The Spirit of Friendship.

This store looks upon its patrons not merely as customers but as friends. People purchase here because they have friendly feeling for this store.

The cause which develops this friendly feeling, may differ, in fact, they are sure to differ. One's friendship for the store is the result of finding good values; another's is the result of efficient service and courteous treatment, and so on.

Naturally this friendly feeling on the part of our patrons is reciprocated on our part. And this spirit of mutual friendship is an impetus for greater service and an incentive to ever-increasing endeavor to make this store a place where every visitor will feel perfectly at home.

ARIZONA NOTES.

Items of Interest Culled From Our Exchanges.

A serious obstacle to the sale of Maricopa county's $4,000,000 highway bond issue has arisen in the form of objections on the part of attorneys for the bond buyers to accept the bonds by reason of their expressed belief that the bond election, held May 17, last, was not in accordance with the state constitution.

Cochise county ranks second in population in Arizona at the present time, according to an estimate issued by Secretary V. A. Wood of the state tax commission at Phoenix. The Cochise figures are set at 58,219. Maricopa county leads with 84,519. The state population is estimated at 398,952.

Frederic Bechholdt, prominent writer, whose stories of the southwest attract the attention of the millions of readers of the Saturday Evening Post and who was recently a sojourner in Tucson, has returned to his home at Carmel-by-the-sea, on the coast of central California. With him Mr. Bechholdt carried sufficient data of this section of Arizona to produce a two part article, soon to appear in the Post.

During the last few years the Hope Natural Gas Co. and the Peoples Natural Gas Co., both of Pittsburg, Pa., have been drilling deep wells in northern West Virginia and southwestern Pennsylvania to find deeper oil-bearing and gas-bearing sands, their object being to reach, if possible, the horizon of the rich Clinton sand of Ohio, which, according to Dr. I. C. White, the State geologist of West Virginia, should be found in this region at depths between 7,000 and 8,000 feet.

The representation of no Arizona county in the lower house of the legislature will be reduced under the new legislative districting act, according to an opinion recently transmitted by Attorney General Wiley E. Jones to James S. Goodwin of Tempe. Press reports recently published had stated that the counties of Cochise, Graham, Greelee and Yuma would each lose one member in the house of representatives under the operation of the new law. This was denied by Attorney General Jones.

CATTLEMEN ORGANIZE.

Permittees in the Tumacacori district of the Coronada National forest organized at Nogales last Sunday afternoon, and drew the lines taut on their grazing areas and pledged themselves as an organized association, to prevent illegal grazing. Further, they pledged themselves to support the movement in the thirteen states of the west to work for government regulation of all grazing areas of the public domain, says The Arizona Cattleman.

The association was not formed without a long and heated session, wherein the question of grazing at all on the forest tracts trembled in the balance because the government had collected damages for illegal grazing which had resulted in crowding the forage areas and injuring the grass without materially benefitting any of the permittees and disorganizing the entire grazing district.

The meeting was attended by Supervisor Paul P. Pichlynn and his assistant, Mr. Wales, and by all the stockmen of the district.

After everyone had discussed the condition of affairs the stockmen decided to co-operate with the forest service, and the Tumacacori Stockgrowers' Association was organized with Nonie Bernard as president; Arthur Noon as vice president; Harry J. Saxon, secretary and treasurer, and the selection of an advisory board to co-operate with the forest service. This committee consists of Nonie Bernard, Joe Wise, Harry Saxon, Cy. Marsteller and Phil Clark. A constitution and bylaws were adopted and as soon as the permittees in the district are signed up the association will be under way.

After the meeting Supervisor Pichlynn and his assistant, Mr. Wales, were the guests of the stockmen at a broncho busting, bull dogging and roping contest.

UNGRATEFUL AUTOISTS.

Autoists are supposed to be very good-natured individuals, always glad to help some one in distress and genially inclined to give weary pedestrians a "lift" along the way. But either they are becoming hardened to the joys of motoring or there are some who do not live up to their reputation for courtesy, for complaints are some times heard of ungrateful autoists.

One woman, living near a favorite motor thoroughfare, says that she has always until lately been glad to help automobilists who have had difficulties near her home. But she has begun to feel that her kindness is wasted.

A driver came to her house one evening and asked for a pair of pliers. She loaned them readily. The man took them out to his car, repaired the faulty part and drove off with the pliers. Another time an auto party stopped for lack of gasoline. The called upon the woman and asked if she had any. She handed out a large jug containing the necessary "gas." In this case gasoline and jug both followed the way of the pliers. The party drove off without even offering to pay for the material they appropriated.

Another party came into her yard for sticks of wood to help in jacking up their car. She allowed them to take cord wood from a neat pile by her kitchen door. When the repairs were completed the party drove on, leaving the sticks scattered over the roadway.

Perhaps this woman has been unfortunate in her experiences. Nevertheless, these true stories are worth meditating upon. Too many people are inclined to abuse kindness and to accept favors without the gratitude and courtesy which are so easily to give and so pleasant to receive. —Mesa Tribune.

RE-CLASSIFY CATTLE BRANDS.

A monumental task is being carried on in the office of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board according to Secretary Ed. W. Stephens, in the recording of brands all over the state, says the Phoenix Gazette.

The work consists of recording all existing brands with a record of their initial recording, and subsequent transfers. The difficulties attending the procedure lie in the fact that many brands have never been legally transferred with the animals sold, and that the bills of sale in such cases do not include the brand. Precaution must be taken against recording brands so similar that they may be mistaken for each other, and in the case of brands that may easily be changed to look like another.

THE PROSPECTOR.

The prospector is the pioneer who blazes the trail; he is the one who explores and searches for valuable minerals or ores in hitherto unworked and untrod ground, and if his work is not encouraged the production of the precious metals will continue to decline.

True, many of the world's greatest mineral districts were found by pure accident but the work of the prospector developed these discoveries.

When Marshall discovered that gold nugget in the mill race of Suter's sawmill at Coloma, in El Dorado county, Cal., he started the greatest prospecting campaign the world has ever witnessed.

Tonopah was discovered by the straying away of Jim Butler's burro. Divide and its wonderfully rich possibilities was uncovered accidentally by a cross-cut being run for the Gold Mountain vein. —Patagonian.

STATE FAIR PREMIUM LIST.

Containing announcements of a wealth of prize money far exceeding all former offers, the 1919 premium list of the Arizona State Fair to be held at Phoenix November 3 to 8, inclusive, is now ready for distribution by Shirley Christy, secretary of the fair commission. All requests for free copies should be addressed to him, care of the fair commission, at Phoenix.

The premium list covers a wide range of exhibits for which handsome cash prizes have been offered. The competitions are such that no one will be barred from entering some one of the contests for the range is so great as to include every possible line of endeavor from shirt making to the exhibition of thoroughbred live stock.

The booklet also contains all information concerning the method and manner of making entries and the requirements in each of the several classes, together with much general information regarding the fair itself. One cannot help being convinced after a perusal of its contents that the 1919 fair is going to be of surpassing magnitude and replete with interests in every department.

Of especial interest are the prizes to be offered and the exhibits planned for the women's department, with special attention paid to the subject of home economics, science of the kitchen and scientific home making, all of which subjects are regarded as of growing importance by the thrifty housewives of Arizona.

The women's department will be under the direction of Mrs. W. W. McNeff, who urges that no time should be lost by those intending to make entries in securing the premium lists, that they may devote their spare hours during the next 2 months in the making and preparation of their examples of handicraft.

The superintendents of the various departments are announced for the first time in the premium list as follows:

Horses and Mules—W. W. Carney.
Cattle—Carroll Davis.
Dairy—Geo. Lutgerding.
Swine—C. C. Green.

ORE FROM MOWRY.

W. J. Mitchell, superintendent of the Mowry and Consolidated mines at Mowry, states that the former mine will again resume ore shipment as soon as the roads are in better condition. High grade ore from the Olive, one of the claims belonging to the Consolidated company, is being sacked ready for shipment to the smelters.

Conditions are rapidly improving at Mowry, a force of seventy men now being employed at the two leading properties. More miners are expected to be employed at the El Paso soon. A station is now being cut at the 300 foot level on this property, from which point drifting on the vein will begin.

During Superintendent Mitchell's absence on the coast, Grant Lewis was in charge of the two leading Mowry properties. —Patagonian.

OUTLOOK AT MORNING GLORY

From present indications the old Morning Glory mine is about to come into its own again. In the face of the 700 foot tunnel, at a depth of 300 feet from the surface, the showing all but proves the existence of a large body of rich copper ore, which will no doubt be uncovered within the next few days. Samples of rock carrying boronite and calcocite were brought in from the mine during the week, and as work progresses more of this ore, apparently carrying better values, is being found.

Under the competent management of J. C. Miller, the reorganized Morning Glory Mining company some time ago began an intelligent campaign of development on this well known mine and those who are familiar with the property predict that the present work being done must of necessity result in once more placing the old mine on the list of regular producers.

C. B. Wilson is the owner of the property in question, which is being worked under bond and lease by the Morning Glory Mining company, a corporation financed by Eastern capital. —Patagonian.
