

Caveman Makes Off With a Widow in Her Nightie

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—It was "Tarzan" night in Sterling street, Brooklyn. The fires of caveman love were burning in a forty-five-year-old heart. Mrs. Helen C. Waterman, twenty-five, a widow, was clad in the silken folds of a nightgown. A face peered in the window and a big fist crashed through the glass. So said Mrs. Waterman to the police.

The midnight bells were ringing as the more or less young Lochinvar went into the west—window. Posing in the titular role of "Tarzan" was John E. Carey. When he got to the jail he was charged with abduction, burglary and attack. Miss Marie Gaffney of Brooklyn testified:

"Shortly after midnight Mrs. Waterman was in her nightgown in my house, preparing to retire. This fellow, Jack Carey, put adhesive tape on the glass of the west window and then knocked it in. He is a manufacturer of surgical instruments for the eye, ear, nose and throat. He had one of the instruments with him. He pointed it at Mrs. Waterman and she thought it was a revolver.

"He informed Mrs. Waterman she would have to marry him or he would take her away. He bundled her into a taxicab, and when she asked an innocent bystander for aid, Carey informed the man she was under the influence of liquor."

Miss Gaffney reported the kidnaping to the police. Detective Mulvey, posing as a prospective customer, found Mrs. Waterman a prisoner of Carey, still in nocturnal attire.

"I lent the woman my raincoat and took her and Carey to the Flatbush station," said Mulvey. "She told me Carey had threatened that if she did not marry him he would keep her in seclusion."

Carey, arraigned before Magistrate Folwell, was held in $8,500 bail.

Couldn't Fool this Kid

Johnny paid his visit to a farm the other day. All his life he had lived in the heart of a great city, and when suddenly came in sight of a haystack he stopped and gazed earnestly at what appealed to him as a new brand of architecture.

"Say, Mr. Smith," he remarked to the farmer, pointing to the haystack, "why don't they have doors and windows in it?"

"Doors and windows!" smiled the farmer. "That ain't a house, Johnny, that's hay."

"Don't try to josh me, Mr. Smith!" was the scornful rejoinder. "Don't you suppose I know that hay don't grow in lumps like that?"—Minneapolis Tribune.

"You didn't park within four inches of the curb," thundered the police official.

"It's a new car," explained Mr. Chuggins, humbly; "and the dealers didn't put a tape measure in the outfit."—Washington Star.

What Sadler's Automatic Support will DO—

IT elevates all four wheels at once by momentum. You drive the car on to it—no expert driving required—no car too large or heavy—the device does the rest. To get the car back to traction all you have to do is to raise a small level and the car slides back to the floor. Any one can do it. When the car is not in service keep the weight off the tires—prolong their life and usefulness.

Think of the advantages in keeping all four wheels off the floor. Think of the opportunity for inspection of tires which may have picked up tacks, glass or other things which could injure them; the easy access for adjustment of brakes, inspection of wheel bearings, the running of the engine with clutch in contact, shifting gears, and other operations. Makes washing, cleaning, oiling or painting the car easier. The Support is not fastened to the floor of the garage, but can be moved to any place desired. Takes all strain off of wire wheels, the wheels being up all the time. Helps those machines that start easier when the rear wheels are off the floor.

All the leading tire manufacturers of the United States advise taking the weight off the tires as much as possible. This can be done without any effort on the part of the operator of the automobile by using Sadler's Automatic Support, which is operated entirely by the power and momentum of the automobile from the driver's seat, and is adjustable to different types of cars. Any Person who can safely drive their car into the garage can use this device.

Did you ever keep a record of the time your car stands in the garage—all weight on the tires? Save your tires—the cost of one caging is more than the price of a Support, which will last many years.

Adding or eliminating chains from tires becomes easy and convenient.

Use Sadler's Automatic Support—it does the work in a minute!

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford truck is just another arm and hand to the business man, adding through its manifold usefulness to the possible volume of his business, and at the same time doubling the value of every hour. In so many ways its all round utility serves the urgent demands of business—big and little—the retailer and wholesaler, the manufacturer and consumer, the contractor and farmer. Everywhere where business exists there is a present want for Ford trucks. Consider the price $550, without body, f. o. b. Detroit. Let's talk it over with you.
