ATLANTIC CITY WARNED TO CLEAN HOUSE AT ONCE

Crooks and Gamblers Get Notice to Leave

CLEAN UP SQUAD STARTS

Mayor Is Back of Movement and Promises That It Is Not Going to Lag

Atlantic City, N. J., July 19—Atlantic City is to be cleaned up, and the work has already begun. Backed by big hotel men, the most powerful interests in the resort, a squad of more than a dozen detectives from the Burns agency are listing every gambler, crook, boot-legger or other undesirable in Atlantic City, and unless there is a general exodus of these gentlemen soon evidence obtained by the Burns men will be laid before the grand jury.

That Mayor Edward T. Bader, highly praised by Judge John J. White of the New Jersey court of errors, and appeals a week ago, is in favor of the movement is taken from his action of today when he discharged John H. Dwyer, who has been working as a special detective at $6 a day. Bader gave no explanation of his action.

Charles H. Dennis, Philadelphia manager of the Burns agency, and for several days storm center of the sensation following his statement of police collusion with wiretapping crooks made before the Atlantic City Rotary club, is authority for the statement that County Prosecutor Gaskill is working with hotel men to clear up the resort. Dennis declared that he is in a "friendly touch" with the prosecutor's office and that he intends to have his own men there to see that justice is done.

The owners are that at Atlantic City is to be cleaned up, declared Dennis. "Expense is no item. At present we are simply hunting the crooks down and listing them. Later, should they continue to hang around Atlantic City, they will be taken in hand through the prosecutor's office. Word that the powerful hotel interests really have decided to take a hand in the policing of the city during the rush period of late July and August has created fear among the thousands of private detective agency men appearing here virtually halted the making of handbooks on horse races in several well known resorts and there is a notable absence of cappers and steers for crap and poker games, especially in the section of the resorts away from the boardwalk.

Both Mayor Bader and Prosecutor Gaskill refused to make any formal statement, but declared that they would act at once on any information or evidence that real crooks of dangerous character are among those present in the thousands of summer visitors.

FRESH PARTY OF STRIKE BREAKERS REACHES WILDER

Sixty-Three Men Arrive to Work in Paper Mill

TOTAL OF ARRIVALS IS 118

Crowd Armed With Clubs Turns Out at Walpole, But Found Nothing

Wilders, July 19.—Sixty-three more strikebreakers arrived here this afternoon by train to work in the plant of the International Paper company. Five of them took their departure shortly after arrival, so that the total number of men now quartered at the mill is 118. The men who came this afternoon are workmen, who had their tools with them, and this fact, coupled with the preparation of 200 beds at the plant, gives rise to the belief that the paper company intends to start its mill machinery within a few days.

A crowd met today's arrivals at the station, but offered them no violence. The Champlain Realty company has 27 men at work hauling 7,000 cords of pulpwood from the Connecticut river for use in the paper mill. This work has heretofore been done by the paper company. It is estimated that from 200 to 500 cords of pulpwood have become water-logged and sunk, owing to the length of time the wood has been in the water.

The paper mill plant here has been equipped with three powerful searchlights.

Bellows Falls, July 19.—Last night's false alarm of the arrival of strikebreakers was the chief feature of the last 24 hours of the international paper company strike here. About midnight all the bells in North Walpole, N. H., the village across the river from here where is situated the log yard of the company, rang out the signal that strikebreakers were coming down the Charles-town road in motor trucks. Hundreds of strikers, their families, and sympathizers, hurried from their homes, armed with sticks, stones and bars, ready to receive the reported newcomers.

FRESH AIR CHILDREN

Prompt Response is Requested of Bennington People

The appeal printed in yesterday's Banner asking the people of Bennington to open their homes to some of the poor children from the tenements of New York has already met with response. Three little girls are assured of a two weeks' vacation. Any one who is willing to take one or more of these children, can have either boys or girls of any age from 5 to 12 years. The children will come either the third or fourth week of August and stay two weeks. Notification should be made to Mrs. Frank E. Howe on or before Saturday, July 23, as it requires some time in New York to select a group of children to meet the specifications of the invitation. People outside of Bennington are especially urged to consider this appeal. But and is inviting 50 children, how many will Bennington entertain?

Bennington Invites State Organization to Meet There on Labor Day

Burlington July 18.—Chief Engineer Carl D. Stockwell, president of the Vermont State Firemen's association, received today an invitation from Bennington to hold the annual convention of the association there. The invitation is for September 5, and the plan would include a tournament to be held that day, which is Labor day, to be followed by the convention on Sept. 6. In reply, Mr. Stockwell called attention to the fact that many of the firemen in the state are planning to attend the annual clambake of the Burlington lodge of Elks at Duquette's farm, near Rouse's Point, on Labor day. Mr. Stockwell requested Edwin D. Moore of Bennington, the secretary of the association, to call a meeting of the state executive committee to be held at Rutland, or some other central point, in the near future to decide definitely on the place for the convention.

Mrs. Randolph denied that she spoke with her husband. Randolph, who is a leading business man, was seized Monday night on his way home.

Heavy Shipments Received—Dry Law in Effect Today

Toronto, July 18.—Today it was illegal to import liquor into the province of Ontario, but if anybody is caught doing it tomorrow or later the spirits will be seized and the consignees fined. Thirsty folk of Ontario have given a thought to cellars and large shipments of intoxicants have been rushed into the province during the last few days, so that the new provincial dry law will not be felt by some persons for months to come.

BASE BALL TRAIL UPROAR

Altercations Nearly Cause Combats and Excitement Runs High

Chicago, July 19.—The baseball trail swung into full speed today with the first testimony presented by the State against the seven White Sox players and others charged with conspiring to throw the 1919 world series, resulted in many legal arguments and altercations, which at times approached so close to physical combats that the excitement made the court room wider in appearance than the benches after a home run with the bases full.

At the end of the day the State announced that late to-morrow it probably would bring forth its star pinch hitter in the hope of clinching the case by the testimony of the alleged accomplice and State's witness, to the stand to tell his first hand story of the alleged conspiracy. At the same time it was announced that in return for evidence the State would nolle prosequere the indictment voted against him with the other defendants.

While today's session produced plenty of excitement it brought little in the way of evidence. George Gorman, assistant State's attorney, in charge of the prosecution, outlined the State's case, telling the jury that Bill Burns met Eddie Cicotte, White Sox pitcher, in New York and suggested that the series be thrown. He then went through with the oft-repeated story of Cicotte and the seven other indicted players discussed the matter in Cicotte's room in a Chicago hotel and how it was finally agreed to throw series. He repeated the story told at the time of the grand jury investigation that Cicotte received ten thousand dollars and Jackson and Williams five thousand dollars each. Arnold Rothstein of New York again was brought into the case as the man who Abe Attell quoted as being willing to finance the deal. At the grand jury investigation Rothstein testified but was not indicted.

HOWE SCALE CO. NOT CRIPPLED BY STRIKE

President Hinsman Says the Stock of Castings is Sufficient For the Present.

Rutland, July 19.—Though officials of the Howe Scale company would not confirm the statement made by a member of employees of the concern, it is understood that 13 moulders have accepted the terms of the company and will not join in the walk-out of the 50 employees in the foundry department. Union moulders declared yesterday that not over three men had returned to work in the foundry.

No Statement From Company

President Carl B. Hinsman of the scale company, when asked last evening by a Herald representative for a statement, said "I do not think the company has anything to say." He was asked if the plant was inconvenienced by the walk-out of 50 men last Saturday and said "the company has a large quantity of castings on hand and the work is going along as usual." It is understood that the company has a supply of over 450 tons of castings, of the larger kind used, and that this quantity will keep the plant going for an indefinite time, according to persons close to the management.

Large quantity of Castings

The strikers declare that the stock of castings estimated on hand is put too high and that unless production is soon resumed in the foundry the concern will be obliged to run on less shorter time than the present four-day work schedule.

The controversy is in regard to recognition of the union, an agreement having been reached by the moulders to accept a wage reduction. R. E. Hyland, president of the Moulders' union, stated yesterday that the situation was unchanged.

INSIDE SCANDAL OF BASE BALL IS BARED BY BURNS

Ex-White Sox Player Tells How Series Was Fixed

ATTELL AND OTHERS IN

Cicotte Agreed to Lose the First Game With Aid of Others On Chicago Team

Chicago, July 19.—The state today turned its full strength into the prosecution of the Chicago White Sox baseball players and others charged with the alleged conspiracy which resulted in the 1919 world's series scandal, sending Bill Burns, who admitted being an accomplice of the defendants and who turned state's evidence in return for immunity, to the witness stand to tell the inside story of the reported sell-out of some of the game's greatest players to gamblers who wanted the series thrown to Cincinnati.

Burns, who was only about one-third through his story when court adjourned for the day, was on the stand long enough to name Arnold Rothstein of New York, Abe Attell, former featherweight, publicistic champion, David Zelson of Des Moines, one of the defendants, Billy Maharg of Philadelphia, and himself as among the organizers of the alleged conspiracy. He described numerous meetings between the players and the alleged fixers, in Cincinnati hotels the days of the first two games of the 1919 series, saying that the athletes agreed to make the series a "made-to-order one," throwing games just as desired.

Burns testified that Eddie Cicotte, one of the American league's greatest pitchers, said he would "throw the first game if he had to throw the ball over the fence."

Burns identified David Zelson, defendant, as a man he had known as Bennett during the forming of the alleged conspiracy and declared that Bennett, or Zelson, was present at most of the meetings when the report of sell-out was arranged.

Burns said Abe Attell had termed Rothstein a "walking bank" who would pay all he promised, but that after the first game Attell refused to give him any money, saying he couldn't pay the players until he collected the bets made. The players were to get $20,000 after each game lost, Burns said.

Rothstein testified before the grand jury last fall that he was approached on the deal, but refused to go into it, and that his name was used by Abe Attell without his permission.

Burns' testimony was broken by repeated arguments by the various attorneys who had some of his testimony barred, particularly that dealing with a conversation with Cicotte, in New York prior to the series.
