ST. LOUIS AS A VILLAGE.

In 1767 it Had Forty-five Houses and as Many Families.

Captain Philip Pitman, an officer in the engineering corps of the British army, was selected by General Gage in 1767 to make an expert report on the territory just acquired from France on the east side of the Mississippi river. Pitman came to the Mississippi valley, the Illinois country it then was called, and traveled about for several months. Here is what he wrote of St. Louis in the early part of 1767:

"This village is one league and a half above Knoquias, on the west side of the Mississippi, being the present headquarters of the French in these parts. It was first established in the year 1764 by a company of merchants, to whom M. D'Abadie had given an exclusive grant for the commerce with the Indian nations on the river Missouri, and for the security and encouragement of this settlement the staff of French officers and the commissary were ordered to remove here, upon the surrendering of Fort Chartres (forty miles south of St. Louis on the Illinois side) to the English, and great encouragement was given to the inhabitants to remove with them, most of whom did.

"The company has built a large house and store here, and there are about forty-five houses and as many families. No fort or barracks are yet built. The French garrison consists of a captain commandant, two lieutenants, a fort major, one sergeant, one corporal and twenty men."—St. Louis Times.

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

Tuxedo is the favorite tobacco of critical American smokers—a refined tobacco for men of refined taste. No other tobacco has ever received the endorsement of so many famous Americans—leaders in their different spheres of activity, whose judgment carries weight and commands consideration.

Tuxedo is made from the very mildest, ripest Kentucky Burley tobacco—aged until perfectly mellow. Then treated by the original "Tuxedo Process" that makes Tuxedo absolutely non-biting and decidedly throat-soothing—and develops the wonderful mildness, fragrance and flavor of the Burley leaf in a way no other tobacco has ever successfully imitated.

The handy 5c Cloth Pouch of Tuxedo fits snugly in the vest pocket, and keeps the tobacco fresh and delicious by its inner wrapping of moisture-proof paper. Especially popular with smokers who make their own fragrant Burley cigarettes from Tuxedo.

MIGRATORY BIRD LAW

Sportsmen Should Write To the Vermont Senators

An appeal to the sportsmen and conservationists of the country to let the United States senate know in unmistakable terms their attitude toward the recently enacted Federal migratory bird law, is being sent out today by the American Game Protective Association, the national league of the sportsmen of North America. The appeal alleges that a small minority in the Senate is doing everything in its power to emasculate what is termed, "the greatest wild life protective measure ever enacted in this country." In support of this allegation it is stated that persistent efforts are being made to prevent the Senate concurring in the recent action of the House in appropriating $50,000 for the enforcement of the law.

"When the law was passed," says the Association, "it carried an appropriation of only $10,000. This was grossly inadequate of course. This year the Department of Agriculture asked for $100,000 but, this comparatively small amount was cut in half by the House. Now, certain senators, a clear but persistent minority, are trying to make of no effect a law that has the support of at least 50 per cent of the sportsmen of the country and that means considerable more than 5,000,000 voters."

Sportsmen and lovers of wild life generally are called on to let their senators know at once just how they stand on this matter and are requested to ask that they vote for an appropriation of $100,000.

In discussing the action of his organization, President John B. Burnham said:

"It was the sportsmen of this country who initiated the movement for the Weeks-McLean law and brought it to a successful issue, after a hard campaign of eight months duration. In this work hundreds of individuals and organizations lent their aid. A few gentlemen in the Senate would have us forsake the wild life conservation movement that is going forward with irresistible impulse and return to former conditions of wholesale, barbaric and un-economic slaughter. It is up to every lover of our birds by letter, telegram, petition and resolution, to let his representatives in the Senate know that he wants no compromise with the enemies of our wild life. This means an appropriation of $100,000 for the Weeks-McLean Law. I hope and believe that the next fortnight hours will show the Senate so conclusively how the people stand toward this law, that those who are trying to thwart their wishes will not are to continue their opposition." The appeal also asks support for the proposed treaty between this country and Great Britain, which is designed to provide protection for the birds that migrate between the two countries. It is alleged that the same forces that are opposing the Weeks-McLean law in the Senate are trying to hamper treaty negotiations. The British Ambassador has recently been handed proposals regarding the treaty and has referred them to his home office. It is understood that the next step will be a sounding of Canadian sentiment by Great Britain. The Conservation Commission of Canada has already adopted a resolution strongly favoring such a treaty as is proposed. The principal clause in the treaty contains an agreement on the part of the two countries to abolish spring shooting. In other words, the destruction of wild fowl during the breeding season. The Association states that the treaty has the undivided support of the sportsmen and conservationists of this country. It is confident that it will be adopted by handsome majority in the Senate but the conservationists of the country must do their part.
