

DYSPEPSIA TWENTY YEARS.

Cured by Three Bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Mr. Joseph Hogan, Franklin, Mass., says: "I suffered from dyspepsia for twenty years. The stomach became weakened so that after eating a meal it would not be digested, but would accumulate in the stomach. I would have a sense of fullness or bloating after eating, with distress, and I would suffer greatly with acidity and eructations of large quantities of acrid, scalding water.

"I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and have not yet used three bottles and have had perfect relief. I have eaten all kinds of food and digest it without the slightest difficulty. I consider myself cured of my confirmed dyspepsia." If constipated, use Dr. Greene's Cathartic Pills with the Nervura.

WEYLER IN BAD HUMOR.

The Impression Very General That He Will be Removed.

Atlanta, via Key West, Jan. 13.—Captain-General Weyler is in a very bad humor and seemingly with good reason. He was with difficulty dissuaded a day or so ago from sending Senor Pena, correspondent of the Madrid Herald, to Moro Castle, as a newspaper man of his paper who is not safe from the Spanish commander, whose ire was aroused by the criticisms of the conduct of the campaign in Cuba and the administration of affairs on the island. To such a degree has the captain-general felt his ill-temper that nobody outside of his military and civil advisers has been able to see him since his latest return from the field. That he is in danger of recall nobody here for a moment doubts, in spite of many official and semi-official denials, for it is remembered the same course was followed by the government in the case of the recall of Campos. Weyler cannot truthfully be said to have achieved any success, diplomatic, administrative, military or otherwise.

Gomez is pushing on hard from the east with all the men he can muster. The insurgents in the mean while are bearing the torch to the very gates of Havana. The civil governor is known to be using his influence with the commercial bodies here to bring about Weyler's recall, and protests against his conduct, couched in emphatic terms, have been sent to Madrid recently in great numbers. Efforts to cable such matter to Madrid from here have been frustrated by the captain-general; but this has not interrupted several important messages from being sent to Madrid from Key West.

The movement against Weyler has its roots in the most influential circles here, the very quarters where Spain counts her staunchest supporters, and, therefore, it is not believed possible that the government will long hold out against these complaints.

The air is full of rumors of soldiers suffering from lack of food, medicine and ammunition, which, on the other hand, issued by some means or other, have fallen into the hands of the insurgents or have entirely failed to materialize. Even the army contractors have turned against the captain-general and, that, as military men are aware, means a good deal.

The advent of Gomez into the western part of Cuba is liable to be the straw which will turn the tide in favor of Weyler's recall, which is only held back because the Spanish ministry does not like to be placed in a position of giving way in this matter to the condemnation to which the captain-general and his followers have met with in American newspapers.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

The Dauntless Will not be Allowed to Clear From Jacksonville.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The account given by the master of the Dauntless, of the recent movements of the suspected filibuster, as contained in his affidavits which reached the Treasury Department yesterday, is wholly unsatisfactory to the officials and this fact has been communicated to the collector at Jacksonville, together with instructions not to grant the clearance asked for. Nothing further in the matter is likely to be done by the officials for the present at least, unless the Dauntless attempts to leave the harbor, when she probably will be forcibly detained by the revenue cutters and possibly libelled.

SCANDAL IN HIGH LIFE.

Philadelphia Select Society Shocked by an Elopement.

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—Mrs. C. C. Pinckney Norris has eloped with H. Cavalier Smith and they are now on their way to Japan. Mrs. Norris is one of the best-known women in the fashionable set and is the mother of two children, while Mr. Smith is equally as well known in the society world, and is the father of five children.

Mr. Norris has placed the matter in the hands of his lawyer, John G. Johnson, and suit will shortly be brought for divorce.

Although the elopement occurred about three weeks ago it was not discovered until a week later. It is understood that Mrs. Norris informed her husband at her departure that she was going to visit some friends in Baltimore. At the same time Mr. Smith took leave of his children.

They proceeded to New York and thence to San Francisco, where they boarded an outgoing steamer via Honolulu. This information has been obtained through detectives. Mrs. Norris is said to have at least $50,000 in money and jewels, while Mr. Smith also took away a large sum.

Yale, Harvard and Pennsylvania.

The fact that Pennsylvania and Harvard will play football as usual seems pretty well assured. The only way that the Yale-Harvard agreement threatens to affect Pennsylvania is to sever her dual track athletic arrangement. Harvard will, of course, want to meet Yale in dual games. She may also be willing to meet Pennsylvania, since both sets of games would be played at Cambridge and necessitate no traveling. However, this is unlikely, since it would be asking a good bit to require her men to contest dual games with Yale and Pennsylvania and enter the intercollegiate championships all in one month, as they would have to.—Philadelphia Press.

Plenty of Wild Fowl.

Reports from all over the country are to the effect that the fall flight of ducks and geese was heavier than has been known for a dozen years, and, although at this time of the year the majority of sportsmen are devoting their attention almost exclusively to quail shooting, many of the old timers still spend their days in following the windings of the woodland streams or tramp through the cattails and heavy grasses in pursuit of the gaudy mallard and bright-winged teal.—Exchange.

SHORT NEWS STORIES.

No Courting on Sundays. That is the latest decree of fanatical reformers. Six days one may spark and "keep steady company," but, according to the up-to-date ethics of the youths of Bridgeport, Conn., on the seventh day all manner of lovmaking must be abandoned.

The Bachelors' club of that city has issued an interdiction upon Sunday sparring, and all grades of society are in a state of feverish excitement. Not only has Sunday courting been prohibited, but steps amounting almost to violence have been taken to enforce the prohibition. The other Sunday the gallant crusaders against courting forcibly entered several houses where it was known that lovesick swains were whispering sweet words into the ears of their charmers and tore the couples apart. Promises of compliance with the wishes of the Bachelors' club, at least on one day of the week, were extracted by intimidation, and such is the power of this organization that it is said, marriageable girls are contemplating a wholesale exodus from the benighted little Connecticut town.

The organization of men who have presumed to regulate the amatory proclivities of Bridgeport bachelors is made up of members of the St. Patrick Total Abstinence and Benevolent society. There are many in the ranks of this order who contend that abstinence is being pushed too far, and it is said that the latest ukase has stirred up much strife in the society. The stringent rules which still govern some parts of New England are well known. It is still a misdemeanor in Connecticut for a man to kiss his own wife in public, but this crusade against courting on that day of all others, which has always been recog-

Advertised the Bridal Fair.

"On my last trip home from New York," said Assistant General Passenger Agent P. W. Baskirk of the Erie railroad, "I witnessed about the most diabolical trick perpetrated on a newly wedded couple that I have ever seen in all my years of railroading, and I have witnessed a good many. I will not mention the town, but two of the leading society lights of it were married this day that I was on my way home. They were to take an Erie train for the west. At a station about 30 miles east of their town three young men boarded the train. Each carried a bunch of what appeared to be dodgers, and each went busily to work distributing them throughout the train. These circulars stated that at the next station a newly wedded pair would board the train. The bride and groom were described in glowing terms, so that there might be no mistake in identifying them. Ladies were requested to kiss the bride when she should come on the train and to congratulate her. Gentlemen were asked to take the groom into the smoker and there try to impress upon him that he had made the mistake of his life. All were requested to put their heads out of the windows when the train should arrive at the next station and give three cheers for the couple. "You should have seen how the passengers entered into the spirit of the thing! Every window on the station side of the train had a head sticking out of it when the train pulled up, and the cheers were given with a will. As soon as the bride entered the car a kindly old lady took her in her arms and kissed her and congratulated her. Behind her stood a line of ladies waiting their turn. Meantime the groom had been spirited away, and the male passengers were making him miserable in the smoker. "After a time the couple got together and compared notes. Then they left the train at the next stop."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Senator Wilson's Double.

Some one once advanced the idea that every man in the world has a duplicate. Senator Wilson of Washington will not have to go far to find his. Harry Wilson, the senator's brother, who is now in town, could walk into the senate tomorrow, and the watchful doorkeeper would not stop him. One day, out in Spokane, where the two brothers live, Senator Wilson, who had just returned from his legislative duties here, was stopped on the street by a man who had known him for years. "Harry," said the man, "when will your brother John be here?" "In a day or two," said John, without a smile. "Tell him I want to see him on an important matter." "Certainly," said John. "And you will not forget it?" "I'll try not," promised John, and thus another office seeker was foiled. But there is one thing about Harry in which he differs from his brother. He is not forgetful. He does not go to New York with his dress suit and all his other finery and forget his shirt.—Washington Post.

Nothing pleased the late William Morris, the poet, so much as to be mistaken for a sailor. Once, while rolling through one of the riverside streets of old London, he was overhauled by a seafaring man. "Avast there!" cried the stranger. "Don't I know you? Weren't you once the mate of the brig Sea Swallow?" To be mistaken for the mate of a ship bearing so poetic a name as the Sea Swallow was simply glorious. "Yes, I'm he," said Morris, and he locked arms with the stranger, piloted him into an alehouse and filled him full of liquors and substantial.
