STAGE GLINTS.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sothern will spend their summer vacation in Europe.

It is again rumored that Robson and Crane will star next season in "The Henrietta."

James T. Powers and his wife, Rachel Booth, are formulating plans to star together next season in a new musical play.

Jerome K. Jerome is now working upon a new comedy, on order of Manager Charles Frohman, for Annie Russell next season.

Victorien Sardou contemplates a historical drama based on a sensational poisoning case in France during the reign of Louis XIV, when Mme. de Montespan dominated.

Gossip has it that Bertha Galland, now the Hackett leading woman, will replace Mary Manning as the Daniel Frohman leading woman when Miss Manning goes a-starring.

Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss of London are to play three years in this country under the Frohman management. He hopes to extend this to five years more. "My Daughter-in-law" is their play this season.

It is rumored that Mrs. Clara Bloodgood of the Annie Russell company, who came into the profession two or three years ago from the ranks of New York's Four Hundred, is meditating a return to society circles.

David Warfield, whom David Belasco proposes to take under his supervision as a stellar probability, was 12 years ago an usher in the Bush Street theater, San Francisco. His first New York engagement was for a Hebrew impersonation; salary, $8.

A Hint.
"Did you see that story about the man who got a needle in his arm while trying to kiss a girl?" he asked. "No," she replied, and then she added fervently, "but, thank heaven, I never learned to sew!"—Chicago Post.

The late Dr. Campbell Black of Glasgow, eminent as a physician and clinical lecturer, was fond of saying that "medicine is no more an exact science than millinery."

THE DRESSY WOMAN.

Parisian designers and attolers are making attempts to revive empire styles on both day and evening gowns.

White and tinted chiffon in the form of various kinds of flowers, some with jeweled centers, will be used on dress hats and bonnets next season.

One of the newest forms of the bolero jacket appears to have no fastening at all, but is hooked invisibly under the fronts, toward the side seams.

Watteon styles, pinnars, elbow sleeves and shortened skirts are enumerated among fashions that are to prevail before the summer season of 1900 is over.

Many of the newest French walking or "costume" jackets of soft fawn, antelope, nun's gray or biscuit color have revers and turndown collar of richly colored velvet.

The improvement in the manufacture of crape has rendered it rainproof, and their new finish protects many other black materials from the effect of the weather.

Merchants and importers are showing some beautiful weaves in nun's veiling in sheer, silky qualities so transparent that a handsome lining is imperative in making them up.

A fashionable and becoming garniture is black velvet ribbon run through the meshes of lace waists or boleros, with tiny buckles of French brilliants of fine-cut steel fastened where the strands of velvet appear.

There are some new and gracefully shaped dress skirts on gored style for making up narrow width silks, poplins and similar fabrics and French models in circular form so shaped that they will not sag at the sides after the gown has been worn for a time.

This spring will show a revival of a rather narrow brimmed French turban made of silk and plain or panne velvet, and there will also be set forth a new English walking hat with sides turned up very high and pressed somewhat closer to the crown than has been common in recent models.—New York Post.
