WHERE AMERICA WAS NAMED

House Is Still Standing in Which Learned Men Awarded Voyager an Undeserved Honor.

Many readers who keep scrap-books will be glad of this morsel of curious lore.

On April 25, 1507, the learned heads of the University of St. Die, in Lorraine, decided, incorrectly, that Amerigo Vesputci was entitled to the honor of discovery, Christopher Columbus having only reached the islands of the West Indies, and that the western hemisphere should bear his name. The name "America" was, as a matter of fact, first used in the book "Cosmographie Introduction," by Martin Waldseemuller, professor of cosmography at the university.

It has since been shown that Amerigo Vesputci was preceded by both Christopher Columbus and John Cabot, but it was too late—the new world had been dubbed "America," and the fact advertised in print. The house where the meeting was held at which the classical error was made still stands at St. Die (Vosges), and is annually visited by many tourists, especially those from both North and South America.

Hence the error of learned men is responsible for America being named after Amerigo Vesputci, who was given an honor he clearly did not deserve.

SERVICE AGAIN

The true meaning of the term service is much misunderstood. As applied to motor cars it does not mean something that you get for nothing.

Service as it is sold to car owners at The Bennington Garage means first a careful and skilled analysis of the needs of the car in question.

A car may be only in need of cleaning, changing of lubricants, general tightening and checking of adjustments. If this is true the system of service at The Bennington Garage will not permit this car to be dismantled.

Good motor cars are all so well designed and built today that aside from abuse or extreme neglect they will give a long period of service before it is necessary or wise to give them a thorough overhauling.

As a responsible business house we are under obligation to see that our service department gives real value for money received. An administrative check on all proposed work, whether proposed by customer or mechanic, to make sure that the work is really needed and that the results will be of value proportionate to the cost is a feature of our service department that saves our customers much money and adds greatly to the satisfaction they derive from their cars.
