The game this evening promises to be of special interest and there will be a large crowd in attendance. A party of excursionists from both Lexington and Blacksburg will be present to root for their favorites. This will be one of the most interesting games played on the Roanoke grounds this season and each club is confident of being victorious. Blacksburg is not in the best possible shape, but they are very sanguine, and say if they do not win the other club will not have a walkover.

MR. BARR'S SHAKESPEARE RECITAL.

All lovers of Shakespeare and the "divine art of expression," as Carlisle calls it, are looking forward with intense interest to the recital at the Y. M. C. A. hall by the Rev. W. A. Barr, on Monday evening, for the benefit of Christ Church. Mr. Barr gave two recitals in Roanoke last year and on both occasions the house was crowded to its utmost capacity. In his first recital Tennyson's beautiful poem of "Enoch Arden" was illuminated by his original conception and rendition. At his second recital "Julius Caesar" was rendered in such a manner as proved Mr. Barr a master of expression. The programme on Monday night will consist of selections from "Macbeth," varied with other selections, combining both humor and pathos. A piano duo by Mrs. Webster Meadows and Mr. W. B. Buddo will be one of the features of the occasion. Two fine Behr Bros. pianos will be used.

A SOUTHWEST VIRGINIAN.

In The Times' telegraphic news a few days ago there appeared an article in regard to the killing of a young man named Hoover in Montana, evidently by Indians. Hoover is a native of Wytheville, Va., and left Roanoke about three years ago for Los Angeles, the home of his father. A short time ago a desire took possession of him to see more of the world, which resulted in his leaving home for Montana, where he met his untimely death at the hands of the Indians.

A DECIDED SUCCESS.

First Concert of the Roanoke Choral Society a Society Event.

Roanoke feels justly proud of its Choral Society. One of the best entertainments of the season was given by them last night at the Academy of Music. The programme, rendered was very popular, though of high standard and pleasing to genuine lovers of good music. Mr. Herbert Seachard, the musical director, has every reason to take pride in the success of his work, and our people are certainly indebted to him for his praiseworthy efforts to elevate the musical taste and cultivate a liking for music of a high order in our city. The Choral was assisted by Mr. Anne Elaine Fisher, soprano, of Philadelphia; Signor Giannini, tenor, the famous Italian opera singer; Miss Kate Hull-Bundy, pianist, of Philadelphia, and our Mr. W. B. Buddo, accompanist, of Roanoke.

The audience was large and appreciative, nearly every number being heartily encored.

Promptly at 8:15 the curtain arose, disclosing the Choral seated on the stage. Their first number, Spofforth's "Hail, Smiling Morn," was rendered in a spirited manner, and was characterized by that liveliness and energy well adapted to an opening selection. All the members seemed at ease, and there existed a confidence which never fails to please.

Mr. Buddo, Roanoke's inimitable accompanist, was in fine form, and ably sustained the other performers in his own accurate and sympathetic manner.

Roanoke has never experienced the pleasure of such exquisite piano performance as that which Miss Kate Hull-Bundy avowed the audience last night. The intelligent music-loving portion of the audience was unanimous in its verdict that she is an artist of the highest mark, and her rendition of the difficult music of Liszt and Godard left a profound impression upon her hearers. The acceptable nature of her performance was no doubt in a great measure due to the superb instrument upon which she performed, the Behr Bros. concert grand, and of which she proved herself such a complete master.

Signor Giannini made the hit of the evening. His very appearance elicited enthusiastic applause. He came on the stage smiling, and seemed in a splendid humor. His first selection was entitled "Celeste Aida," from "Aida," by Verdi; as an encore he gave that touching and tender melody that appeals to the universal heart, entitled "Say An Revoir." The audience was now in pleasant anticipation of hearing Mr. W. Walley Davis, Roanoke's accompanist and versatile violinist. Mr. Davis, however, owing to recent sickness, was unable to appear. Mrs. Fisher rendered "The Old Kentucky Home."

In the duet by Mrs. Fisher and Signor Giannini, "Il Miserere," from "Il Trovatore," the blending of the rich soprano and tenor was most taking and the audience was charmed. The "Spring Song," by Piniuti, was next rendered by the Choral. The closing number was Hatton's "When Evening's Twilight," made a fitting ending of the concert.

BEHE GRAND AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC LAST NIGHT.

The Behr Bros. concert grand piano used at the Academy of Music last night is a superb instrument. It fitted that large auditorium perfectly, and charmed every one with its clear, bell-like treble and sonorous bass. Like the entire concert, it was a success.

EX-SENATOR COKE DEAD.

Born in Virginia and a Member of a Prominent Family. Waco, Texas, May 14.—Richard Coke, ex United States Senator, died here this morning after a lingering illness.

Ex-United States Senator Coke was the son of John Coke, member of a prominent and numerous Virginia family of that name, and was born at Williamsburg, Va., in 1829. He graduated from William and Mary College with high honors and just prior to the civil war settled in Texas. While the war was in progress he served gallantly on the Confederate side in the Trans-Mississippi department under General Dick Taylor, having been promoted by the latter on the battlefield from a captain to a brigadier general for his bravery. After the war he was chief justice of the supreme court of Texas for four years; governor of the State for two terms of four years each, and served as United States Senator for three terms each, making a total of 30 consecutive years in the public service. His brother, Col. Octavius Coke, at the time of his death, two years ago, was secretary of State for North Carolina. Two of his brothers, Captain John Archer Coke and Alexander Coke, reside in Richmond, Va., and another brother, Dr. Lucius Coke, is a distinguished physician of North Carolina. One of his sisters, Mrs. Mary Coke Motley, is the mother of Mrs. William A. Jones, wife of the Congressman of the First Virginia District, and another sister, Mrs. Alice Rebecca Wilson, now deceased, married the late Samuel Wilson, of Petersburg, and was the mother of Councilman John Archer Wilson, of this city. Senator Coke leaves a wife and one son, Richard Coke, Jr., of Waco, Texas. Councilman Wilson received a telegram yesterday evening from his aunt at Waco, Texas, informing him of the death of her husband, the Senator, from paralysis, which was not unexpected, as he had been in failing health for some time.
