Captain Louis Soleliac, of the Albin hotel, headquarters in Guaymas for foreigners who visit the bay city, has been a business visitor in Nogales several days this week. He is very enthusiastic over Guaymas' climate and says he and his associates Messrs. Hughes and Willoughby, sure picked a winner when they leased the big hotel, which is doing a splendid business. Captain Soleliac says the climate and people of Guaymas can't be beat in the world.

Sheriff Earhart and a number of his deputies, last Saturday afternoon, unearthed a big lot of whiskey which had been buried in the sand out on the river, between the Tucson and Patagonia roads. The liquor which has not been claimed, is said to be worth about $2,000, at the prevailing market price. Sheriff Earhart says he knows of another consignment of "fire water" consisting of fifty seven cases, which he will dig up and bring to town, just as soon as he finds the time. Some "booze."

Sheriff Earhart was not "lost, strayed or stolen," in the wilds of the Elgin-Sonoita country last Wednesday, when out rounding up jurors to sit on the boot-leg cases. Tire trouble caused him to do everything but walk, hence the delay in getting back to the court house on schedule time. Sheriff Earhart is too well acquainted in Santa Cruz county to get lost; says he's not afraid of straying, neither is he afraid of being stolen. He brought back with him, Wednesday evening, a bunch of dry farm jurymen.

Last Tuesday night the postoffice at Amadoville was robbed of about two hundred and fifty dollars worth of stamps. The safe in which the stamps were kept, was carried into a corral, where it was broken open and the stamps stolen. Three Americans seen hanging around Amadoville, are suspected. They have not as yet been apprehended. The sheriff's office is on the job. The postoffice was in the store of Shanafelt & Bailey. Worth Shanafelt notified the sheriff's office of the robbery, last Wednesday.

Purdum, Mrs. Hugo Miller, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Kigore, Miss O'Daily, Mrs. B. H. Mobley and Mrs. Benj. Jones.

The following is the jury in the bootlegging case of the State of Arizona vs. G. E. Smith, of Nogales, which after being out all night Thursday, brought in a verdict of guilty: John Jund, capitalist, Nogales; M. L. Kayser, mining man, Nogales; H. Mullins, engineer, Nogales; J. W. McDonald, cattleman, Vaughn district; M. Middleton, assayer, Nogales; J. P. Holmes, mining man, Patagonia; George White, farmer, Sonoita; W. J. Fling, farmer, Elgin; F. E. Dalton, farmer, Elgin; Elmer King, farmer, Elgin; A. C. Dalton, farmer, Elgin; P. Woodward, farmer, Sonoita.

Chief of Police C. L. Fowler, has asked the City Council to permit him to establish a chain gang upon which drug fiends and other undesirables in Nogales will be worked. The prisoners will be chained to a long chain attached to one of the city wagons; they will be supplied with shovels and brooms and made to keep the streets clean. Last Tuesday night eight drug fiends were arrested for begging on the streets. Chief Fowler believes that by making the drug fiends and other undesirables, work for their meals, to will be only a matter of a very short time when the city will be rid of them.

O. F. Ashburn, one of the best known, most successful livestock raisers in the state, was here last Tuesday from his Monkey Springs ranch near Patagonia. He stated that when he completes making needed improvements at his famous hot springs, Santa Cruz county will possess a health resort second to none in the country.

Last Monday night Harold Brown, deputy United States marshal, arrested Victor Manuel on two charges, one of being drunk while driving an automobile, and one of having intoxicating liquor in his possession. Victor was running his car at a high rate of speed when it turned over and injured two passengers, Lieut. Quesberry of the 12th Infantry, and Jose Peters. Victor was not hurt.
