West a fraternal visit, and inspecting his new cannery, which is one of the most perfectly appointed factories on the coast. They were delighted with the visit, and their report of it has whetted our appetite for a similar excursion. The filling machines, crimpers, etc., and the engines that drive them, are all made on the place, and are very great improvements over any others in use.
 —Private dispatches were received Sunday morning bearing the sad announcement to friends of Mr. John Fox that his beloved wife was dead. The mournful news struck very near to many hearts, so dear to some and so greatly esteemed by all was the deceased. Mr. Fox received a dispatch Friday which conveyed the intelligence that Mrs. Fox was sinking, and he left work, business, everything, and hastened to her bedside, arriving Saturday evening, only a little time before her death. What grief, what bereavement; what great sympathy due to our brother and fellow citizen, bereft as he is of one of the greatest blessings of God, a loving wife, a true and tender hearted mother. The two beautiful children orphaned, the father and husband broken in spirit, calls for our deepest sympathies.

Singular Coincidence.
 A Chicago dispatch of the 4th, published in the press reports of that date, contains the following:
 Yesterday afternoon a thunderbolt killed Henry Weiman, his wife and a horse; they were driving home near Des Plaines under the shelter of an umbrella. When found both were sitting upright in the buggy. Mrs. Weiman's dress had taken fire and burned nearly off. No marks were discovered.
 This was the father and mother of our fellow townsman, Mr. N. Weiman, proprietor of the Chicago house, who is bowed in grief at the tragedy. But the singular part of the matter is in the fact that, as near as can be calculated, about the same hour Mr. Weiman here in Astoria, while walking along the street, without any apparent cause, fell upon the side walk and broke two of his ribs. He is confined to his room, and the news of the sudden death of his father and mother, together with pain from his fall, has a very depressing effect upon him, as well as his family.
The New Version.
 The old style used to be that when a gentleman overtook an unprotected lady acquaintance in a rain storm and extending his umbrella over her, he simply asked the pleasure of protecting and escorting her. The new version runs this way. Married or single, it don't make any difference. He says: "May I have the pleasure of acting as your rain-bau." She says: "Certainly my rain-dear!" and taking his arm they walk off together. This is from the authorized edition revised.

 The Albany journal notes the return of Mr. O. P. Thompson to Harrisburg quite restored in health after his visit to Astoria. He speaks in eulogistic terms of the kindness shown him by the good people of Astoria.
 The Walla-walla Statesman thinks there is a "peculiar feature" about the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's depot platforms. The passenger platforms are on a level with the ground, within easy step of the car steps while the freight platform is on a height with the freight cars. It also describes a cattle guard new to it: "consisting of triangular pieces of timber set up edge ways across the track at an even light with the rails or about four inches high"—and sagely remarks that: "It is said that stock will not step over such a guard."
 Now Frank, don't "give yourself away" in such manner any more.
An Unwashed Hair Dressing.
 Produced as rich and cleanly appearance as if nature alone had imparted it, Burnett's Cocaine is the best and cheapest hair dressing—kills dandruff, allays irritation, and promotes a vigorous and healthy growth of the hair. No other compound produces these results.
 The superiority of Burnett's flavoring extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market.

 The proprietors of Kendall's Spavin Cure challenge the whole world to produce its equal as a cure for rheumatism or any other deep seated pain. It stands without a rival.
