WORK OF RED CROSS

Society Will Undertake Two Important Lines of Service.

Secretary Charles S. Forbes, of the Vermont Chapter of the American Red Cross, has received the following communication from national headquarters Washington, regarding proposed relief work in connection with the calling of the national guard to the colors:

"The American Red Cross, Washington, D. C., June 22, 1916:

"In consequence of the calling out of the national guard for the protection of our southwestern international boundary, it becomes the duty of the American Red Cross to undertake two important lines of service.

"First. The Red Cross will collect, forward, and distribute suitable articles for the soldiers in the camps. Every chapter of the Red Cross is expected to make immediate arrangements to receive and forward supplies. Before it becomes necessary to actually begin shipments, full instructions will be sent to every chapter. It may be stated at this time that it is the intention of the Red Cross to establish receiving and distributing depots in San Antonio and El Paso. Competent persons will be in charge of these depots, and supplies sent them will be distributed in the camps in accord with such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the military authorities.

"It is also probable that intermediate depots will be established in a number of important centers, into which supplies will be collected from certain districts, to be assorted, classified, packed, and sent forward. Definite announcements concerning these depots will shortly follow.

"In connection with this work it is essential that chapters observe the following:

"(a). Supplies cannot be accepted which are intended to be forwarded separately to designated individuals. Those who wish to send packages to particular persons are to be advised to employ the parcel post or express service. Supplies intended for designated companies or regiments may be accepted for forwarding by chapters, with the understanding that if such delivery is found to be impracticable, these supplies may be donated to other troops.

"(b). Supplies accepted by chapters for shipment should fall within the following approved list: Reading matter, games, comfort bags (See A. R. C. 115), pajamas, cotton socks (medium weight, large sizes), towels, pipes and smoking tobacco, cigarettes, electric fans (to hospitals), chewing gum, chocolate in tin boxes, hard candies, George Washington coffee, evaporated cream and canned fruits and other delicacies in tins.

"Many articles will be offered for forwarding which for sanitary and other reasons cannot be accepted. Persishable, heavy, or bulky articles and articles of food and drink which are harmful should not be accepted. It is necessary that the instructions of the military authorities be observed in all these matters, as they are responsible for the health and welfare of the soldiers in camp.

"Chapters are advised to secure rooms in which to receive, assort, and pack supplies. These donations may be obtained free of charge from patriotic owners of vacant buildings or store rooms.

"Second: The subject of the care of destitute families of soldiers is now under consideration by the Red Cross and an announcement of policies and plans in that connection will be made at an early date.

"Every chapter which has not already divided its work into two sections, namely, a section on military relief and a section on civilian relief, should do so at once. Each section should have at its head an active chairman and a suitable committee, and each section should appoint such special committees as the work requires.

"The section on military relief should have charge of the chapter work of making, collecting, and forwarding supplies which are intended for the use and comfort of the soldier.

"The section on civilian relief should have charge of the work in behalf of the families of soldiers if work of this character is undertaken.

"The executive committee of the chapter should continue in general control of all the work of the chapter of every kind, should settle all matters of policy, and should have the custody of all funds, paying them out for proper purposes and under suitable rules and safeguards. New questions of policy should be referred to the director-general of civilian relief at Washington.

"Chapters are urged to exercise a thoroughly co-operative and cordial spirit toward other organizations and agencies which desire to participate in this work. It ought to be possible for the Red Cross, through its unusual facilities and its relation to the government, to be of the greatest service to all organized groups of citizens interested in this humane and patriotic work.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employes, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employes for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion, and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railroads be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or
2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employes are now voting on the question whether arbitration shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employes as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employes, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employes, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employes, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.
