wooden box and exploding it under the central tower. The result was to lift the arches some nine inches, so that the ruins "suddenly jumping down made a great heap of ruin in the place without scattering."

The architect proudly boasted that his powder box had lifted 8,000 tons and saved the labor of 1,000 men.—London Graphic.

"Celestial" as Applied to China.

Every one knows the epithet "Celestial" applied to China, but few know its origin. According to a very old legend, Tibet is a fragment of a planet, once peopled by a yellow race, which in some way became detached and fell on the earth. The faded inhabitants of the fragment were murdered and, cold and hungry, they made their way toward China, which they peopled. This origin of the Chinese race led to their calling themselves "Celestials," and it is for this reason that the emperor calls himself Son of Heaven. Such, at least, is the legend.—Toronto Globe.

Here are Two Machines You Need

Walter A. Wood

because it is the only mower that has genuine underdraft, "floating" frame and uniform lift, the three big mower features no farmer should be without if he values his own time or his team's strength, and wants the machine that does most work the easiest.

Walter A. Wood

Steel Hay Rake

because every tooth is held individually and has a coil spring to protect it against sudden strains; because it is made entirely of steel and can be depended upon to stand up under constant wear and tear of work in all kinds of fields. Its long life makes it the most economical you can buy.
