ANOTHER BRITISH BATTLESHIP SUNK BY SUBMARINE

Reen Torpedoed in Straits of Ardennes

MOST OF THE CREW SAVED

Underwater Destroyer Believed to Be German Craft That Has Been Operating in Mediterranean.

London, May 26.—The British battleship Triumph has been sunk in the Straits of Ardennes by a submarine.

The disaster is described in a brief statement by the Admiralty, which says that while operating in support of the Australian and New Zealand forces on the shore of the Gallipoli Peninsula yesterday, the Triumph was torpedoed by a submarine, and sank soon afterward.

The majority of the officers and men, including the Captain, are reported to have been saved.

The submarine was chased by destroyers and patrolling small craft until dark.

The official announcement does not say whether the submarine was Turkish or German, but it probably was of the latter nationality, as the British Legation at Athens recently offered a reward for the sinking of German submarines supposed to be in the Mediterranean.

LAUNDRY IMPROVEMENTS

Extensive Changes in the Plant Owned by John H. Powers

While some of the minor details have not been carried out, the larger portion of the changes that have been in progress at the Bennington Sanitary laundry on North street and owned by John H. Powers' are completed.

In making the changes particular attention was given to the facilities for light and air. Ventilators have been installed which provide such excellent circulation that the damp, stuffy atmosphere common in most laundries is conspicuous by its absence.

The new equipment is of the latest pattern. It includes a steam drying press by means of which steam is forced through garments at considerable pressure not only resulting in better ironing but thoroughly cleansing the fabric.

Improvements have also been made in the office and when a few odds and ends are provided for the outfit will be a model laundry.

ITALIANS DRIVE BACK AUSTRIA'S OUTPOSTS

Making Progress in Crossing Tyrolean Alps

GERMANS RETAKE TRENCHES

Give and Take Fighting in France—Mackensen Reports German Progress in Galicia.

Rome, May 27.—The first big battle between the Italian and Austrian forces may take place in the Trentino. The Italian army has steadily advanced into the Tyrolean Alps, across mountains a mile high. In every instance the Austrian outposts have fallen back and joined the main army.

London, May 26.—The British last night and today made further gains in their offensive against La Bassée, and it was officially announced that the net result of their operations in the territory to the west of that town since May 1 was the capture of a total front of more than three miles along a considerable part of which two lines of German trenches had been taken.

In the district north of Arras there was desperate fighting near Angres, the Germans attempting to regain the ground lost yesterday. They succeeded at one point, but elsewhere their counter-attacks were repulsed, and the French captured new positions in several instances.

The Berlin report announces the recapture of trenches near Souchez, but this claim may relate to the temporary success of the German counter-attacks admitted in the night French report, which asserts that these attacks were afterward for the most part nullified by the French advance. While reporting the recapture of the Allies at other points, Berlin admits the capture by "colorful British troops" of outlying trenches near Givenchy.

London, May 26.—The official reports from Vienna and Berlin today say that the invasion of Galicia under General von Mackensen is making progress.

Between Przemysl and Jarasalu, the East of Radvyma, a passage of the San has been forced, while southeast of Przemysl the Austro-Germans are approaching strong Russian defenses.

While yesterday the Teutonic Allies claimed 21,000 prisoners in this theatre, today they say the number has risen to 25,000.

TO LOCATE FISH HATCHERY

Expert Fish Culturist Looks Over Possible Sites in This Vicinity.

E. S. Casselman of Dorset, a fish culturist who has been employed extensively by the national government made a visit to this end of the county Wednesday, under instructions from Commissioner J. W. Titcomb to investigate possible sites for a state hatchery.

Mr. Casselman, accompanied by County Game Warden E. S. Higgins made a tour of Bennington and vicinity but found no springs which provided the amount of water that will be required for the proposed hatchery. From Bennington they went to Shaftsbury where one site was found that met with the expert's approval. This spring, or collection of springs, is what is locally known as the "Duck pond," located about two miles from Shaftsbury station.

The overflow from the springs runs into the Warm brook and in many respects the situation would be a good one for hatchery purposes. Mr. Casselman said that there was a sufficient flow of water from the springs and the close proximity of Warm brook would make it possible to utilize the water from the streams while trout were being raised to the fingerling stage.

In Mr. Casselman's opinion the "Duck pond" is the only supply in this end of the county that will meet requirements. He will return here in June for the purpose of making tests.

COLLISION AT SEA

Passengers Taken Off Ryndam Near Nantucket Shoals

New York, May 27.—Seventy-seven passengers saved from possible death in the chilly waters of the Atlantic when the Holland-America liner Ryndam collided early yesterday with the tramp steamer Joseph C. Cuneo off Nantucket shoals, Nantucket, were brought safely to New York last night by the battleship South Carolina which participated in the rescue.

The Ryndam, conveying 400 passengers, was bound for Galveston, Texas, reached the harbor before her passengers arrived and anchored near the bay. She was drawing 36 feet of water, and much of her cargo, containing foodstuffs for Holland, valued at $1,000,000 was destroyed. A hole in her side below the water line, about the width of a plate was stopped with canvas. The Cuneo, proceeding under her own steam, with a badly-damaged bow, was expected in port at a late hour. The steamer Thomas J. Millard, carrying friends and relatives of passengers and officers of the Holland-America liner, went down the bay to meet the South Carolina off Tompkinsville, Staten Island, to take on board the rescued passengers and to convey them to the company's locks at Hoboken.

The Ryndam left New York for Rotterdam Tuesday with 20 first class, 34 second class, and 23 third class passengers. The crew numbered about 150. The Cuneo, used in the West Indies trade, left Boston Tuesday night for Baracoa, Cuba. Shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning in a heavy fog, both steamers rammed each other. The wireless operator of the Cuneo sent out "Help" signals which were picked up by several of the Atlantic fleet of battleships, which were in the vicinity having just completed their war maneuvers.

The battleships Louisiana, South Carolina and Texas picked up the call for help and rushed to the scene of the accident. Before their arrival the passengers and part of the Ryndam's crew had been transferred to the Cuneo. The Ryndam had a big gap in her side, and it was thought that she would sink. The fog cleared about 7 o'clock and the sailors assisted in retransferring the passengers to the South Carolina. No one was injured in either of the transfers.

The two battered steamers were not entirely disabled, and with the men-of-war acting as convoys, headed for New York at a 13-mile-an-hour rate. The Ryndam after passing quarantine anchored off Sixty-ninth street, Brooklyn. She will await high water this morning and then proceed to the Holland-America dock.

The Ryndam, a vessel of 7976 tons net, was built in Belfast in 1901. Her length is 550 feet, her beam 66 feet. The Cuneo is a steamer of about 800 tons capacity and 210 feet length. She carried a crew of 20 men and no passengers.

VEGETATION CUT DOWN BY FREEZE LAST NIGHT

Loss to Gardeners and Fruit Growers Will Be Heavy

ICE FORMED ON BERRIES

George Hummer Lost 3000 Tomato Plants—Beets Frozen Close to Ground.

Ice formed last night in unprotected localities and it is more than probable that a large amount of damage to gardens and fruit has resulted. Just how much destruction had been caused could not be determined this morning but the loss to gardeners and horticulturists must be heavy.

At the farm of George Hummer, one of the largest growers of garden truck in this vicinity, the damage was heavy. Tender vegetation such as beets was frozen close to the ground and of the 3000 tomato plants recently set out, only a few, if any, it is believed will survive.

ICE FORMED ON BERRIES

George Hummer Lost 3000 Tomato Plants—Beets Frozen Close to Ground.

Ice formed last night in unprotected localities and it is more than probable that a large amount of damage to gardens and fruit has resulted. Just how much destruction had been caused could not be determined this morning but the loss to gardeners and horticulturists must be heavy.

At the farm of George Hummer, one of the largest growers of garden truck in this vicinity, the damage was heavy. Tender vegetation such as beets was frozen close to the ground and of the 3000 tomato plants recently set out, only a few, if any, it is believed will survive.

One market gardener who raises strawberries left a water sprayer in operation during the night in the hope that the moisture would keep off the frost. This morning he found ice hanging to the green berries.

The weather has been so cold during the month that planting has been delayed and but few farmers and gardeners put in seeds early enough so that the sprouts have come through the ground. Whatever growth has materialized is in a large measure destroyed.

The temperature has remained low during the entire day and the weather bureau reports do not promise much of a change of conditions for tonight.

On freshly ploughed ground a crust fully half an inch thick was formed by the freeze which would indicate that most tender vegetation must have suffered severely if it is not completely ruined.

FRANK DANFORTH HELD

Rupert Man Charged with Impeding a Game Warden

Frank Danforth of Rupert was arraigned in municipal court Wednesday on the charge of impeding an officer. He pleaded not guilty and was held for the grand jury under bonds of $300. Bail was furnished by H. N. Williams.

The specific charge against Danforth is that on May 2 he resisted a deputy fish and game warden, Albie Roberts of Rupert. Danforth, it is alleged was fishing on a Rupert stream when he was approached by the warden who attempted to search the fisherman's basket. Danforth, it is claimed, resisted the search.

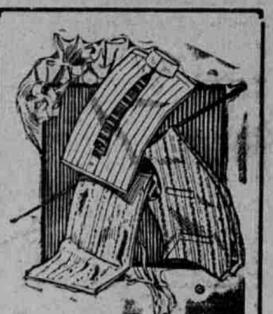

The deputy reported the instance to County Game Warden E. S. Higgins who laid the case before State's Attorney Frank C. Archibald of Manchester. The hearing Wednesday, with Mr. Archibald appearing for the state, resulted.
