ORDER OF PUBLICATION

VIRGINIA—In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County of Tazewell, on the 8th day of April, 1907.

J. S. Gillespie, Plaintiff vs. In Chancery. A. T. Harman, C. E. Harman and Dove Harman, his wife, A. Z. Litz and Mathias Harman, Defendants.

The object of this suit is to subject the lands mentioned in the bill to the payment of the decree in favor of the complainant, mentioned in the bill, said lands lying in Wright's Valley, in Tazewell county.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that the defendants C. E. Harman, Dove Harman and A. Z. Litz are not residents of the State of Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within fifteen days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit. And it is further ordered that a copy hereof be published once a week for four weeks in the Tazewell Republican, a newspaper published in the county of Tazewell, and that a copy be posted at the front door of the court-house of this county as prescribed by law.

A copy for file: S. M. GRAHAM, Clerk. Chapman & Gillespie, p. q. april14.

VIRGINIA—In the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of the County of Tazewell, on the 11th day of April, 1907.

Minnie N. Humphreys, Complainant. vs. In Chancery. George A. Warder, his wife, and devisees, and all other persons who are or may be interested in the subject to be disposed of in this suit, who are proceeded against as unknown parties, Defendants.

The object of this suit is to perfect the title of said Minnie N. Humphreys by securing the outstanding legal title to the real estate that was sold by George A. Warder, of Oakland, California, and formerly of Springfield, Ohio, to H. C. Davis, of Honaker, Virginia, by writing bearing date April 25, 1895, and of record in Russell County, Va., said real estate being all the real estate in the State of Virginia owned by said George A. Warder, and same being situated in the counties of Tazewell, Russell, Buchanan, Dickenson, Wise and Scott, which real estate was duly acquired by the said Minnie N. Humphreys from said H. C. Davis by deed bearing date May 4, 1896, and recorded in said Russell County; and to have any title or claim of the said unknown parties defendant to said real estate conveyed to the said Minnie N. Humphreys by the Court's Commission, and for general relief.

And it appearing from the bill filed in the said suit in equity, and from affidavits on file in my said office, that the heirs and devisees of George A. Warder, deceased, and all other persons who are or may be interested in the subject to be disposed of in the said suit are persons whose names and residences are unknown, and are made defendants by the general description of parties unknown, it is, therefore, ordered that the said heirs and devisees of George A. Warder, deceased, and any and all other persons who are or may be interested in the subject to be disposed of in the said suit, do appear in the clerk's office of our said court within fifteen days after due publication of this order to answer, the said bill of the complainant and do what is necessary to protect their interests in the premises, and that this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Tazewell Republican, a weekly newspaper published at Tazewell, in Tazewell county, Virginia, and that a copy be posted at the front door of the court-house of this county, as prescribed by law.

PARK OBERLIN

STANDARD REGISTERED, VOL. 12

The month of March has long been recognized in Tazewell as the time when breeders of horses and mules begin to cast about for proper matings for their mares. Before County Court was dispensed with the people had an opportunity to size up the stallions and jacks at March court (Stud Horse Day,) and it was on this day, as a rule, that the matings were made.

Now it is made necessary to send the stallions around, or to make announcements through papers or by circulars. This is not always satisfactory to either the owners of stallions or mares. There are a few fundamental truths, however, that are known or should be known by all breeders of saddle horses. It is said by some people that "such and such a man can make any horse travel, and that it is no evidence of the saddle qualities of the horse when ridden by such a man." Such talk is the purest nonsense. It is true, however, that some men can develop the best qualities of a horse while other men will develop the worst qualities, but no man with an ounce of brains, if he uses his brains for five minutes, can be made to believe that any man, no matter how perfect a horseman he may be, can get out of a horse qualities or gaits that are not in the horse. The one art in handling a saddle horse, (if there be an art,) is to feel for his best, and when you have found it and are able to recognize it, to spend your time in developing it. If you are unable to judge between good, bad and indifferent, do you deem it fair to charge it to the horse? He is simply in your hands to be guided. Guide him properly and he will give you his best. Guide him improperly, then be contented with his worst. Men are not different. Rub them the right way and get their best. Rub them the wrong way and get their worst. The pace is known to be the ground-work or the beginning of the smooth gaited saddle horse, and that he can only be made from a natural pacer. Then it would seem to be wise to breed to the horse known to be the most apt to impart this gait. Now, there is a great difference in the way horses pace. Some are side pacers, some line pacers, some pace all over, and others have the pace motion, but never get anywhere. A horse with the least body motion is the smoothest to the rider, and, therefore, a horse should pace straight, pace with his legs, all four of them, and when he puts them down they must count distance. He should step out well with his front feet and bring his hind legs well up under him. Such a horse has the natural tendency to copy miles and gives his rider the sensation as if he were gliding out from under him, and the inclination to squeeze the horse with his knees. The other saddle gaits follow naturally the pace, and as a rule, the kind of pace.

PARK has the pace strongly bred into him. He has the right kind. He paces with his legs—all four of them. He has plenty of it, and hands it out to his rider or driver with a joyousness that sends a thrill to his hair tips, and sends his blood surging through his arteries and veins. His is the kind of riding or driving that gives real pleasure and brings health, because exercise to be healthful should be pleasing. He is full of the race blood, and enjoys it, and like a man with a contagious laugh, sends his joy through the reins to the buggy or saddle. He is kind as a setter dog, and frolicsome as a kitten. He is fond of a caress or kindness, but resents an insult with all the cumulative force of his Arab ancestors. His colts partake largely of this trait, and to get the best out of them you should use sugar rather than whip. That he is blind is no fault of heredity, because traits rather than disease of the eye are transmitted. The form of an eye ball is transmitted like a feature, but not disease. PARK developed cataracts in both eyes when seven years old, and that is a condition that may be met in man or beast, and is produced, not inherited. He was bred at the R. C. Church Stock Farm, Frankfort, Kentucky, and foaled in 1892. He blends the best blood of the country, and reaches it through noted individuals. He stands about sixteen hands high, weighs eleven hundred and fifty pounds, and is a rich mahogany bay in color. His feet are black and hard, and his legs are bony and firm, and it is no guess to say that his get go, for he has colts all around—out of all kinds of mares—and they show beyond question that he is a wonderful producer of both saddlers and drivers.

He will make the Spring and Summer season at J. W. Moss' Livery Stable, Tazewell, Va.
