AMUSEMENTS. A Rare Treat in Store for Lovers of Farce Comedy.

The Academy will offer its patrons next week, a novelty in the farce comedy line, and if provincial criticisms are any criterion the show is a good one. It bears the title of "Town Topics" and is in three acts, neither of which have a very close relation; there is almost no plot; it is farce pure and simple.

The second act, which is a correct representation of Broadway, New York, opposite the famous Hoffman House, is almost entirely specialties. In this act will be introduced the bloomer girls, the Bowery boys and girls, Conroy and McFarland, the well-known exponent of Irish wit, Master Tommy Meade in ballads, William Keller, the monologist, William H. Mack in a grotesque dance, the Misses Vera, Jewell, Aylis, Lorraine, Wollert and Wilson in a new song and dance, the London gaitly girls, the three sisters Merrills, the most charming and talented girls England has sent us in their various dances, Wm. Wood's latest negro song, "My Gal's a Corker," and the "Town Topics" chowder party by the entire company. In the last act Wood and Shepard will introduce their laughable musical specialty, "Down Broadway," "Same Old Mother Loves Me in the Same Old Home," "She is One of the Bowery Girls," "I am Oao of the Boys," "Dancing Around the Apple Tree," "Helle of Avenue A," "Four Little Country Rubes," and "Love Me, Love Me, Lou." will be sung in this city for the first time with "Town Topics" on Thursday, January 2.

"The Fatal Card."

If a good waltz is better than a bad symphony—no less an authority than Richard Wagner has made that bold but true assertion—then an interesting melodrama is certainly a thousand times better than a tiresome problem play. Few people who see it will deny that this is a most excellent drama. "The Fatal Card" presents a series of thrills such as have rarely been put into a four act play. It begins with a scene among the Vigilantes in Colorado, and ends with an explosion scene in England. It contains, however, a great many broad comedy scenes which, unless you want to pose as a prude you are sure to enjoy heartily. The scenery is new and of the very best, and the play itself exercises a weird sort of fascination. An excellent company has been provided, and the play will be given the same settings that it was at Palmer's theater, New York. The date here is Friday, January 3.
