The story of "the girl killed by eating ice cream" is again on its rounds. It is believed to have been originated by some young men whose best girl has a weakness for the frozen sweetness, but whose pocket-book is not strong enough to support her infirmities in that direction.

The prevalence of snow and ice in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York in June is not very pleasant to contemplate, in connection with the hard times, which are still hanging over the country, notwithstanding the Republican promises of prosperity.

The "race war" in Arkansas has assumed rather a serious aspect; but as such conflicts between whites and blacks always do, the "war" will result in far more damage to the latter than the former. It is strange, but the negroes are very slow to learn that it is a bad business to "monkey" with a buzz-saw of this character.

Senator Tillman says South Carolina will appeal from the decision of Judge Simonton to the United States supreme court in the dispensary case; but judging by the late decisions of that tribunal in a similar matter the friends of State barrooms are not likely to profit much by the change of courts.

The Kentucky Democrats now in State convention assembled are not troubled with dissensions this time. They are unanimous for silver and will endorse the Chicago platform with a whoop. It is not likely that the State will go Republican again for a long time, notwithstanding the defection of Mr. Carlisle, Watterson and other men at one time prominent in the councils of the Democratic party.

It is now believed that the threatening letters recently received by Speaker Reed were for nothing more than to perpetrate a gigantic hoax upon the public. The letters, however, were of such a character that the matter was turned over to the proper authorities by Speaker Reed's private secretary without his knowledge and it is thought the sender has already been spotted. It appears that there is no law to reach the case, which is much to be regretted, as the perpetrator of the outrage is deserving of severe punishment.

As was expected it is now announced as certain that there will be no Senatorial investigation of sugar stock speculations. Senator Tillman will, however, have a few more words to say on the subject before the matter is finally dropped and a sensational speech is expected. Though rather extravagant in his utterances sometimes, the South Carolina agitator always commands the attention of his auditors.

It is now said that Mr. Hanna will force a Cuban crisis on the country in time to carry the fall elections in Ohio for the Republicans and thereby elect a legislature in the Buckeye State which will return him to the United States Senate as his own successor. The great Republican boss has shown himself such an expert political manipulator that there is no knowing what he will do in an emergency like that which has arisen in Ohio, where all the indications point to Democratic success next fall, unless some outside issue of a startling character shall attract the attention of the people in favor of the administration.

The President has signed the act making appropriations to supply an urgent deficiency in the printing and binding appropriations, and the act amending the act relative to procuring steamers for the transportation of grain to the starving poor of India, so as to permit the Navy Department to utilize a ship of foreign register in the relief work. In anticipation of the President's action, Judge Advocate General Lemly had already given instructions to the officers at New York, and bids were to have been opened Wednesday afternoon for the supply of two suitable steamships.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Vanderlip's first duty in his new office was to sign 728 per capita warrants in favor of Nez Perce Indians in payment of lands ceded to the United States under an agreement ratified by an act of Congress of August, 1894. The warrants were made out in the names of individual Indians and aggregated $162,608. All the names are long and grotesque, and many of them are unfit for publication. The warrants will be sent to the Indian agent at the Nez Perce reservation in Idaho for distribution, and care will be taken to see that the "untutored savage" is not imposed upon in the negotiation of his warrant. The average daily mail of Assistant Secretary Vanderlip's office is 800 letters, but on Wednesday he was compelled to write his long signature over a thousand times.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

The past week has been a bright one in the annals of the schools and colleges of this city and section, and various commencement exercises gave ample testimony of the efficiency and excellence of these institutions of learning. Virginia College, Holins Institute, Alleghany Institute and the public and private schools of this city and vicinity have all given a splendid exhibit of their success and progress as promoters of education. The sessions just closed at these institutions have shown marked improvement over preceding ones as to numbers and facilities for imparting instruction, while the prospects for another year are all that could be desired. The importance of education is fully appreciated by the people of this section and the advantages and facilities possessed for imparting instruction are not surpassed by any other part of the State.

ENCOURAGING.

The annual meeting of the Bimetallic League which began at Manchester, England, on the 2d instant, was largely attended, among the delegates being representatives from over fifty labor associations. Letters of regret were read from Lord Aldenham, a director of the Bank of England; First Lord of the British Treasury A. J. Balfour; Alfred de Rothschild, consul general for Austria; the Duke of Fife, Marquis of Lorne and others. The report alluded to the progress of bimetallicism in the United States as very encouraging and concluded as follows:

"While the necessity for international bimetallicism was never greater than at present, the council can with confidence affirm that never since 1873 have the prospects been so hopeful. In view of the serious attempt now making to secure a settlement on an international basis, it earnestly calls on all friends of monetary reform to redouble their efforts during the coming year."

Coming from a country as strongly wedded to gold monometallism as England, there is much in the above to encourage the friends of silver everywhere. Indeed, the trend of events is strongly in the direction of the rehabilitation of silver, and it is morally certain that the next century will witness a wonderful change in the financial policy of the nations of the world for the betterment of the white metal, or "the poor man's money."

THE TURKS AND THE GREEKS.

The Turks and the Greeks have ceased their warfare temporarily and it is not at all probable that there will be a resumption of hostilities between the two countries. The Greeks have been badly used up in a very short time, and will have to put a curb upon their aspirations for territorial aggrandizement for a long time to come. But for the intervention of the other European powers, the Turks would by this time have been in possession of Athens and been able eventually to annex the entire kingdom to the Ottoman empire. This, of course, could not be allowed, and when the war began it was fully understood that the reconquest of Greece by Turkey did not enter into the calculation.

The Turks from the beginning fought with their characteristic courage and were superior to the Greeks not only in numbers but in discipline and bravery. The Greeks, too in adversity have not displayed the fortitude which won imperishable fame for their ancestors, and in their treatment of their king and other members of the royal family they have shown a weakness that has disgusted many of their warmest friends and sympathizers. The Turks, no doubt, owed much of their success to the admirable training they had received from German officers, and now that they are conscious of their real strength, will be much more troublesome to the rest of Europe than they have been. It will not do for them to presume too much on this, however, as they will find, should they come in contact with British or French troops, that they are fighting different men from the untrained and excitable Greeks by whom they were recently confronted. The Turkish soldier being a Mohammedan rather courts death in battle than otherwise, since, according to his faith, he believes he would then be immediately transported to Paradise, and this fanaticism no doubt helps to make him the terrible fighter that he is, especially when on the defensive. In a war of aggression he would soon be driven back by the soldiers of Europe, but the best trained troops of any power will find him a most formidable antagonist when fighting for his country, even though that country was originally wrested from others by the followers of the False Prophet.

STRONG FOR TYLER.

Eulogistic Utterances of One of His Enthusiastic Supporters.

The Washington Post prints the following communication: Editor Post: The Hon. J. Hoge Tyler has had a most significant call from his people. The men, the press, the women and children of Virginia, in simultaneous tones, are asking him to become their governor. The place is seeking the man, God be praised.

Ex Gov. Hoge Tyler is no machine politician, God be praised. He holds the confidence of the people of the State. J. Hoge Tyler's creed is broad. Duty with him is of high import and incentive. If the people, in spite of the machine, are able to elect Hoge Tyler as governor, they will have scored a victory towards exterminating demagogism, which has brought Virginia to her present political status.

J. Hoge Tyler is popular with the women of his State, because, for one reason, he does not belong to that class of men whose effete refinement, dignity, and superiority would discourage the efforts of all women to make for themselves as good a living as her mind, and energy, and perseverance fits her for. Mr. Tyler was one of those men who helped her in that memorable struggle before the Virginia legislature when she applied to be admitted as doctors in the insane asylum at Staunton, Va. It was a protracted struggle, and the women of Virginia have not forgotten Hoge Tyler for the part he took.

His cordiality, charity and judgment are of the kind which rulers should be endowed with, and if the people can have their say they will have him for their governor. It is to be hoped Mr. Tyler's friends at the Roanoke convention will not be afraid to speak out in meeting and bid defiance to the machine and its cut and dried rulings, so as the people will not be cheated out of their rights to select whom they will have for their governor.

A. S. GRIFFIN, Culpeper, Va., May 28.

IN THE SENATE.

The Tillman Resolution—Tariff Consideration Resumed.

Washington, June 3.—Senator Tillman today moved to dismiss the committee from further consideration of his resolution for the investigation of the charges that Senators have been speculating in sugar stocks and that it be brought before the Senate for immediate consideration. Mr. Gaillard opposed the motion. Mr. Tillman, upon being assured by Senators Gallinger and Jones, Arkansas, that his resolution would be reported by the committee on contingent expenses, he withdrew his motion to discharge the committee.

Senator Butler, of North Carolina, introduced an amendment to the constitution, taxing incomes.

The Senate then resumed consideration of the tariff bill.

HIS TRAGIC END.

Horrible Death of Samuel L. Burson, of Bristol.

Bristol, Tenn., June 3.—Samuel L. Burson, a wealthy young society man of Bristol, who left here yesterday morning over the South Atlantic and Ohio railroad, with a party of jolly excursionists for Natural Tunnel, Va., met a shocking death at Mendota, fifteen miles from Bristol. While swinging outward from the rear platform of the train his head struck a switch target. His skull was fractured and he died in a few minutes. The excursionists returned at noon in deepest gloom. Mr. Burson was Monday night elected chancellor commander of the Bristol lodge of Knights of Pythias. His father, who died recently, left a large fortune.

MAY RECALL DELOME.

Washington, June 3.—Official and diplomatic circles are greatly interested over the news that the Canova ministry has finally fallen. Mr. Sherman says that it is undoubtedly the general opinion that the relations between the governments of Spain and the United States will be unchanged. The changes in the policy of Spain toward Cuba will not be radical, and the Cubans will not be benefited by the new ministry. Minister DeLome's recall from Washington is confidently expected.

COLLAPSE OF A BUILDING.

New York, June 3.—A new six story brick building at Twelfth avenue, running from Fifty-first to Fifty-second street, caved in this morning. Two workmen are probably fatally injured. The immense structure was almost completed, and was to be occupied by the soap factory of Eavis S. Brown. A number of other workmen miraculously escaped.

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the State was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered; my physicians told me that nothing could be done for me and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering. In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Company, recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured." For sale by H. C. Barnes, "He puts up prescriptions."

HOPE FOR THE OUTS.

Cleveland's Civil Service Order May be Lawfully Evaded.

Washington, June 3.—President Cleveland's civil service order will not prevent the appointment of Republicans to positions of chief division in the executive departments. It can be lawfully evaded. This will be good news to the anxious Republican people who want office, and it will be particularly gratifying because the positions which are to be available are all especially desirable. The salaries are $1,800 up to $3,000 per annum.

There is a Democratic law clerk in one of the executive departments who is learned in the law, and he has discovered the method which will enable the hungry and thirsty to be fed and watered. All other Democrats in good positions will be displaced, but this shrewd fellow will retain his place. He shuns notoriety, but this evening said: "There is a law on the statute books which I cannot now give you because it would attract attention to myself, but it is perfectly clear, and will permit the appointment of Republicans without civil service examinations. If I should designate the statute by number certain people would know that I had been talking, although a number of law clerks have been fearful for some time that this law would be invoked. It provides that where the civil service commission has no names eligible for appointment to any particular grade, the Cabinet officer in charge of any department may make a temporary appointment for three months. In the mean time the civil service commission will be asked to hold examinations for the position, and, of course, there will be many applicants examined, but they will have no show of appointment."

The law provides that if the clerk temporarily appointed for three months shall demonstrate his fitness for the position the secretary may appoint him permanently without a civil service examination. The law presumes that if the man temporarily appointed shall have actually demonstrated his fitness, it would be superfluous to make him pass an examination to prove his ability to continue to perform the duties which he has satisfactorily performed for three months.

For example, if the chief clerk of the Department of Justice shall have successfully and diplomatically met with Senators and Representatives daily for three months, and transacted business with them, it would be folly to make him pass an examination in astronomy or mathematics. You will find that before the first of July this law will be invoked and chiefs of departments and chiefs of divisions will be appointed. The Democratic incumbents who have been feeling secure will be outside the breastworks because no examinations have been held for the positions of that character; and hence the civil service commission has no names on the eligible list for those places. The bars are already let down, for I know of two men who are selected for the appointment in my department and, of course, there must be many others. The President and every member of the Cabinet is fully advised and ready to take action.

This will let in assistant postmasters, assistant collectors, chief clerks of post-offices, chiefs of custom and internal revenue offices, and altogether about ten thousand places of value because of their excellent salaries.

SHAWSVILLE ITEMS.

Alleghany, Crockett and Montgomery White Sulphur Springs have all opened for the season, and hope to have a large crowd.

The earthquake shock was felt here, but no damage was done.

Two traveling Christian Baptists from Iowa conducted a meeting here, beginning on May 29 and lasting three nights. The dry weather still continues in this section.

ELECTRIC BITTERS.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Massie's Pharmacy, 109 Jefferson street, Roanoke.
