A Debt Paying Day

A general spirit of debt paying will do wonders in building up a community. The merchants will not have to charge so much for their goods if they can avoid bad accounts. They will feel more confidence to go ahead and spend money and make improvements, and the whole town will grow and prosper.

A debt paying day should be inaugurated in city, town and community and all persons who have been extended credit by the merchant and businessmen or who have been favored from time to time with extension of unpaid accounts should endeavor on that particular day to balance the account by payment in full, or make a payment of some amount on the same. It would not only be a business stimulator, but it would put the creditor and debtor in closer touch with each other. The merchants confidence would be strengthened in his willingness to give future credit and the debtor would always feel himself welcome to ask for it.

Juvenile Work of Local Probate Court Endorsed

Without regard to party we endorse the work of Montgomery Webster as Judge of the Probate Division of the Probate court. He has seen this work develop from the passage of the Juvenile Court law to the present day and is more familiar with it than any one else in the county. It is the same kind of work that is being done by Judge Ben Lindsey in Denver with juveniles.

After selling a load of grain a Kalamazoo county farmer went into a restaurant at Kalamazoo to eat, leaving his overcoat in his car outside. When he finished his meal he looked for his coat, but it had disappeared. The clothing stores were closed and the night was too cold to drive to his home without a coat, so the farmer went to a second hand store and bought an old overcoat that fitted him. When he reached home and told his wife his adventure she told him he had bought his own coat in the pawnshop and she was right.

There is a lot of sentiment in the squeeze of the hand by the right person.

Our idea of a man is one who spend two-thirds of his time in getting money and the other third in keeping it.

Seegmiller for Congress

W. A. Seegmiller of Owosso is running against Joseph W. Fordney of Saginaw. The questions for the Eighth District voter to ask himself are: (1) Has Mr. Fordney represented this district long enough? (2) Would it be a good idea to have some new blood at Washington? (3) Does the eighth district want to be represented by a progressive or a "stand-patter"? (4) Are we glad that the country is prosperous and not at war? (5) Do we believe that the president is largely to blame for the present good conditions? (6) Would we like to have these conditions last?—then, (7) Would it not be a good idea to send a man to congress who would help and not hinder the president?

What is "Home Rule" And What It Will Do.

MR. VOTER:

Do not be deceived! The so-called "Home Rule" Amendment is in the interest of the Saloon and Liquor Dealer and against the Home. "Home Rule" is for the saloon. Read this editorial from the Detroit News of October 20th:

"When you go to vote November 7, you will not find the word "Home Rule" on your ballot, because "Home Rule" is a campaign slogan and not the name of the thing you are asked by the liquor interests to vote for.

"When you read the liquor interests' amendment to the constitution of Michigan, it would seem to be giving some new power to cities, villages, and townships; it would seem to be a very gracious permit for them to regulate their own liquor affairs.

"What that proposed amendment actually would do is to take away from those same cities, villages, and townships the power they now have of acting together as a county unit and regulating their own liquor business over a wide enough territory to make such regulation worth while.

"The "Home Rule" amendment really divides and scatters the people of every county into so many separate voting units as to make county regulation of the local liquor traffic an impossible thing.

"And this is the purpose of the whole proposition—to divide and scatter the public sentiment of Michigan, and not only to divide and scatter it, but also to write it into the constitution of the state that the people shall never be able, without a constitutional amendment, to reunite as county forces as they are now able to do.

"The big state question in this campaign is whether the liquor interests are going to be permitted to rewrite the constitution of the state of Michigan."

Vote "YES" on the State-Wide Prohibition Amendment to Section Sixteen and Vote "NO" on the FAKE "HOME RULE" amendment to Section eight.

Satisfy!—that's a new thing for a cigarette to do

It's nothing for a cigarette to just taste good—lots of cigarettes may do that. But Chesterfields do more—they satisfy! Just like a thick, juicy steak satisfies when you're hungry.

Yet, with all that, Chesterfields are MILD!

No other cigarette can give you this new enjoyment (satisfy, yet mild), for the good reason that no cigarette maker can copy the Chesterfield blend—an entirely new combination of tobaccos and the most important development in cigarette blending in 20 years.
