

ENTOMBED IN A MINE

GREAT CAVE-IN AT WILKESBARRE, PA.

The Victims Are Buried Under an Enormous Pile of Debris, and It Will Probably Be a Week Before Their Bodies Can Be Recovered.

Buried in a Mine. While ninety miners were at work in the Red Ash vein of the twin shaft at Pittston, Pa., about 3 o'clock on the morning of the 28th, the roof caved in and it is believed that all of the men perished.

About two weeks ago the surveyors reported to General Superintendent Law that the mine was "squeezing," and that unless steps were immediately taken to timber it a cave-in or a fall might be looked for. Superintendent Law lost no time, but at once put a number of timbermen at work to brace the falling roof.

The men were at work propping up the roof when the fall occurred. The alarm was immediately given by the ringing of fire bells and rescuers were put to work without delay.

More than two-thirds of the victims were married men and leave families. The concussion was so great that it was heard for miles around. The foundations of nearly every building in Pittston were shaken, and windows and doors rattled as in a tornado. In the houses near to the mine people were thrown from their beds.

The first thought was that a great earthquake had occurred, and the inhabitants rushed pell mell from their houses. The ringing of the fire bells and the shrieking of the big mine whistle soon told the story.

Crowds of people gathered about the mouth of the shaft and numbered thousands by daybreak. Stalwart men stood appalled, and frantic women who had husbands or sons in the doomed mine waited in despair.

When it was given out that there was little or no hope of rescuing the men alive, women and girls fainted and were borne away senseless.

A conference of prominent mine superintendents from all over the Wyoming valley was held, and the situation in the mine was discussed. The conclusion was reached that to prevent further loss of life the work of rescue must proceed with care. It is also the unanimous belief of the superintendents that the mine is now a tomb, and that it will be some days before the rescuers reach the bodies.

ASSAULTS A POLICEMAN.

Mob Attacks an Officer at a Ball Game.

In the ninth inning of a ball game at St. Louis on the 28th, there was almost a riot. It was after a dispute over a decision had been decided that the crowd overran the field. A private policeman ordered a party of three to move on and they set upon him and began beating him. A police sergeant came to the officer's rescue and hit one of the men on the head with a bat. He was carried from the field, a crowd following. A number of officers collected about their sergeant to protect him. Cries of "lynch him" and "kill him" were heard on all sides. When the race track was reached a number of men hurled clouds of dirt at the officers.

BRITAIN APPEALS TO US.

Asks the United States to Secure the Release of Harrison.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Washington says: British Ambassador Pauncefote and Minister Andrade of Venezuela, called separately on Secretary Olney and conferred with him touching the arrest by Venezuelan troops of British Surveyor Harrison on the British Venezuelan boundary. It is understood that Mr. Pauncefote, under instructions, requested the friendly intervention of the United States to secure Harrison's release. This course was necessary, as diplomatic relations do not exist between Great Britain and Venezuela. The action is similar to our request to Great Britain to look after the interests of John Hays Hammond at Pretoria, where we have no representative. It is believed Olney has already taken steps to communicate with Venezuela on the subject.

Mr. Andrade's visit, in the absence of official news from Venezuela, led to the expression of opinion by the minister that the affair had been magnified and was lacking in serious indignity or wrong to the British. It was the opinion of those best qualified to judge that the arrest of the crown surveyor was not the direct act of the Government of Venezuela, but was due to the hasty and probably irresponsible act of some local agents, acting under a misapprehension, and that when proper representations were made to the Government at Caracas, the latter will apologize.

MURDERERS CAPTURED.

Sheriff Rogers' Slayers Taken After an Exciting Chase.

The two murderers of Sheriff Rogers of Glencoe, Minn., were captured at half past 2 o'clock the afternoon of the 25th, after the posse had scoured Sibley and the southern part of McCleod counties. The chase lasted nineteen hours and the men were finally located in Duff's Lake, a gunshot brought them to time and they surrendered themselves at once. The men were much afraid of lynching and when they reached town an excited crowd of a thousand people greeted them. The crowd met and listened to hot lynching and anti-lynching speeches, and the authorities telegraphed to Gov. Clough asking for military assistance to guard the prisoners. Company D, of St. Paul, was sent and arrived after midnight, and at once was put on guard around the jail.

NOT GUILTY OF MATRICIDE.

Alice Fleming Acquitted of Poisoning Her Mother. Mrs. Alice Fleming, charged with poisoning her mother by administering the poison in clam chowder, was declared not guilty at New York City after a trial lasting into the second day of the eighth week. The trial has been sensational in the extreme. Mrs. Fleming and her mother, Mrs. Bliss, got along badly. An estate of $80,000 was coming to Mrs. Fleming at her mother's death. When the mother was found dead the daughter was arrested. She pleaded not guilty. On the trial several disgusting and unprintable letters from Mrs. Fleming to a male admirer were read. The crowds at the trial have been very large, and a small panic resulted from the crush on the last day.

Big Robbery Prevented.

The boldest attempt at bank robbery ever made on the Pacific coast has just come to light at Los Angeles. The object of the attack was the heavy steel vault of the Constitutional Bank, one of the largest financial institutions of its kind in southern California. To reach it the robbers dug a tunnel 102 feet in length, extending from a street adjoining the First National, running thence under the cellars of three other banks. This tunnel had progressed to a point directly beneath the vault when the police authorities were apprised of its existence. When the scheme was discovered the burglars had begun to remove the brick masonry supporting the steel vault. Only one suspect has thus far been arrested.

THE WEEK IN TRADE

THE BUSINESS WORLD AS SEEN BY DUN & CO.

Wheat Receipts at Western Points on the Increase—Hay Crop Considered Good—Woman Shot by a Marshal—Other Items.

Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: The weakness of wheat, which had declined 2.10 cents, and of cotton, which is an eighth lower for spot, though less for futures, has full explanation in decidedly good crop prospects. Returns of harvesting thus far support the best estimates as to wheat, and the condition of cotton has been decidedly improved by rains.

Wheat receipts at western points have been 2,698,692 bushels against only 787,291 last year, and for three weeks past 9,551,278 bushels against 3,954,905 last year, and while Atlantic exports have sharply increased, amounting to 7,867,527 bushels (four included) against 4,912,437 for three weeks of June last, there is no reason to doubt regarding the sufficiency of supplies.

The hay crop has also been exceedingly good at the west. It is not wholly a welcome but a necessary conclusion that prices for the great staples are not likely to be higher.

Failures for the week have been 127 in the United States against 256 last year, and 24 in Canada against 22 last year.

WOMAN SHOT BY A MARSHAL

She Levelled a Pistol at Him and is Killed.

Mrs. Lem Johns was killed at Kuttawa, Ky., by Marshal McCallum. The tragedy grew out of a feud. Eight months ago McCallum arrested Mrs. Boyman, mother of Mrs. Johns, for resisting him in the discharge of his duty and she fell dead in jail from heart disease as a result of excitement. McCallum was acquitted on trial for contributing to her death. Mrs. Johns hid herself in the cemetery and sent word by her own child to McCallum that a man wanted to see him. When he came she arose from behind a gravestone with a pistol leveled at him. McCallum quickly drew his pistol and fired, killing the woman instantly. There is much excitement.

FOUR MET DEATH.

A Party of Minneapolis Young People Drowned at Annandale.

The accidental drowning of four Minneapolis young people who were taking a sail on Clear Water Lake, a beautiful sheet of water near Annandale, Minnesota, was a terrible shock to the parents of the young people. The wind was blowing quite a gale and the water was very rough. The boat suddenly capsized in a squall and all of its occupants were drowned at a distance of about 100 rods from the shore. Two of them were seen clinging to the boat after it had capsized, but they were not able to keep up until help reached them.

Curious Recovery of a Ring.

Five years ago H. C. Navarro, of San Antonio, Texas, had a valuable diamond ring stolen from him. It was a curious ring in this, that the gem was not set in gold or silver, but in a circle of wrought iron of intricate workmanship. Recently the ring was found by a workman in the Union Oil Company's mill at Denison, Texas, whose duty it is to remove anything like metal that he can find clinging to the magnet in the gin-room, where the lint is removed from the seed before the crushing of the seed is begun. The manager of the mill advertised for the owner of the ring and Mr. Navarro in his wise recovered it.

ACTIVITY ON WARSHIPS.

Fleet in New York Harbor Taking on Coal and Supplies.

A special from New York says: Unless significant signs fail, the squadron of United States warships just now stationed in the harbor of New York will be dispatched soon on important missions. Those who should be in a position to know say the destination will be the coast of Cuba. During the last week work on all the vessels has been doubled in response to a special order received from the Secretary of the Navy. The nature of this order cannot be ascertained. Every boat of the North Atlantic squadron except the New York, which is still in dry dock, was taking in coal. On the Newark, Montgomery, Cincinnati and Indiana there was considerable stir and bustle. From dawn until darkness boats laden with provisions crowded alongside. The barges were kept busy piling coal into the bunkers.

Officers admitted that services were omitted on board the ships on Sunday, but explained it by the necessity of making repairs so that the ships might be in condition to take the naval militia on their annual cruise early in July.

When asked if he expected orders to go to Cuba, Capt. Farquhar, commanding the Newark, said: "That I can't talk about. Only the Admiral is authority to speak on that point."

FAILS TO PUT SHARKEY OUT

The San Francisco Sailor Gives Corbett a Hard Fight.

That San Franciscoans have lost none of their old time interest in Corbett received ample demonstration on the night of the 24th, when the crowd began to assemble to witness the four round contest between the champion and Tom Sharkey, the sailor. Ten thousand people were present when the contest was called. Corbett was favorite at odds of 10 to 8. The champion had announced that he would knock the marine out in four rounds.

During the last two rounds Sharkey was the aggressor and Corbett was forced to clinch to keep the sailor from fighting. It was the opinion of all who saw the fight that Sharkey more than held his own and was the freshest of the two at the end of the contest. It is practically a victory for Sharkey, who had to be held by the police to keep him from going at Corbett.

Corbett seemed to be greatly exhausted. The sailor's adherents allege that Corbett himself gave the signal for the police interference when he found he was getting the worst of it.

They therefore withdraw from the mission entrusted to them by Gen. Campos. This puts an end to the affair, much to the satisfaction of everyone.

Freight Car Blown from a Siding Out Upon the Main Track of the B. & M. at Hastings Causes a Bad Wreck—Engine Demolished.

Passenger Train Wrecked. Train No. 4 of the B. & M. which reaches Hastings at 4 o'clock a. m. was badly wrecked the other morning. A heavy wind had been blowing during the night and blew a box car down on the main line. The engine struck the box car with such force as to completely destroy it and threw the engine and mail car from the track. The mail car was not damaged much, but the engine was thrown on its side and is a complete wreck. It is a miracle how Engineer Noland and his fireman escaped injury, as they remained at their posts and crawled out without a scratch. The passengers were badly shaken up and greatly frightened, but none hurt.

Jail Bird Makes His Escape.

Samuel Smith, who has been confined in the county jail at York for some time awaiting his trial in the district court on the charge of cattle stealing, broke jail the other morning and is still at liberty. Judge Walsh had just served Smith with breakfast and had gone out of the cell and on his return Smith was gone. It was afterward learned that he stole a horse from a barn near the court house and started for more congenial climes. He was pursued by N. M. George and was compelled to abandon the horse he had stolen and hide in the thick brush. A posse surrounded the place where he disappeared, but he has not been caught.

She was unconscious up to her death.

Secures His Liberty.

Charles McHugh, arrested and held at Beatrice in jail for a number of weeks upon the charge of seduction, preferred against him in Iowa, and who was finally taken to Iowa, has returned to Beatrice the charge having been dismissed. TOBIN THE MAN WANTED.

Mrs. Hinkle Identifies Him as the Man Who Shot Her.

It is now believed that Frank Tobin, a parole convict, is the man who assaulted and shot Mrs. Hinkle at Valparaiso. Mrs. Hinkle, who is still alive, identified Tobin as her assailant. It appears that Tobin was very much smitten with Mrs. Hinkle when she was Miss Addie Edwards, but his attentions were not appreciated. One day when he called and got gay her brother sent a couple of loads of buckshot at him. Tobin essayed the society of a number of girls, but they thought he was tough and would have nothing to do with him. About six years ago he was sent up for a term for attempting to rob the bank at Valparaiso. When he was released on parole he attempted to renew social relations with the young women, but as before his attentions were repelled and he got some grim mental satisfaction in threatening to shoot the entire female population in the vicinity of Valparaiso. Mrs. Hinkle, who is a young woman of about 18 years, has positively identified Tobin with the lower part of his face covered, as he was when the assault was made upon her, and has also said that she believed him to have been her assailant from other circumstances than his appearance.

A Queer Course.

Henry Stehl, proprietor of a meat market at Grand Island, is missing. A note has been found addressed by him to his wife in which he indicated that he was on his way to New York, and would never return, and asked her not to take the matter too hard. While his business was not in the most prosperous condition, he had no such reverses from which he could not easily extricate himself or which would be sufficient grounds for such action. Neither have there been any domestic difficulties, as far as can be learned, and Mrs. Stehl, who is a most estimable woman, is completely prostrated. His relatives and friends believe he will return as soon as he realizes how grave a step he has taken.
