

The Daily Astorian.

ASTORIA, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1885

The Peri, Gen. Fairchild and City of Benares go to sea to-day.

The A. B. Field arrived in from Tillamook yesterday afternoon.

River captains report very heavy fogs on the Willamette and upper Columbia.

E. C. Holden advertises the Roscoe restaurant and fixtures for sale on the 30th inst.

The Willamette crossed over yesterday. The State is due this morning; the Columbia sails.

The assignee's sale of the estate of F. B. Ellerson will be at B. S. Worley's at two this afternoon.

Sweet cider, pumpkins, clams, ducks, crawfish and herring are among the present varieties in the market.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new Episcopal church. It is thought it will be ready for occupancy by the latter part of next month.

The British bark Santiago, 1,150, coal laden, from Sydney, is outside with pilot on board. She is consigned to Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

Mr. Noltner is probably sorry now that he let Fithian run all that smut in his paper last fall. That kind of work don't pay in any sense of the word.

The new pilot schooner was down to Ft. Stevens and back yesterday afternoon, but the absence of any breeze made it impossible to test her sailing qualities.

The Walla Walla Union says that that city "is overrun with hard cases, many of whom would not stop at murder if they thought there was any money in it."

Smokers who buy their cigars at J. W. Bottom's Virginia cigar and tobacco store return again and again. His cigars sell themselves, and no wonder, they are prime.

It is reported in Seattle that the Chinese consul at San Francisco has applied for troops to be sent to the defense of his countrymen at Tacoma. The report lacks confirmation.

Patrick Healey, aged fifty, committed suicide in Portland by taking poison, last Monday. He had been a wealthy man formerly, but met with financial reverses and became disheartened.

The Staghound hence for Queens-town March 19th, recently reported foundered and all hands lost off Cape Horn, was insured in the London and Provincial Insurance company for $38,792.

The freeze out game is the best one to practice with Chinamen. By declining to give them employment as much and far as possible they can be made go, and in no other way as matters are at present.

Business of all kinds is reported looking up and money is plentier than it was two months ago. There are not as many idle men in Astoria as at the close of the fishing season. Any place that a Chinaman can be crowded out and a white man or woman put in his place is a direct benefit to the community.

The agent for James Pyle & Sons of New York, arrived yesterday from Portland, to distribute to the housekeepers of Astoria samples of Pyle's Pearlina, a washing compound. The popularity of the article warrants a fair trial, especially in these times when washing becomes a question brought home to every housekeeper.

The city editor of the Oregonian who, unfortunately has no eye for the beautiful, thinks St. Helens looks its finest in midwinter; that at that season its splendor surpasses the present purple pomp of nature's pagantry. But what else can be expected from a man who evinces his utter lack of appreciation in asserting that Hood is a finer mountain peak than St. Helens.

Col. Geo. H. Mendell, Capt. Chas. F. Powell, of the U. S. engineer corps inspected the government works at the bar yesterday. A delegation from the chamber of commerce and other prominent citizens of Astoria went down on the Gen. Canby in the afternoon to note the progress of the work. The entire party returned at 6:30 p. m., all expressing themselves well pleased with the progress of the work.

There is a steady quiet movement on foot all over the coast to get rid of the Chinese. Every well meaning man can aid in this. But those who talk "agitation," who chew soap and froth at the mouth and want to start violent measures are the very worst enemies to this steady quiet effort that is being made to get rid of the Chinese. Some of these blow-hards never did an honest day's work in their lives and the work they are trying to do is not honest now.

Professor Roby, of the Portland high school has been appointed postmaster of that city. He went to school with Mr. Vilas, the postmaster-general; hence the appointment. Tony Noltner worked and toiled for the Democracy of Oregon for the best part of his life and gets—soup, reward, and though he has the consciousness of fulfilled duty, yet something more tangible was no more than his due.

Another Whitehall boat race has been arranged between Brown & McCabe's Harry Bingham and Hugh McCormick's Pride of the Columbia for $100 a side. Fifty dollars forfeit was put up yesterday. The race is to be over the same course sailed last Friday, no restriction as to crew, sails or time, the boat crossing the line first winning the money. The only stipulation is that the breeze shall be blowing eighteen miles an hour at the start of the race. Whenever Mr. Louis Wilson announces an eighteen mile breeze the race takes place.

LAST EVENING'S PERFORMANCE.

The comic operetta of "Penelope; or the Milkman's bride," was given in excellent style at Liberty Hall last evening. The character of Penelope, the servant girl whose unfortunate mistake in the little matter of the pepper box results so annoying, was personated by Miss Katie Flavel whose clear soprano voice was never heard to better advantage. Miss Flavel has had the advantage of thorough musical training by some of the ablest masters, and this coupled with the extraordinary beauty of her voice makes her vocal efforts a continual charm to the audience. Her rendition of the horn song where she imitates the echo thin and clear of the notes of a huntsman's horn elicited the most enthusiastic applause.

The part of Mrs. Croaker, whose untimely return so completely spoiled poor Penelope's plans, was ably sustained by Mrs. F. E. Stokes who entered into the spirit of the character with the genius of a true artist. Her several songs were rendered in her most brilliant style, her fine voice showing to special advantage in the prolonged melody where she turns the hapless Penelope out of doors. Tossler, the stately grenadier, as personated by W. H. Barker was the source of immense amusement as was his pompous but funny partner in the police force, the blighted Piteher. Not the least of the fun was the contrast produced by the strains they sang and the words set to the music. Here was Tossler apparently singing "Then you'll remember me," but in reality telling what fine dinners he used to have and how hungry he was now, and Piteher who while singing the gem of Plotow's Martha, M'pappi, was telling of the troubles of a hungry stomach. Chalks, the milkman was personated by W. T. Brunker who didn't appear to be very well up in his part, but sang and acted to the general satisfaction of his audience. Miss Nellie Flavel was the pianist of the evening and played the merry music with precision and effect. The hall was well filled and the entertainment was in every way a success.

THE PERIHELION OF SATURN.

This long expected epoch takes place at 7 o'clock this morning. It is twenty-nine and one-half years since the occurrence of a similar event, and during that time, says an eastern paper, Saturn has traveled more than 5,000,000,000 miles, and now looks the sun in the face from a standpoint 100,000,000 miles nearer to the central orb than when fifteen years ago, he passed aphelion, or his most distant point from the sun. Fortunately, at the same time, the earth approaches a point where her small orbit is almost hidden between the sun and Saturn, and profits largely by the proximity. The increased size and clearer radiance bear testimony to the nearer neighborhood of the ring-girdled planet. But it is almost absurd to speak of the nearness of an object whose mean distance from the sun is 881,000,000 miles. We are at sea without a pilot in seeking to comprehend dimensions where a million miles is the measuring unit. We can, however, see results in the beauty and brightness of a planet that fifteen years hence, will shine with a dull, murky light, in striking contrast with his present serene aspect. Astronomers who make Saturnian investigation a specialty will gladly improve the favorable conditions. It will not be unexpected if they find out whether the dark spaces between the rings are merely shadings in or between the myriad satellites that make them up, or even if a ninth moon should be discovered and faintly gleaming among its brethren.

Nearly a generation of those who now tread the earth will sleep peacefully in its bosom while this wonder of the skies traverses the vast path that forms his circuit round the sun. A generation of men lives and dies in one Saturnian year! Well may it be said that the study of astronomy promotes humility, teaching us no other science can the insignificance of humanity. For what is our earth with her one moon, her one planet, the peerless Saturn, with his complex array of rings, moons and belts? The earth, however, has reached her perfection of development, while the primeval fires of Saturn still burn. When animate life reigns on this superb planet the earth will be a dead world cooled down to the condition of our satellite, where life and moisture are unknown. Mars and Mercury will probably succumb to the law of inevitable decay before the earth dies, on account of their smaller dimensions. Venus, keeping pace more nearly with her twin sister, the four giant planets will then rejoice in their turn in the perfection of physical development, and take the places in the material scale now occupied by their more insignificant brethren. But millions of years will be required to effect those changes, and meanwhile the inhabitants of this little planet can do nothing but behold the process of world making on the larger planets, while they wait patiently for what is to come.

Welcome Departures.

Council Bee has just completed the compilation of statistics showing the number of arrivals and departures of Chinese from this port since the restriction act went into force, on May 6, 1882. The figures tell a story which will be of deep interest to the whole state, and the working man will hail the announcement that the Mongolian population is decreasing at the rate of nearly 10,000 a year. The departures from this port since the act went into effect, foot up 41,960, against 17,656 arrivals during the same time. The present rate of decrease, by death and departure, with a proper enforcement of the restriction act, will soon settle the Chinese question on this coast.—S. F. Post, 16.

FOREIGN SALMON MARKET.

The future advance in prices which we predicted in our last has now taken place and offers for large parcels of salmon at 9d per case above lately ruling rates have been refused. Holders are very firm, and have advanced their prices from 1s to 1s 6d per case; and there is no Columbia river salmon to be bought under 19s, and very little even at this limit. A further advance seems only a question of days, and those who think to gain by delaying their purchases are likely to find themselves mistaken. The stocks held here are exceedingly light, in fact are considerably less than at the corresponding period for the last three years. This, in conjunction with the 1885 shipments, which will show a deficiency of 200,000 cases, is bound to lead to higher prices; and those best posted in the average consumption of the article are confident that we shall soon see prices again at 24s per case and upwards.—Correspondence London Grocers' Gazette.

A large business has been done in salmon to arrive, and now there is very little offering, and at higher prices than have been asked for a long time past. Having regard to this fact, it is to be noted that the average yearly arrivals for the last three years have been 550,000 cases, all of which were consumed in the natural course; still, this season's pack—the first of which may be expected in about three months hence—cannot possibly exceed, it is said, 250,000 cases, and this fact becoming apparent to dealers and those interested in the article, a very sharp rise and eagerness to buy has set in. It is apprehended in some quarters that a continual advance will take place from time to time during the next twelve months, and that the only possible mode of supplying the English market in summer will be to bring the salmon by rail overland to New York, thereby (as occurred some three or six years ago) enhancing the cost by from 4s to 5s per case. Sacramento river being almost a complete failure, not a single case is expected to arrive in this country; whilst Fraser river is at least one-third short and the proportion of the pack coming here will barely exceed one-half of that of last season or the season before.—Correspondence London Grocers.

A LETTER FROM MAJOR ADAMS.

OFFICE OF THE COLUMBIAN, } St. Helena, Or., Oct. 19, 1885. } EDITOR ASTORIAN, and Astoria Friends:

Having triumphed over my enemies, I would like to meet you all in some hall in Astoria, and recount a lecture entitled "Life in Columbia county during the last twenty years"—commencing with the time when my house was torn down and blown up with powder, to the present date. I shall try to be moderate, nothing extenuate and set down naught in malice. I shall take up a collection, so I wish you all would come silver soled. The imprisonment and vexatious lawsuits instituted against me to break me down have involved me in many and various expenses, and I wish to raise by voluntary contribution and subscription to my paper, enough to lift me completely out of debt, get me a power press, and put me on a firm financial basis, so I shall have enough for myself and to send to my wife so she may not be necessitated to pick apples and gather corn in the frosty fields of Maine by day and by night watch by the sick bed of an aged mother, but be able to hire a man to do the menial labor. I wish also to have money enough to send to my boy, Birney, to buy him warm stockings and boots, so his feet (the feet of a little hero) may not be bitten by the frost. I shall appeal to other cities of Oregon and Washington territory, but I start with you Astoria, as you sit a Queen by the Sea, to raise the banner for the old hero of the Peach Orchard, the lineal descendant of Richard the Lion-Heart, whose crest is a lion full face. Let some of my friends (Astorians are all friends) secure a hall, and name the night, the first of some week as I can then better spare the time, and I will draw with laughs the wrinkles out of your hides and the dryness out of your eyes with tears. Your obedient servant, ENOCH G. ADAMS, Publisher of the Columbian. P. S. Let the ladies come out, as nothing will be said to offend the most fastidious. E. G. A.
