A Tucson man was arrested for running a saloon without a license. The recorder found him guilty and fined him $25. He appealed the case to the district court, gave bonds and reopened his saloon. He was arrested on the same charge the next day and the next day it is said he will be daily arrested till the case is settled, when should it result in favor of the city he will have to pay an aggregate of fines large enough to maintain the city government the rest of the year, or spend the rest of his natural life in the calaboose. His defense is that he applied for and was refused a license and the city makes the cross statement that the license was not granted on the ground of his place being a public nuisance. -Phoenix Herald.

A CATTLEMAN'S VIEW.

Sales Will be Made This Year at the Prices of Last Year.

George W. Atkinson of Calabasas is a cattlemen who believes that the prices of cattle will rule as high this year as last although the tendency among buyers at the present time is to discourage this because according to their claims they did not make anything in the last year's operations.

"This is an absurd statement," says Mr. Atkinson to a Citizen reporter. "The men who bought Arizona cattle last year were principally owners of large ranches in the north and they confined their purchases to yearlings principally which they took north to feed. They did not buy with the expectation of immediate realization, and as they have not sold this stock up to this time I cannot see how they have lost anything unless it be by the ravages of storms or disease."

Mr. Atkinson says that the cattle interests of this portion of Arizona were never in better condition. "The range," he said, "are not stocked as heavily as they were a few years ago and cattlemen are not forced to sell until they find an agreeable market price. We look at the situation in this way: The price of beef is higher today in Tucson than it has been for fourteen years. This same condition prevails throughout the country. It is higher than it was a year ago when we were getting the prices for our stock which we ask again this year. The country, as far as I can see, is at the mercy of a combination of cattle dealers who are holding up the price of beef and trying to reduce the purchase price of cattle. As far as the stockmen of southern Arizona are concerned, this trust will have little effect upon them. They are in position to hold their cattle for higher prices than are now offered and they will do so. I look for a great many sales this year for I believe that the cattlemen are going to get the prices they ask." -Citizen.

AN AINSWORTH KILLED.

The Brother of the Attorney General Murdered by Outlaws.

Attorney General Ainsworth received a telegram into yesterday afternoon from Sheriff Scott White at Tombstone, informing him of the killing of his brother, Chester Ainsworth, in the Chiricahua mountains by the Haldermans, a couple of brothers engaged in horse stealing and who were being pursued by the murdered man. Another telegram was received from W. D. Monmonier at Pierce, saying that it was reported there that C. L. Ainsworth had been shot and killed on Thursday night by the Halderman brothers and that everything possible was being done to capture the murderers.

The killing took place at or near Wilgas, fifty miles south of the Pierce mine.

Still later information was received that the body would be brought to Pierce last night. The attorney general left last night for Pierce with a casket. If the remains can be embalmed they will be sent to Flint, Mich. for interment.

The murdered man was a younger brother of the attorney general and Chauncy F. Ainsworth. He came to Phoenix about ten years ago and resided here for some time, after which he went to Cochise county and engaged in mining. He was a deputy sheriff of that county and encountered death in the performance of his official duty. He leaves a family at Pearce. -Republican.

Stamps on Bank Checks.

The internal revenue law concerning the war tax continues to bring forth all sorts of appeals and decisions regarding revenue stamps. Collector Morrison at Santa Fe has received a decision from the treasury department upon a question upon which he recently gave an opinion at variance with that of Revenue Collector Ewmer, of New Orleans. M. P. Freeman, president of the Consolidated National bank at Tucson, had referred to Mr. Morrison a letter from Col. Sower, in which the latter had decided that checks drawn by a depositor in such a manner as to make them non negotiable when presented to a bank in person do not need a revenue stamp. This ruling was quoted in the papers all over the United States. Col. Morrison, on the other hand, ruled that such checks, or any other kind of a check or document must have a revenue stamp.

The communication received from Washington, D. C., upholds Mr. Morrison's ruling, and at the same time states that Col. Sower, in a letter to the treasury department, states that he had been in error. -Tucson Citizen.
