was acting the host to the brothers-in-law from the hill farms. He lived on a section of land set off from the homestead and was uncle's right hand man.

There was a word or two of regret from the older ones for the lamented Samuel, who had been there last Christmas; then the group marched single file behind the stalwart Marvin over the narrow snow path to the house.

Floating up from the front yard came a babel of voices, and Ralph, the oldest grandson, a fat, hearty lad, shouted to us boys, "Come and see our Christmas!" As we rounded the corner of the house the same tones cried out, "Ready, aim, fire!" and a dozen balls whistled past our heads from a snow fort manned by a troop of boys and girls in mufflers and mittens.

After this reception the garrison scattered and began placing great rolls upon the parapet to build it higher. A snow man as big as a giant and a rabbit the size of a Saint Bernard were patched up with a nose and an ear, and we were asked to review the sights of the frosty Christmas museum.

The call to dinner led to a real charge through every door of the mansion, and when we got a glimpse of the dining room, as the women seated the little ones, it presented a jumble of happy, red faces and heaps of cooked things in brown, white, pink and yellow.

All Christmas dinners are alike in one thing—under any and all circumstances the guests are ravenously hungry and boisterously happy, and neither old nor young can observe the rule of not talking with the mouth full; otherwise the feast would be silent, and with 35 mouths enjoying Aunt Harriet's bounteous spread that dinner was pot at all quiet. Moreover, I didn't regret having turned my back upon town celebrations for a Christmas at the farm.

NOTES OF PARIS.

Celebration of the Jour de Toussaint. Exposition's Close.

PARIS, Dec. 1.—It has been very gay here for the last month. The concluding fetes of the exposition have been given with great splendor, and there have been so many royalties and dukes that Parisians have laughingly referred to the month of November as "le mois des grands ducs." On the 2d of November I witnessed the celebration of the Jour de Toussaint. You people on the other side of the water can have no idea how impressive this day is to the French. It is a commemoration of the illustrious dead, when all classes take the opportunity of making pilgrimages to the many renowned silent cities within easy reach of the metropolis. Moved by the spirit of the day, Maise and I decided to go to Pere Lachaise and decorate the tomb of Abelard and Heloise. Within the limits of the cemetery there were thousands of pedestrians, visitors from all parts of the world. When we finally reached the tomb of Abelard, we found it, to our surprise, almost buried with flowers. It is wonderful how this romance of the eleventh century clings about the hearts of the people. The guardian of the cemetery informs me that it is a favorite pilgrimage for lovers and that each year unknown hands wreath it with beautiful flowers. We also visited the tombs of Alfred de Musset, Moliere, Lafontaine, Beaumarchais and Chopin. This Pere Lachaise is a wonderful place. It is probable that no cemetery in the world contains so many illustrious dead. The name of Pere Lachaise is that of the confessor of Louis XIV, to whom this land was given for religious purposes. Two portions are reserved for Protestants and Jews, and at the entrance of the latter stands the Greek funeral chapel of the great actress Rachel.

But now for something more cheerful. As perhaps you do not know, I was fortunate enough to be present at the grand ball given in the Palais de l'Elysee by M. and Mme. Loubet to the commissioners general of the exposition and to the foreign members of the jury. It was the most cosmopolitan affair I ever attended. Such a chatter and jabber in all the languages of the earth! Would you believe it, though out of all that babel one could particularly distinguish the Anglo-Saxon element. I couldn't help wondering whether it was because we were more numerous represented or because of the strident quality in our voices. I suppose you will want to know what Mme. Loubet wore. It was a toilet worthy of a queen. More's the pity that such a plain woman had it on. It was a wonderful princess robe of mauve and white brocaded satin and was covered with the finest embroidery. She wore a great many diamonds, principally around the décolletage. The daughter of our American commissioner, Mrs. Sims, looked particularly well. I thought, in her gown of black and silver, with here and there a touch of cerise taffetas.

There was quite a swell 5 o'clock tea affair at the Hotel Campbell. The Grand Duke Serge of Russia was the host, and among the royal guests present were the king of Greece, the Princess of Wales, Prince Nicholas of Greece and the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir. By the way, the Princess of Wales has been visiting Paris incognito. She even omitted to take a minor title of nobility, as is her custom. This going about incognito is about the only amusement the unfortunate crowned heads can enjoy in these unromantic times.

Although my income is too limited to allow of my betting heavily, yet I will admit having been to the races several times lately. The last time was at Chantilly. I don't know when I enjoyed myself so much in all my life. There was a whole coachful of us, and we had four of the finest bays you would care to see. We preferred driving down in this way to going by train, although, as usual, the special accommodations were perfect. I saw any number of notables, the Princess Murat, the Vicomtesse Foy, and, oh, I almost forgot the best part of all! His majesty King Leopold of Belgium was there. He rode down in his automobile. I confess I had some curiosity to see the sporty old boy who has made himself the laughing stock of all Europe. He is an unprepossessing old man, with watery eyes and, yes, a somewhat red nose. If he were not a king, no one would look at him twice. I hear that he has placed his wealth and royal dignity at the feet of Anna Robinson, a little Yankee danseuse. Well, tomorrow it will be some one else.

BEATRICE CHAPMAN.

No Right To Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at B. R. Wilson & Son's drug store.

No one should ever express an opinion about another unless he is willing to put his name to it.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with lame back or pains in the side or chest, give it a trial and you are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm also cures rheumatism. One application gives relief. For sale by Wilson & Son.

"Mamma," asked a little boy, as their carriage passed the cemetery, "how long after they are buried before the tombstone comes up."

How to Cure Croup.

Mr. R. Gray, who lives near Amentia, Duchess county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the cough remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by Wilson & Son.

Money honestly made and honestly spent is as nearly the root of physical comfort as money dishonestly made and dishonestly spent is the root of evil.

When the stomach is tired out it must have a rest; but we cannot live without food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure "digests what you eat," so that you can eat all the good food you want, while restoring the digestive organs to health. It is the only preparation that digests all kinds of food. Wilson & Son.

A man whose judgments are generous must have a certain generosity of nature. A man who finds the world full of mean people is himself a mean soul.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever that ran into pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all throat and lung trouble. Regular sizes, 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at B. R. Wilson & Son's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.
