Miami Copper company established a new low cost of production in March, when it laid its copper down in the New York market at an average of 8.6 cents a pound. This is a decrease of 2 cents a pound from the 1913 average cost of 10.6 cents.

Under the recent opinion given by Attorney General Bullard, declaring the legal right of boards of supervisors to grant contracts for road work, the supervisors let the contract to Bane & Tarrant for the paving of the road from Bisbee to Warren at $1.95 per yard.—Review.

Many deaths among the Indians of the Colorado River reservation the last 10 days. Some assert the death rate for the past week or more has averaged one each day. If the government does not soon get busy and provide proper sanitary homes for the local Indians they will soon become extinct, according to the death rate of the past few months.—Parker Post.

Since the 24th of April over 10,000 head of cattle have been shipped out of Sonora through the port of Nogales, mostly to points in California. Lately the Alamo Cattle company sold 200 Mexican cows to Charles Goedka of Kansas City for $40 per head f. o. b. Nogales, Arizona. A large number of the cattle are in good order and are shipped through in cars. It is expected that more than the above number will be shipped out within the next week.

Two hundred and seventy men distributed in 10 camps, are rushing El Campo Real, which is the Borderland route from Santa Fe to El Paso, to completion, this means that the road from Raton to El Paso will be completed and in good condition for the exposition year, the 10 camps are at Watrous, near Las Vegas, Glorieta, near Albuquerque, Isleta, Socorro, San Marcial, Nogal and Seldon, of the above force 150 men are paid labor, the rest being convicts.—Prospector.

Percy V. Coldwell, superintendent of the Pioneers Home, has brought a second suit against the Journal Miner Publishing Company. In the first suit he asked for $20,000 damages. Being non-suited in this case, he instituted the second suit and asks for $30,000 damages, alleging that he has received additional damages through the publication of what was alleged to be an account of the investigation proceedings held recently before J. C. Callahan, member of the Board of Control.—Prescott Courier.

On Monday of this week the management of the Florence Hotel passed out of the hands of L. K. Drais and to those of R. B. George, who has purchased the furniture and taken a lease on the hotel property for a term of years. Mr. George is a well-known hotel man, who until quite recently was in the hotel business in Phoenix, and it is predicted that he will put the Florence Hotel in the front ranks of hostleries along the Borderland route, a place where the traveler will be glad to stop for a good meal and a night's rest.—Blade.

The Globe district is in the midst of the cattle shipping season and many prominent ranchers and cattlemen are in the city attending to preliminaries to shipping. Wednesday John Griffin loaded 800 head out of Cutter, the consignment going to Pueblo, Colo., to the Harley and Talbot company and the Pueblo Live Stock Commission company. John McCarty represented the Colorado company. One of the largest shipments reported in this district was made from Radium Wednesday, 1200 head being sent by Armer Brothers of Livingston, E. H. Cooper of Roosevelt, and Harry Shute of Roosevelt.

PERSONALITY OF PRINTERS.

Have you ever considered the personality of printers? Do you know anything about printers? If you don't know anything about this most useful body of men, the loss is a distinct one to you. We've known and numbered among our friends for many years members of this craft of crafts. We have been proud of that friendship and honored by it. The printer, is the brightest, most capable, most intellectually up-to-date man in the social body. The lawyer may be learned in the law, the doctor may stand high in his profession, the minister may be a very walking encyclopedia of theological lore, the merchant may be keen and alert at his business, but few of them enjoy the broad general education of the average printer; and fewer of them can touch him in the matter of essential English composition.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat some time ago published a news item, the substance of which was to the effect that among the 1500 inmates in Joliet prison there is not one printer. We have often seen it stated that this is generally true of all places of penal servitude. Why is this so? We do not know, unless it is because the printer sees every day the story of crime and the inevitable failure of the criminal. He becomes so familiar with the seamy side of the fabric of life that he instinctively avoids connection with the weavers of the threads of crime. We can't explain it any other way. He is a man, with all a man's passions, hopes, dreams; but he is seldom a criminal.

We all remember the old type printer, the man who lorded it before the days of the linotype. He usually owned the office. He was not insolent. He was self-confident. He knew that he could do the work; and what a mass of varied work he used to do! If the editor happened to be "indisposed," that fact did not disconcert the printer—he got out the paper. He wrote ads. He set the type, made up the forms, and ran the edition off, perhaps put out the mail.

Sometimes it chanced that the printer, being human, became disgusted, got a fit of the blues—no matter what the excuse—and went on a tear. Those old-time printers were great tearers. Then the editor was in trouble for sure. The spree might last many days; usually it lasted as long as the money held out; then a few days in which to recuperate, and our printer was back on the job.

During these lapses our printer was a wonder to the average mediocre citizen. Pity the man who tackled him for an argument or a discussion! Our printer always was loaded. He's loaded yet. He's just about the smartest man we know. He may be a trifle cynical, but who shall blame him? It's a rare editor who is not afflicted with the same complaint. The printer sees daily the story of human life, which, in its essentials, is eternally the same. He discovers its pittingness; he learns and records its achievements; but he is a clear-brained pessimist. You've got to show him; and it isn't very often that you can show him anything. He is a manipulator of the keys of being as well as the manipulator of the keys of his machine or the types in the cases.

The printer is honest; he is independent; sometimes he is sassy; but he is able to back it up. He not only knows his p's and q's, but all the rest of the alphabet; yea, he knows it from Alpha to Omega, or from Beer-sheba unto Dan—or damn, if you prefer it that way. Anyhow, he knows what he knows, and we like him. If the world only knew all that the printer knows about the world it is likely the world would not embarrass him with caresses.—Dayton (Ohio) Herald.

"SEE ARIZONA FIRST."

Arizona's Wonderful Scenic and Health Resorts Unequaled.

In a short time it will be in order for those who can afford the luxury to take a summer trip. Thousands will leave Arizona, hundreds of that number will be from Cochise county. Hundreds will go to California and spend thousands of dollars which they better keep in this state if they have its welfare at heart. There is just as beautiful scenery in Arizona as anywhere in the United States. Arizona has points of interest that surpass anything in California, and some of which are not equaled in the world. For instance, the marvelous Grand Canyon of the Colorado or the petrified forests. As for mountains, nowhere can you surpass the grandeur of the lofty Huachuacas, which are studied by beauty spots, masterpieces of the work of Nature. The grand Huachuacas offer every accommodation for camping parties or hotel outing parties.

The Chiricahua mountains are simply bewitching, but lack the hotel accommodations of the Huachuacas. There are the various health springs of the state for instance, the Indian Hot Springs at Fort Thomas, and others. There is the San Xavier Mission, the oldest building in the confines of the Union, and yet how many of our people have not seen the boundless sights in our great state?

The cost of a trip to California would buy an auto, and with the good roads we have and are getting, one can see all of Arizona at a minimum price and certainly do the family more good than a trip to the beaches of California, which are hot, tiresome and anything but restful. There are two excuses for anyone taking a pleasure trip outside of Arizona. The first is "if you have seen all of Arizona," and the other is "where your trip takes you to visit relatives."

When a state has so varified a climate that it can have the warmest and coolest cities in its confines on the same day, of all the cities and towns in the U. S., then no one need leave Arizona to find any climate he desires "Arizona First, the World Afterward," should be the slogan.—Prospector.

Will Raise Big Crops.

The Douglas International says:—According to F. C. Bledsoe, of Hood and Bledsoe, who has just returned from a business trip through the Huachuacas, that section will this season raise the largest fruit crop in its history. The peach trees are loaded with fruit, and apple, pear and other kinds of trees are in the same condition.

The farmers are now preparing for their other crops, such as corn and wheat. The acreage under cultivation in the mountains increases every year as the land is very fertile. The range is in fine condition at present, due to the many early rains, and cattle are fat and healthy.
