We were wrong in the statement that the public school exercises would occur tomorrow evening. They take place during the day, but the word "evening" comes so natural in such a place that it was accidentally so written.

D. J. MacDONALD, Agent.

Felix Martinez returned from his trip to the Chicago convention last night, glad to be again back in sunny New Mexico. He reports a good time while away, but the climate of Chicago he pronounces the worst he ever saw. Mr. Martinez says it was agreed by the Arizona and New Mexico delegates not to commit themselves, but if they saw a chance to score a point to do so. As they were at the bottom of the roll call they thought they would likely be able to decide the nomination of Cleveland if it should be very close, and agreed to vote together, but one Arizona delegate and two from New Mexico flew the track. When it came the turn for Arizona to vote there were 598 votes for Cleveland, while it needed 605 to nominate. Arizona gave him 5 and New Mexico 4, two more than enough, and the other territories, which were opposed to him, then voted for him. If he had missed the nomination on the first ballot his chances would have been gone. New Mexico seems to be in it this year, politically, all around.

THE GLOVE CONTEST.

EDITOR FREE PRESS: The fight that was promised last night did not come off, as Johnson backed out, but his place was taken by Charlie Colwell. Jacob Dayton was referee, Arthur Jilson timekeeper for McCoy and Ed Betsy for Colwell. There was a fair attendance. The contest was for $100 and the receipts. The rounds were as follows:

First round—McCoy leads and falls short, countered by Colwell on the mouth; first blood for Colwell. Round ends by sparring, with honors even.

Second round—Opens with sparring, McCoy lands vicious blow under Colwell's heart. This round in McCoy's favor.

Third round—Colwell drops to avoid punishment and keeps repeating all through round.

Fourth round—Opens with same tactics as round three. Near the end of the round they had a lively rally at close quarters, McCoy having the best of it.

Fifth round—Opens with cautious sparring, and Colwell drops to avoid punishment.

Sixth round—Opens with sparring, and McCoy aims a heavy blow at Colwell's jaw, but lands on his shoulder. This round McCoy's.

Seventh round—They got to work at once, and Colwell deals a heavy blow on McCoy's forehead; in a rally at close quarters McCoy gets the best of it. Honors even in this round.

Eighth round—McCoy gets in a clean knockdown and also a heavy blow under the heart. This round for McCoy.

Ninth round—Opens with sparring and both falling on the floor. Anybody's fight at the end of this round.

Tenth and last round—Starts with sparring, McCoy trying to lead Colwell up. Colwell drops on floor to avoid punishment, and McCoy fouls him.

The referee awards fight to Colwell on the foul.

About 6:30 yesterday evening as a couple of Mexicans were driving across the railroad track near the depot, with a wagon load of hay, a caboose attached to a switch engine struck them, smashing the wagon and pushing the men along the rails for 20 feet. If the engine had been going at greater speed the men must certainly have been killed. As it was they were badly shook up and barely escaped with their lives, and are now at Manuel Silva's residence on Grand avenue. The wagon was broken to pieces, but the horses were uninjured. The engine was only going at the rate of four miles an hour, or they would not have got off as easily as they did. Juan and Santiago Sandoval are the names of the parties.
