In the Day's News.

Dr. George M. Michaels, the former Imperial German Chancellor now in America, was little known to the public outside Germany until the early part of 1917, when he was appointed as special commissioner on food questions. A few months later, when the war situation became critical, he was selected to succeed von Bethmann-Hollweg in the Imperial chancellery. The son of a Prussian official, Dr. Michaels was born in Silesia in 1857. He received a university education, making the law his profession. In the 80s he went as a professor of law and political economy to the University of Tokyo. Returning to Germany in 1889, he was made district attorney of Berlin. His services in this position won much praise and he was advanced to higher posts in the Imperial Government. He has never taken an active part in politics.

Today's Anniversaries.

1333—The English defeated the Scots with great slaughter at the battle of Halidon Hill.

1719—Peter Schuyler became acting governor of New York.

1810—The King of Prussia issued a decree forbidding American vessels to enter his ports.

1827—Orville H. Platt, United States senator from Connecticut, born at Washington, Conn., died there April 21, 1905.

1850—Rev. Anthony Blanc became first Roman Catholic archbishop of New Orleans.

1887—The Irish Crimes act received the royal assent.

1899—Russell A. Alger resigned as Secretary of War in the cabinet of President McKinley.

1919—Millions acclaimed the Victory March of Allied troops in London.

Monuments!

Be positive that the monument you order is of the highest grade Marble or Granite, for it is the inferior second grade stone that will discolor badly and withstand least the action of all elements.

Expert care and skill from the selection of the Marble or Granite to the last touches in erection, make purchasing a monument of us safe and satisfying.

We have an excellent stock of about 300 finished monuments in different designs for your examination, which of course makes a full line to select from.

Our prices are as low as it is possible to make them and still furnish the highest grade stone, beautiful design, and lasting handsome inscription work.

Before buying, grant us the pleasure of quoting you prices and showing you our stock, as this incurs no obligations to buy and is valued as a favor.

Work set up in any part of the country and orders promptly filled.

All but the Viz.
Recently a chattel mortgage in a rural district was foreclosed on the following:
"Eight oxen, viz, one yoke (2) named Tom and Bill; one yoke (2) named Spot and Black; one yoke (2) named Red and Sam; one yoke (2) named Jake and Beight."
The sheriff made his levy, and reported that he had made diligent search around defendant's premises, but had been unable to find the "viz." An old negro, who worked at the sawmill where the oxen were found, said to the sheriff: "Boss, I've been working 'round here ever since I've been a sawmill, and I hain't neber seen no vizes."—From OR the Record.

Carried Back.
"How did you happen to let that circus press agent get a story on the front page of your paper?"
"I couldn't resist him," said the editor of the Cliftonville Clarion. "He came into the sanctum with a handful of sawdust and a sack of peanuts. The atmosphere he created was too much for me."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Auto Sought Plunge in Ocean.
Hereafter, when Mr. Sickle of West Grove, N. J., leaves his automobile he is going to put weights on it. He parked it in Ocean Grove. A gust of wind started it going. It crossed the avenue, hurdled the curb and ran across the boardwalk, crashing through an iron railing and dropped ten feet to the beach. The machine was stopped just in time to prevent it becoming a submarine.

His Motions Too Vigorous.
Assistant county attorney in Omaha, Neb., gesticulated so vigorously in his prosecution of a case in court in the District court, that his right arm was dislocated. Two attorneys pulled it back into place for him.

Warning! Stop Straining Your Eyes

One of the surest signs of falling vision is the unconscious squinting of the eyes while reading.

This constant effort to overcome the loss of muscle and nerve force, is a tax on your entire nervous system and is nature's danger signal that glasses are needed.

Let Us Examine Your Eyes. They May Require Glasses.

BROKE IT TO HER GENTLY

Saddened by Long-Threatened Calamity, Edwin Still Had Regard for His Wife's Feelings.

He looked weary and haggard, and when his wife met him in the hall her heart was full of fear. "Tell me the worst," she implored. "Oh, Edwin, I'm ready to hear anything. What has happened? Have you fallen in business?"

"No, my dear—not that."

He buried his head in his hands and looked the picture of despair.

"Then you are ill! You have got another attack of that dreadful indigestion?"

"I'm not ill," he answered, stonily. "No; it is not that."

"This suspense is terrible," she said. "It is killing me, Edwin. Tell me all—everything! I am ready to know the worst! Has your mother died?"

He looked at her sadly.

"Oh, my darling," he cried, taking her hand, "that—that button I told you about has got tired of hanging on by one thread. Here it is!"

Natural Aptitude.

"I should think a woman would make a good X-ray photographer."

"Why so?"

"It takes a woman to see through things."

Why He Was Jovial.

"Hoary!" exclaimed Mr. Crosslets. "We're going to have a long, hard blizzard!"

"Why should that cause you to rejoice?" inquired his wife.

"Cook can't possibly leave till it's over."

A Good Reason.

The Pinto Indians of California are notoriously lacking in civility toward their women. Uncle Arch Farrington was driving down Westgate Pass road one hot summer afternoon and met Fatty Jack, a Pinto, astride a small pony, which was visibly wobbly under his burden. Uncle Arch was incensed to note Jack's wife about 50 feet behind the pony carrying a sack of flour and telling about on foot. As he met the Indian Uncle Arch called angrily to Jack:

"What for you ride pony, malkem squaw walk?" Fatty Jack, not deigning to stop to argue the ethics of the situation, called over his shoulder as he passed on. "She no gottem horse."—Kansas City Star.

The Meanest Man.

The meanest man is not, as has been reported, the Carolina farmer who used to light a lamp on the breakfast table, tell the hired men to notice the location of the victims so they could find them in the dark and then blow the lamp out and let them do so.

The meanest man must have been riding downtown the other morning on a North side street car.

"What did you get your wife for her birthday, John?" one asked.

"Oh, I got her 15 gallons of gasoline and five gallons of engine oil." And he never smiled when he said it, either.—Indianapolis News.
