The switch engine finally gave the alarm and after awhile the alarm at the waterworks station lifted its voice. Neighbors assisted Mr. Parsons to keep the fire from reaching other buildings, and in a remarkably short time after the alarm had sounded, the fire company had run out 600 feet of hose and was playing a stream of water on the adjoining buildings. Rev. G. A. Munroe delivered the baccalaureate address to the senior class of the Columbus high school Sunday evening at the Congregational church. The text was from John 3-14, "I have written unto you. . . because you are strong." A large congregation was present. The choir rendered special selections and Miss Ethel Galley sang a solo. We quote a few thoughts from Rev. Munroe's address: "It seems a strange reason why the ancient saints should write his epistle, 'because ye are strong.' We could see why he should write to the old, because they are feeble. But why write to the young? Youth is the strength. How shamefully the simple words of the Great Teacher have been misunderstood! There was nothing of the morbid, strained, or unnatural about Jesus. His life was free, full and spontaneous. The work which he did in preaching, teaching and healing was earnestness, and could only have been done by one who was strong spiritually. He did not put a premium upon weakness. He chose his first followers from the sturdy peasantry—men who lived out door life and were able to do valiant battle. But if weakness is not a virtue, neither is more strength. Strength is the capital which God has given us. John writes to you, then, young people, because 'ye are strong,' because you have capital which he wishes to invest in the wisest possible way. Young men and young women, God demands of you your highest service. He asks you to be your best. That yearning which you feel in your heart bidding you undertake great things in his voice calling you on."

The concert given by the Iroquois orchestra Monday evening was not so well attended as the excellent program rendered deserved, but those present spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening. HEART PROVERBS.

He that hath no heart ought to have back.

A happy heart is better than a full purse.

What comes from the heart goes to the heart.

He who hath most heart knows most of sorrow.

A cheerful countenance betokens a good heart.

No estate can make him rich that has a poor heart.

The heart's testimony is stronger than a thousand witnesses.

A glad heart seldom sighs, but a sorrowful mouth often laughs.

The heart is the hidden treasure of man; the tongue is the gate to the treasure.

A good heart is the sun and moon; or, rather, the sun, for it shines bright and never changes.

There never was a heart truly great and generous that was not also tender and compassionate.

"Royal Oak Day."

May 29 is celebrated in many parts of Great Britain as "Royal Oak day," being the anniversary of the restoration of Charles II. to the throne in England as Charles II. The celebration is not what it formerly was, having died out entirely in many of the southern counties of England. The day was formerly commemorated not only as the day of "restoration," but on account of the marvelous escape of Charles, who, after the battle of Worcester, climbed into an oak tree and hid from his pursuers among its branches. On "Royal Oak" those who celebrate wear sprigs of oak in their hats and use the leaves for various decorations.
