

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON:

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1883

Kentucky Jubilee singers to-night.

The Miles leaves for Gray's harbor to-morrow.

J. G. Ross gives notice concerning the price of board.

The Oregon is due this morning with 128 cabin passengers on board.

Bozorth & Johns are in the real estate business and advertise the fact.

Robt. Hamilton, clerk school district No. 9, gives notice of school meeting.

The Shubrick went to Tillamook yesterday to put down buoys in the bay, and returned.

A post of G. A. R., and another lodge of K. of P., are among the probabilities in the matter of Astoria societies.

The coal bunker on the O. R. & N. Co.'s dock is finished; the Walls Walla which came down yesterday afternoon will discharge 300 tons of coal to-day and then proceed out.

The steamer Idaho came down yesterday loaded to the guards. She put off a little, took on some lumber at Kinney's dock for the Cape Fox canning company, southern Alaska, and started north.

It is rumored that the Chelalis Fidelity has suspended. We sincerely hope not. It is a first rate newspaper and is doing good work for the locality where it is printed. Stick to it boys; success eventually awaits you.

In the police court yesterday, one party who had been drunk, was fined $2; another for being disorderly fined $20; another for resisting Judge Winton at the time of his arrest was fined $10; a fourth for committing an indecent act was fined $100.

C. A. Reed, of Pacific county is in the city. He says the report concerning small pox in that county is incorrect. It was feared last week that it had broken out on the Willapa, but happily the statement was groundless.

There is a resident here whose wife has presented him with nine boys and he wants to know if the government doesn't give a medal for such praiseworthy action. He says that in his country a woman that has nine sons gets a medal from the government. She certainly deserves it.

L. A. Loomis, president of the Shoalwater Bay Transportation company is in the city. He has been up through the Chelalis country and says that times are lively over there and that land is in demand. We are glad to hear that our neighbors to the north are sharing in the common prosperity.

The A. B. Field, Messrs. Leinenweber & Brown's new steamer, started yesterday morning on her initial trip to Tillamook. She crossed out at nine o'clock with a full freight and passenger list. This is the beginning of another line of coastwise steamers that will bring Astoria the trade of a valuable country, and thus be of mutual benefit to all.

Cruise of the Corwin.

The revenue cutter Corwin, Capt. Healy commander, is now in San Francisco fitting up for a long voyage to the frozen north. It is the intention to start about May 1st, and steer for the northeast Siberian coast, where the Indians who assisted the crew of the Rogers are to be rewarded by sundry presents. From there the vessel proceeds to Attoo, in the eastern hemisphere, the farthest east or west of the American possessions, and any stray whaler in need of relief or sealing vessel driven off by stress of weather, will be succored. The trip will last five months.

Oregon Short Line.

According to the Salt Lake Tribune of March 15th the Oregon Short Line is shipping great numbers of men and teams to the front, to work on the grade, haul ties, lay track, etc. The company are in earnest about completing the road this season to the Oregon line, and forming a connection with the Oregon Navigation and Railway company's line, thus giving them a through route to the Pacific. Materials for the road are fully provided for, we understand, and much of the grade west of Shoshone has been completed. Graders are stationed along the line for a distance of over 100 miles, over part of which work progressed all last winter. The company expect to put through trains on the road from Granger west within the next two or three weeks. At present the Montana and Idaho travel passes through Ogden instead of diverting from the Union Pacific at Granger, as will be the case when the road is once fully open to passenger travel.

Fishermen's Boatlocks by the hundreds, low down, at Carl Adler's. Special reduction to cannerymen.

Cannerymen will do well to examine Carl Adler's full stock of books and stationery. Every thing you need you will find there at lowest prices.

Items-Local and Otherwise.

One of the most important elements of success among the many necessary ingredients that go to make up a well regulated print shop, is a local reporter; a personage whose business it is to present in truthful English an unbiased, impartial account of everyday transactions in the city. His methods of getting news are very plain and devoid of all mystery. They are in accordance with the good old way that has descended to us from time immemorial, and consist simply of looking around, "taking notice," asking questions and listening to the answers. This matter of news is purely a relative one. To some it is news that a hod carrier tumbled down and broke his pipe in New York, yesterday, or that a bank cashier was caught playing faro in Chicago; to others it is news to know what is going on nearer home; the simple sending of a lot of truck over a telegraph wire and making a paper a sort of waste basket for everything however trivial to be dumped into it, doesn't make news of the contents. It simply brings the gentle or ferocious reader into a breakfast contact with all manner of horrors and lends unhealthy condiment to his morning meal. The events of his own immediate neighborhood, what was done in town, and what is going to be done, the actions and transactions of those whom he daily meets, these constitute that of which the local reporter deems it his duty to write, and happy is it for him if he possesses discretion to keep from violating private life or wounding propriety by sacrificing that sanctity of personality which every one holds dear. Some people seem to think that the fact of seeing a statement in a newspaper is sufficient evidence that it is so; "it must be so, for I saw it in the paper." Others take the very opposite ground, and think that the fact of seeing a statement in a public journal furnishes prima facie grounds for disbelief. The truth, the golden mean, lies between. It is to the direct interest of a newspaper to tell the truth, simply as a matter of business policy if through no higher motive; and any one who supposes that every little yarn and rumor is caught up and put in type is several degrees from the facts. Every statement made in a newspaper, if avowedly given as news, is in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, carefully verified and confirmed before publication. From the time the news first comes to the ear of the local editor it undergoes a greater crucial test before being "written up" than any it can possibly be given by the most critical reader. Let him be told that such a man caught so many salmon, the night before, the first thing is (though to many it would seem trivial) to see the man himself; if this is not practicable to get the story told him by some one else and see how the two agree. Should a third confirm the tale without previous understanding, it is strong presumption, that the statement will be written up from that. We have personally known of cases where the reporter interviewed seven different individuals relative to an occurrence and got seven versions of the affair and each one was sure that he was right. All this is, of course trouble, but it pays the careful collector of news in as much as his statements if conscientiously written are rarely contradicted. Of course there are those who find fault and say "it isn't so; I know different," but that is their prerogative. They'd grumble if it rained or blew, or was hot, or was cold, or neither, or both. The point we wish to make is that it is manifestly to the interest of the reporter to get a thing right, to have a correct version of whatever it is he is trying to tell and it might sometimes be just as well for those who live in large cities to give him credit for a certain amount of good intent in that regard. It is surprising how one may be mistaken, and yet be positive that he is right. Three years ago we were walking down the main street of a pleasant California town with two other men, all being newspaper reporters, when the sound of fire-arms was heard, and on turning the corner we found a man prostrate and saw his assailant skipping nimbly toward refuge. One of us said he heard only one shot, a moment before, another knew positively that he had heard two, while the other was as certain as a man could be that he heard three. Here were three persons supposedly of average intelligence, who had been placed on the witness stand would have sworn each contrary to what the others did, and about something that they were almost eye witnesses of. It illustrates what may be styled "the personal equation," and exemplifies that everyone—even a critic—is liable once (or maybe twice) in his life to be mistaken.

"NOW WELL AND STRONG."

SHIPMAN, Illinois. Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I wish to state that my daughter, aged 18, was pronounced incurable and was fast failing as the doctors thought, with consumption. I obtained a half dozen bottles of your "Golden Medical Discovery" for her and she commenced improving at once, and is now well and strong. Very truly yours, REV. ISAAC N. AUGUSTIN. "Discovery" sold by druggists.

Success.

The sale of Syrup of Figs is simply immense. Everyone is taking it, and all admit that it is the best medicine ever used. Children cry for it on account of its pleasant taste, and grown up people who have used it once never take anything else. Unlike other remedies for biliousness and constipation it never loses its power to act, and it always leaves the organs on which it acts stronger than before. Besides one feels fresh and bright and realizes that it is Nature's own true laxative. W. E. Dement & Co., are agents for Astoria. Hodge Davis & Co., Wholesale Agents, Portland Oregon.

—Now Jeff of the Variety Chop House starts with a new scale of prices. One kind of meat, fish or eggs with side dishes, bread, butter, hot cakes, pie, tea, coffee, &c., 25 cents. Anything extra will be charged for. Served by the week $5 in advance. R. L. JEFFERY, Proprietor.

—When your wife's health is bad and your baby keeps you awake, go and buy one of those handsome willow-body carriages for a mere song, at Carl Adler's.

—All the patent medicines advertised in this paper, together with the choicest perfumery, and toilet articles, etc., can be bought at the lowest prices, at J. W. Conn's drug store, opposite Occident hotel, Astoria.

—Jeff's enterprising proprietor of the Variety Chop House, is doing a rushing business. He has just completed the best ice house north of San Francisco, and intends selling ice and ice cream as soon as his apparatus arrives from Chicago.

More universally recommended than any proprietary medicine made. A sure and reliable tonic, Brown's Iron Bitters.

Before you are got sick and be an invalid, use OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER.

—Averill's mixed paints, the best in use, for sale at J. W. Conn's drug store, opposite Occident Hotel.
