Eveline Suicide

Fred Dean Takes Rifle Route To the Great Beyond.

Fred Dean, a well known resident of Eveline township, committed suicide Monday afternoon last by shooting himself through the heart.

Mr. Dean had lived on his farm near Ironton for several years. About three months ago he purchased the large farm of I. Mitchell in the same township.

Mr. Dean had not been in the best of health lately and several times had been heard to make the remark that he was ready to die.

He was about fifty years of age and leaves a wife and four children. Bertha, Charles and Datus of Charlevoix county, and Mrs. Wilson who resides in the southern part of the state.

Coroner Armstrong held an inquest, the jury bringing in a verdict that he committed suicide while suffering from mental derangement.

The funeral was held Thursday.

A MODERN STORE.

We wonder if our citizens are awake to the fact that there have been a great many improvements made in our business places during the past summer and do we realize how much is really being done?

We wonder if the same improvements had been taking place inside the stores and with the object in view of finding out, we stepped into one of our principal business places the other day and as we started in, we could not help but notice the ingenuity displayed in the arrangement of goods in the window.

We told the merchant as we went in just what we had come for and he invited us to look through his store. He told us before starting in, that stores are not just a place where goods are stored waiting for people to come and buy, but that they are really specialty shops where manufacturers display their best goods, and this we found to be true upon investigation.

We could not help but notice in talking with this merchant, that he called his merchandise, "Lines of goods", as "Lines of shoes", "Lines of clothing", "Lines of hats."

The first of these lines to draw our attention was the shoe line which filled nearly the whole space on one side of the store. We certainly were surprised to see how many different kinds it takes to complete a line of shoes. To illustrate—He showed us one kind of shoe in just one style, in one make which takes from $30.00 to $40.00 worth to have the sizes in just this one line and when you come to consider all of the styles and all of the widths and the different priced shoes that this merchant has on his shelves, it looks as though it would keep him busy to keep track of just this line alone.

Our attention was then directed to the large racks of clothing, and while we had been surprised at the size of the shoe stock, we are certainly amazed at the size of the clothing stock as we had no idea that such an amount of clothing was carried by any one merchant in our city.

Next we were shown the lines of men's ready-to-wear garments such as shirts, collars, neckties, underwear, sweaters and other accessories that go to make up a man's wardrobe, and found as large a stock of these things as the stores in many of the larger cities are showing.

Our attention was then turned to the drygoods department and there we found the most perfect arrangement of corsets, hosiery, piece goods, silks, ribbons, laces and everything you can think of that would be handled in a department of this kind.

We went up stairs and took a look and then went down stairs and took another look and found clear through this up to date store, the same perfect arrangement in all of the various lines.

The merchant told us that there is no such thing any more as hit-or-miss buying, but goods are specialty goods and by this he said he meant, goods that are put out by a manufacturer with some special feature that gives them prominence and thoroughly reliable features.

We must admit we were highly entertained as well as enlightened and would say to anyone who is not thoroughly posted on what is going on by way of improvements in our city, that they would find a trip like this not only interesting, but profitable as well. The particular store that we visited, was the store of Fred E. Boosinger.

"THE SQUAW MAN"

In "The Squaw Man" which comes to the Temple Theatre next Monday evening, Nov. 13th, one finds a play of the West replete with types and characters of that region, and with a spice of novelty that is far too infrequent upon the stage. Strangely enough, for that is true, a drama that touches on the teeming strenuousness of the Wyoming territory, there is little of the swashbuckling element in the play. While there is a bad man and a sheriff, and several cow punchers, one misses the rip-roaring terrifying clash of personalities that is expected in a Western play. In fact, there is no hint of coarse ruffianism so often to be found in plays of this description, and while the emotions are stirred by many moving climaxes, these are safely side-tracked in an artistic manner by the dramatist until they satisfy the sense without shocking the nerves. Edwin Milton Royle who wrote the play, has admittedly done the best work of his career in "The Squaw Man," which by the way, was evolved from a short one-act piece Mr. Royle wrote for the Lambs Gambol in New York quite four years ago. He has built up a drama that is of the heroic mould, and which moves steadily forward with an inexorable purpose until the plot has been filled out in a satisfactory manner down to the last detail. There is no point that is left uncovered, but just a good whole-souled, clean and satisfying picture of men and things that moves the auditor irresistibly and carries him along. It is a play that deals with men as they are, and points to the dormant something that lies at the bottom of every man's soul when there is a woman somewhere in his life. While the first act is laid in England, the last three are placed happily in Wyoming, in the heart of the cattle country as it was some twenty years ago, and the character of the British Army officer, who for love of his brother's wife, deliberately saddles himself with a crime of which he is innocent and buries himself in the West, is splendidly drawn and ably handled.

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Certain Ingredients That Really Promote Hair Growth when Properly Combined

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Naphthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Hillocarpin, although not a coloring matter or dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp.

These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added as a stimulant and for its well-defined nourishing properties, perfect perhaps the most effective remedy that is known for scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely valuable medicinal agents. We guarantee to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair, even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness, or we will refund your money. If the scalp has a glazed shiny appearance, its an indication that baldness is permanent, but in other instances we believe baldness is curable.

We want every one troubled with scalp diseases or loss of hair to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93 per cent of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely unlike, and we think, in every particular better than, any thing else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in East Jordan only at our store—The Rexall Store. The W. C. Spring Drug Co.

Sort of Job He Wanted.

"There's what I'm looking for," said the lazy man going through the want advertisements for an easy job, as his eye lighted on a call for canvassers to sell something that "would sell itself." "That's the sort of a job I want," he said to himself. "Something that I can earn money at without work." And he thought that really some day he must go down and look 'em up.
